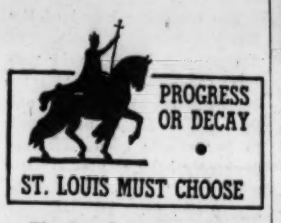
ALDERMEN PASS MEASURES ON MILL CREEK PLAN BY 27 TO 1 VOTE

Two Enabling Bills Clear Way for Start on $250,000,000 Project — Blaine Is Lone Dissenter.



The Board of Aldermen approved the plan for redevelopment of the Mill Creek Valley today, clearing the way for a start on the $250,000,000 project.

It passed two enabling bills by votes of 27 to 1. One measure indorsed the program for rehabilitating the 465-acre slum area and relocating residents whose dwellings are to be replaced by new housing, commercial establishments and industrial plants. The other bill pledged municipal co-operation in providing such facilities as sewers, street lights and sidewalks, vacating streets and making other contributions in defraying the city's share of the cost of the undertaking.

Lone vote against the bills was cast by Alderman Archie Blaine (Dem.), Sixth Ward, who in debate preceding the balloting charged that no provision had been made for rehousing of the area's low-income residents who would be displaced by the development.

Pointing out that 97 per cent of the Mill Creek area is in his ward, Blaine said he had made an "intensive investigation" of project plans.

Calls Rentals Too High.

Rents in the proposed new housing would range from $90 to $125 a month, he said, rates which would put them beyond the reach of most of his constituents.

"I'm in favor of better housing, but not in favor of moving slums to other parts of the city," he said. "The Mill Creek Valley development would provide housing for people who don't need housing."

Alderman Joseph P. Roddy (Dem.), whose Seventeenth ward extends into a small part of the redevelopment area, replied to Blaine's criticism. He pointed out that under federal law, persons relocated must be provided with housing at least equal to that from which they were moved.

Alderman Clinton T. Watson (Dem.), Sixteenth Ward, chairman of the housing and land clearance committee, in an appeal for a favorable vote, declared the bills would pave the way for "a face-lifting project" of greater magnitude than had been undertaken in any other city in the country.

"The redevelopers," he said, "are men who have created confidence among those with whom they have been in contact. They are deeply rooted in St. Louis as realtors and I personally have every confidence in them and their ability to go ahead with this project.

"These are the most important bills to come before this board in a number of years."

Board President Donald Gunn said Watson and his committee deserved praise for their outstanding efforts in connection with the bills.

Alderman DeWitte T. Lawson (Dem.), Nineteenth ward, was the only board member absent at today's session.

Resolution Defeated.

A resolution offered by Alderman Alfred Harris (Dem.), Twenty-second Ward, placing the board on record as demanding a clear picture of all types of construction to be built in

BILL TO REPLACE NUMBER OF STOP SIGNS IS PASSED

Aldermen Vote to Substitute 'Yield Right of Way' — OK $1,100,000 for Airport.

A bill to permit the replacement of many stop signs in St. Louis with "Yield right-of-way" signs was among the 128 measures passed today by the Board of Alderman.

Also passed were appropriation bills of $1,100,000 for expansion at Lambert-St. Louis Field.

One airport appropriation of $950,000 would be used to extend finger ramps, add more gate positions and holding pads and extend paving to the new gate positions. The second bill for $150,000 is for land acquisition to expand the field. Both programs are intended to fit the airport to receive the new jet airliners expected to be in use in a year or so.

This was the final meeting of the board this session.

The "yield right of way" bill, offered by Alderman Joseph F. Noel (Dem.), Twenty-seventh Ward, would require that a motorist approaching an intersection, governed by such a sign must slow down to not more than 15 miles an hour. If the cross street is clear he could proceed. If there is an approaching automobile or pedestrian that might create a hazard, he would have to wait until the intersection is clear.

No intersections are designated in the bill, which is a general addition to the Traffic Code. Specific intersections will have to be selected by the Traffic Commissioner after study.

Among the 85 measures passed affecting traffic movement, there were 57 submitted by Alderman Noel to revise the traffic pattern in northwest St. Louis. Noel's measures, which have the approval of the Traffic Division, create 26 one-way streets in his ward, eliminate stop signs at eight intersections and remove parking restrictions on many streets north of the St. Louis Ordnance Plant.

Under Noel's proposals Park Lane would become a north-

5-DAY AREA FORECAST: CLEAR WEEKEND, THEN RAIN OR SNOW, COLDER

CLEAR SKIES over the weekend, followed by rain or snow and colder temperatures was predicted for the St. Louis area by the Weather Bureau in its five-day extended forecast issued today.

The forecast is sunny weather with moderating temperatures over the weekend, turning colder with rain or snow by Monday or Monday night; continued cold Tuesday and Wednesday; temperatures will average 3 to 7 degrees below normal; normals are highs 56 to 58, lows 37 to 40.

ALDERMEN OPPOSE P.S.CO. PLAN TO END STUDENT PASSES

Elimination of student passes on busses and streetcars as proposed by Public Service Co. was opposed in a resolution adopted by the Board of Aldermen today.

The vote, on a resolution offered by Alderman Alfred I. Harris (Dem.), Twent-second ward, was 27 to 0.

Higher transit rates, with a rise in the basic cash fare from 20 to 25 cents after 3 p.m. and before 9 a.m. Monday through Saturday, also are being sought by the transit firm.

Student passes, now costing $1 a week, are good for unlimited riding without additional fare during school hours. At other times there is an additional charge of 10 cents a ride.

ALDERMEN FACE 100 BILLS WITH 55 SANDWICHES

Members of the Board of Aldermen fortified themselves today with three gallons of coffee and 55 sandwiches against a siege of more than 100 bills scheduled to be passed at the last session of the current fiscal year.

Instead of the regular noon meeting time, the session was to start at 11 o'clock this morning. A roll call tabulation is required on each of the bills passed in the final session.

In anticipation of the long meeting the board yesterday ordered the coffee and food, which included 30 fish, 15 cheese and 10 beef sandwiches.

WASHINGTON DIGGING OUT OF 20-INCH SNOW

300,000 Are Without Power in Area — Pennsylvania Also Hit Hard.

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—Scattered light snow fell on Washington today as the nation's capital slowly recovered from its second big winter storm in two months.

Widespread power failures, caused by power lines snapping under the weight of the wet snow or fallen tree branches, cut off electricity to approximately 300,000 persons in the District of Columbia and in suburban Maryland and Virginia yesterday. Because heating systems in many homes are controlled by electric thermostats, many residents were left without heat.

Power company officials said even with emergency crews working around the clock, service was not expected to be restored in some areas until tomorrow.

The storm, dumping up to 20 inches of snow and slush in some Washington areas, forced the closing of many schools.

School officials in suburban Arlington county, Va., announced schools would remain closed again today because about one third are without heat.

800 Stranded in Pennsylvania Cafe Evacuated.

MORGANTOWN, Pa., March 21 (AP)—The more than 800 persons stranded in a snowbound Pennsylvania turnpike restaurant for 36 hours were evacuated today.

Dr. Richard Gerstell, state civil defense head, said the people — entertainers, truck drivers, motorists, mothers and their babies—who huddled in the darkened, heatless restaurant about 18 miles from Reading, in central Pennsylvania, were safely out.

He said that most of the stranded motorists were taken from the restaurant in busses and trucks, traveling in single lane traffic east and west from the site.

"As far as we are concerned, the crisis is over," Gerstell said.

SAYS EISENHOWER PLAYS ALBERT TO JOHNSON'S POGO

WASHINGTON, March 21 (UP)—Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas, said yesterday that President Eisenhower was like the comic strip character, Albert the Alligator, who "thinks of nothin' alone constantly. . . ."

He cast Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, as Pogo, the energetic possum in the Walt Kelly comic strip (printed in the Post-Dispatch).

"Every suggestion that Pogo has made has been accepted immediately by Albert as something already conceived and desirable beyond question," Fulbright said. He quoted to the Senate this exchange from the comic strip sequence:

"Pogo: Doggone, Albert, I'm givin' out IDEAS and YOU claims they's YOURS! Don't you think of nothin' alone EVER?

"Albert: I think of nothin' alone CONSTANTLY, friend."

Fulbright said, "This exchange between Pogo and Albert seems to me to characterize perfectly the attitude of President Eisenhower toward the present recession and toward the Democratic leader of the Senate."

SENATE RUSHES FARM SUPPORT FREEZE BILL TO EISENHOWER

Democrats Accused of Playing Politics — Lack Strength to Override Threatened Veto.

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—The Senate rushed to President Eisenhower today a farm price support freeze bill which he is likely to veto. The Senate completed congressional action by accepting 48 to 32, a House amendment to limit its effect to 1958.

Previously the Senate had passed the measure without the cut-off 50 to 43. The House bill passed that branch yesterday, 210 to 172.

Thirteen Republicans joined with 35 Democrats in today's vote. Most of the Republicans are from midwest and western states regarded as doubtful in recent national elections. On the losing side were 28 Republicans and four Democrats.

The measure would prevent any reduction in price supports and acreage allotments below 1957 levels. Mr. Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson have expressed sharp opposition to it. Benson has asked Congress for authority to lower supports on basic commodities to 60 per cent, as compared with the 75 per cent floor in present law.

Republican Senators charged that Democrats were playing politics by rushing the bill through, in an effort to embarrass the President.

Neither the Senate vote on original passage nor the House vote yesterday was heavy enough to override a veto, which takes a two-thirds majority.

Democratic backers of the freeze contended they were giving the farm economy a half-billion dollar shot in the arm, not playing politics.

The Senate passed and sent to the White House the first of the regular appropriations bills to move through Congress for the fiscal year starting July 1. It carried $4,108,108,000 to operate the Treasury and Post Office departments and the tax court. The measure was approved by voice vote exactly as it came from the House.

For the Post Office, the bill provided $3,402,000,000, a cut of $19,121,000 from the Administration request but an increase of $77,000,000 over last year's appropriation.

The Treasury was allotted $704,672,000, which was $5,260,000 more than the Administration asked for and $5,060,000 more than was allotted this year.

Passed Second Time.

The Senate yesterday passed for the second time this month a bill increasing the lending authority of the export-import bank by two billion dollars to a total of seven billion.

The measure, which now goes to the House, was passed March 3. Senator Jenner protested that it had been approved without adequate notice and moved to reconsider. At the request of Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate agreed without dissent to reconsider. Then, after a brief speech in opposition by Jenner, it again passed the bill on a standing vote.

The House Post Office and Civil Service Committee agreed to consider next Thursday bills providing pensions for former Presidents and boosting the pay of Civil Service employes. Both measures have been passed by the Senate.

The pension bill would give any former President $25,000 annually plus a rent-free office, a Government-paid office staff and free mailing privileges. Widows of former Presidents would receive an annual pension of $10,000.

The pay rise bill would give classified employes an annual increase of 7½ per cent.

By the United Press.

Chairman Oren Harris (Dem.), Arkansas, of the House Commerce Committee introduced yesterday a bill to help railroads, bus lines and trucking firms "offset the effects of the recession."

His bill would provide for Government guarantees on any loans made by common carriers to increase or improve their equipment. The Government liability would apply to unpaid interest and 90 per cent of the total of an individual loan. The Interstate Commerce Commission would have to rule that the railroad could not obtain a loan without such a Government guarantee.

The bill would also apply to waterways carriers and pipeline companies as well as to railroads.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 21 (AP)—A Houston man landed his light airplane on a San Antonio street yesterday. He took off after minor engine repairs.

U.S. OFFICIAL EXPECTING NO FALL IN NEXT FEW MONTHS

Index at 122.5 Pct. of 1947-49 Average — President and Cabinet Hold Two-Hour Session.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 21—The cost of living hit another record high in February, the Government reported today. Another rise in food prices was principally responsible.

Commissioner Ewan Clague of the Bureau of Labor statistics said he could see little hope for a drop in living costs in the next few months, despite the general business recession. He indicated he though food prices might continue upward.

The official consumer price index rose .2 per cent last month, reaching a new high of 122.5 per cent of the 1947-49 average. This is 3.2 per cent higher than a year ago.

(In St. Louis the food price index continued its upward trend with an advance of .4 per cent from January to February, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported. An increase of 3.4 per cent was reported in fruits and vegetables; .9 per cent in meats, poultry and fish and .1 per cent in cereals. The February food price index in St. Louis is 3.3 per cent above that for the corresponding month a year ago.)

Report on Earnings.

While the cost of living continued to go up nation-wide, the weekly spendable (after taxes) earnings of factory workers showed a slight decrease, meaning a drop in purchasing power.

A worker with three dependents had average take-home pay of $73.71 a week in February, compared with $73.88 in January. The figure for a worker with no dependents was $66.33 a week in February and $66.50 the month before. In each case, the decrease was 17 cents weekly. Compared with a year ago, purchasing power of factory workers was down by almost 5 per cent, Clague said.

(Meanwhile, the United Press said, as prices rose and employment fell:

(President Eisenhower discussed the economic situation with his Cabinet at a meeting which lasted two hours and 10 minutes. There was no announcement afterward.

(The House Appropriations Committee voted $6,549,920,900 to finance more than a dozen agencies in the year starting July 1. The committee, reflecting the recession mood of Congress, gave President Eisenhower $627,577,000 more than he asked for. Last year at this time it was voting him less than he requested in most cases. In the new bill is $177,255,000 to finance direct government construction of 66 public buildings. The committee said this would be simpler and less expensive than the current lease-purchase system.)

Rise in Food Prices.

Food prices rose .4 per cent, the greatest increase in any of the general categories covered by the index. The February food price index pushed to 118.7 per cent of the 1947-49 base period. This was an increase of 4.5 per cent over the figure a year ago.

The increase in February meant that the over-all cost of living has risen in 16 out of the last 18 months, establishing a new record each time. The last time the index as a whole showed a drop was in August 1956.

Since then, there have been only two months—October and December of last year—when living costs held steady, without an increase or decrease. Otherwise, the trend has been uniformly upward.

Clague said the reason that living costs are not responding to the current business decline, but instead continuing to go up, is that most consumer prices do not immediately reflect general economic conditions.

Farmers, for instance, had a recession of their own two years ago and farm prices dropped then but have been going up recently, with a resultant increase in food costs to the consumer, Clague explained. Food prices are a major factor in the consumer price index.

"Indirect" Connection.

Generally speaking, there is only an "indirect" and not immediate connection between

PRESIDENT TO FLY TO AUGUSTA, GA., FOR THE WEEKEND

WASHINGTON, March 21 (UP) — President Eisenhower will fly to Augusta, Ga., early tomorrow for a weekend of golf and rest.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said the President decided to make the trip after hearing about the good weather in Augusta.

The forecast is for a mild weekend, with no rain and temperatures in the high 50s and low 60s, Hagerty said.

Earlier today the President had canceled a flight to West Point because of the stormy weather.

The President had planned to go to West Point to take part in Founders' day ceremonies. The trip was canceled because of generally bad weather both in Washington and in the West Point area, on the ground and in the air. Highway conditions around West Point, blanketed with heavy snow, were described as quite bad.

STUDENT LOANS AT ST. LOUIS U. SHOW INCREASE

A decrease in part-time jobs normally held by students has resulted in a greater number of loans to students by St. Louis University this year, the Rev. Matthias B. Martin, dean of student affairs, said today.

Statistics kept by Father Martin show that 120 students borrowed a total of $25,000 during the second semester this year, compared with $9500 borrowed by 50 students in the same period last year.

The loans are primarily for tuition, but may also be made for housing or emergencies.

At Washington University, Dean of Students Arno J. Haack said that requests for student loans there are about 10 or 15 per cent greater this year than last. Requests for loans fluctuate year by year, and this increase is not considered particularly significant, he said.

FREAK SHOWER OF SNOW FALLS FOR 10 MINUTES

A freak snow shower fell on downtown St. Louis for 10 minutes today, from 12:35 to 12:45 p.m.

"It was like a summer rain shower, except that it was snow," said a staff assistant at the weather bureau.

Conditions that caused the precipitation were brought on by "an instability of overturning air layers" in the upper air, it was explained. The weather bureau did not predict the snow.

Political Implications.

GILLINGHAM, England, March 21 (UP)—The local road committee today barred a safety poster with the slogan "good drivers keep well to the left." The committee feared that with civic elections coming up the poster might be mistaken for labor party propaganda.

STORE OWNER AND HOLDUP MAN SHOT IN FIGHT

Robber Was One of Three Who Tried Unsuccessfully to Loot Firm on Delmar.

John Gazzoli, owner of the Star Novelty Co., 4151 Delmar boulevard, was shot six times and seriously wounded today in a fight with three holdup men, one of whom was wounded by bullets from Gazzoli's pistol. The other two fled without loot.

The wounded robber told police his name was Johnny Green, but detectives who know him said he was Robert E. Burns, a former convict who is at liberty on bond from a $6642 robbery of a Granite City tavern and a $1000 robbery of a Bettendorf market at Clayton and Hanley roads. He was shot in the right arm and taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital.

Gazzoli, 43 years old, who lives at 10 Daniel road, Ladue, was shot once in each shoulder and four times in the chest and abdomen. He was taken to Faith Hospital.

Police learned the three men came into the company with pistols drawn. Gazzoli at a desk in the office to the left of the door saw them. He drew his .38 caliber pistol from his pocket and started shooting at them through a glass partition.

Burns apparently rushed at Gazzoli, police said, because the two men struggled and Gazzoli struck Burns on the head with his pistol and shot him in the arm.

Burns fell to the floor and his companions, who were in back of him, started shooting at Gazzoli, who returned their fire. Police estimated about 10 shots were fired in the place.

Harry Dorn, manager of the company, heard the shooting from a rear room. As he ran toward the office, Gazzoli staggered and fell beside Burns.

Dorn took the pistols from Gazzoli and Burns and started after the other two robbers, who were running out the front door. As Dorn was about to fire, one of the robbers stopped at an automobile, grabbed a pistol from the floor and fired one shot at Dorn. The slug lodged in the wall behind him.

The two then fled west in Delmar and through an alley to Enright avenue, police said. Officers traced one of the men to a house in the 4100 block of Enright. There they found a pistol that had recently been fired four times.

In their flight the robbers abandoned their automobile, parked on the lot in front of

Russians Under U.S. Bar Wined, Dined by Argonne Scientists

CHICAGO, March 21 (UP)—Scientists from Argonne National Laboratory held a special party last night for three Russian scientists who were denied permission to visit two nuclear installations in the Chicago area.

The Soviet scientists, Drs. Victor Spitsyne, I. T. Aladyev, and S. V. Mamikojan, unlike other delegates to the Atom Fair and Nuclear Energy Congress here, were not allowed to go on a tour of Argonne and a nuclear plant under construction in nearby Grundy county.

To make up for the State Department refusal, Argonne scientist Herbert H. Hyman said, 12 of his fellow scientists invited the Russians to a roast beef dinner, preceded by martinis.

Hyman said the Argonne scientists were trying to make amends for the State Department restriction which he said was "strictly retaliatory," a reference to similar Soviet curbs on American visitors. Classified information is available to no visitors to Argonne, he said.

INQUIRY GROUP MEMBER SHOWN AS INTERVENING IN FCC MATTER

Congressman Wolverton Wrote Letter on Behalf of TV Channel Applicant, Witness Reveals.

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP) — Representatve Charles A. Wolverton (Rep.), New Jersey, a member of the House subcommittee investigating attempts to influence the Federal Communications Commission, was disclosed today to have intervened with the FCC once himself.

Paul A. Porter, former chairman of the commission, produced a letter written to the FCC in 1953 by Wolverton, asking for quick action on a television case.

Porter said he was not suggesting Wolverton did anything improper but ratehr was pointing out that intervention by members of Congress is common in the affairs of regulatory agencies.

Porter was testifying before the House subcommittee as attorney for A. Frank Katzentine, a losing applicant for Miami's TV Channel 10. There has been testimony that Katzentine sought to enlist aid from several Senators for his application.

Intended as Compliment.

Wolverton, who has been critical of intervention by Senators in the Miami TV case, asked Porter why he, rather than other members of the House subcommittee, was singled out as an example.

Porter said he intended to pay Wolverton a compliment—to show that even such "an unimpeachable" member of Congress as the elderly about-to-retire New Jersey congressman would go to bat for a constituent.

"I regret that I am unable to see it in that light," Wolverton commented.

At the time of the correspondence, Wolverton was chairman of the House Commerce Committee, which oversees the FCC. Currently he is sponsoring a "code of ethics" bill designed to screen officials of regulatory agencies from improper outside influences.

The Wolverton letter, dated March 30, 1953, was addressed to Paul A. Walker, then FCC chairman, and asked for a hearing two day later on Channel 17 in Camden, N.J.

Wolverton said that as the representative of New Jersey's First District he was "very much interested in the application of South Jersey Broadcasting Co." for the channel.

Conflict Removed.

His letter said the company's application had conflicted with an application by Westinghouse Radio Stations, Inc. But Westinghouse, he said, had filed an application for permission to purchase station WPTZ, operating on Channel 3 in Philadelphia.

Wolverton said that since FCC rules preclude an applicant from seeking two applications to operate in the same area, the Westinghouse application amounted to a dismassal of its bid to operate Channel 17.

"It is my understanding that you have a 'practice' requiring an application for a 'pass over' city to be 'in the clear' for at least one week before it will be acted upon by the commissioners."

Wolverton went on to say the commission was in a position to act on the South Jersey application April 1, and he asked that the matter be placed on the FCC agenda that day and the South Jersey application granted "if a grant otherwise appears to be in the public interest."

Turned Down.

A letter from Walker said that Wolverton's request had been turned down as contrary to commission rules.

Porter testified he felt certain pressure had been brought on Commissioner Richard A. Mack while the Miami case was pending before the FCC. He said he had "no first hand knowledge" of any commitment by Mack to support the rival application of a National Airlines subsidiary.

Porter related to the subcommittee that Katzentine telephoned him sometime in 1955 and said he had heard Mack was pledged to vote for National Airlines.

Lawyer and Psychiatrist.

Katzentine, a Miami Beach radio station operator, called him every time he heard a rumor, Porter added, and commented: "you have to serve the dual function of lawyer and psychiatrist in these kind of cases."

Porter said he and his client had no knowledge prior to the House hearings of financial transactions and telephone calls between Mack and Thurman A. Whiteside, a Miami lawyer who at one time was plugging the National Airlines application.

Porter said he talked with Katzentine; Perrine Palmer, former mayor of Miami, and Jerry Carter, Florida Railroad Commission member, in a "discussion cast in terms" of a commitment on Mack's part.

Under questioning, Porter said he did not talk to any Senators about the Channel 10 matter but in the fall of 1956, at Katzentine's request, did deliver some documents on the case to Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, and had a brief discussion with Kefauver. He said he did not ask Kefauver to do anything.

He said also he had written to Senator A. S. Mike Monroney (Dem.), Oklahoma, saying he believed the policy issue of whether an airline should have a TV grant was before the FCC in the Channel 10 matter. Porter said he wrote the letter after the press had indicated a Senate committee was interested in the policy issue.

There has been testimony of efforts by Katzentine, or others in his behalf, to approach Senators about the case. Porter said he was aware of Katzentine's activities. He said he constantly admonished Katzentine, as he did other clients, to make no "ex parte representations" to the commission concerning the issues of the TV case; that is, to make no arguments outside of the regular proceedings.

Asked why he didnot approach the commission about Mack's disqualifying himself from voting in the case, Porter said he didnot think he and his client had sufficient proof to take formal steps.

Before today's session, chairman Oren Harris (Dem.), Arkansas, indicated to reporters that he would press for a faster work schedule by the subcommittee. It was set up to study operations of six federal agencies, but for more than a month has been engrossed with one case handled by one agency — the FCC decision in the Miami TV Case.

The FCC voted 4-2 in February 1957 to award the channel 10 license to Public Service Television, Inc., owned by National Airlines. It moved to reconsider the case as a result of disclosures in the House hearings. These disclosures forced Mack to resign March 3.

Harris said that before the subcommittee concludes its study of the case he wants to get testimony from other commissioners as to whether any improper pressures were applied to them.

Harris said he hoped to call a subcommittee meeting this afternoon to set a windup date for the Channel 10 hearings.

"We've got to have full speed ahead instead of putting the brakes on" for the committee to do its job, he said.

STILL IN LOVE WITH EX-QUEEN, SHAH REVEALS

TEHRAN, March 21 (UP)—Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi told the people of Iran today he divorced his childless queen "to insure the future of the country."

The 39-year-old monarch addressed his people in a radio broadcast marking the start of the Moslem new year. He left no doubt he still loved Queen Soraya, 25, whom he divorced last week after seven years of marriage.

"I am sorry not to be able to personally participate in the rejoicing of my nation on this festive occasion," he said. In order to insure the future of the country and to safeguard the hereditary monarchy, I was constrained to part with my dear spouse who during difficult times in the past seven years ever shared my sorrows and was always my faithful companion."

He called this decision "one of the most difficult I have ever made."

BRITAIN'S CHIEF JUSTICE RULES 39 IS VERY YOUNG

LONDON, March 21 (AP)—Lord Goddard, Britain's Lord Chief Justice, took issue yesterday with a defense lawyer who described the 39-year-old plaintiff as "not very young."

"He is just approaching the prime of life," declared his lordship. "Thirty-nine is very young nowadays. I have known people of 80 who have quite a good time."

Lord Goddard, who is 80, then awarded plaintiff Frederick W. Stroud damages of £16,830 ($47,124) for injuries in a dock accident.

SOVIET DANCERS CAN'T FLY TO U.S. IN JET AIRLINERS

WASHINGTON, March 21 (UP)—The United States has turned down a Moscow request to let two Soviet jet airliners land in the New York area with about 150 members of a Russian dance ensemble, it was learned today.

In a note, the State Department said it welcomes Soviet plans to bring the Moiseyev dance troupe to this country, but suggested the Russians "make arrangements for travel to the United States by some other means."

Moscow has expressed interest in opening direct air service between Russia and the United States.

The American note pointed out that the proposed flights: Were unofficial, compared with previous flights carrying Soviet diplomats.

The Moisheyev ensemble is being brought to the United States under terms of the American-Soviet exchange agreement. The troupe is scheduled to arrive in New York April 14 and tour other American cities after giving New York performances.

Only Five New Polio Cases.

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—Only five new cases of polio were reported last week, the fewest for any March week since 1942. A year ago the states reported 34 cases, Public Health Service said.

SENATOR CALLS KOHLER CO. AND UAW 'ARBITRARY'

McClellan Says Stand in Strike Shows Need for New Labor Relations Laws.

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—Chairman John L. McClelland (Dem.) Arkansas, told the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee today both the union and the company have been "pretty obstinate" in the Kohler strike. He said this shows there is need for some new labor relations laws.

The committee is investigating violence and boycotting in the United Auto Workers strike—now nearly four years old—against the Kohler Co. of Kohler, Wis. No agreement to end the strike is in sight. The company continues to manufacture bathroom fixtures with a staff of nonstrikers and new employes.

McClelland did not indicate exactly what new laws he said are needed. His remarks interrupted testimony by Leo Breirather, UAW's official "boycott co-ordinator." The Senator said he was not "necessarily condemning" either the union or the Kohler Co., but that "you both started out pretty obstinate, and remained the same to the present."

Under McClellan's questioning, Breirather said he considered the union boycott against Kohler products has been effective. He said, however, that it could not be called a success because "we have not put pressure enough on the Kohler Co. to bring them to the bargaining table."

McClellan suggested this meant that the union's use of "economic force" has not "compelled and forced the company to surrender to the will of the union."

He said the objectives in such a boycott appear to be to force the struck company to "close down or so reduce their business . . . that they must yield or suffer the consequences."

"The battle is still in doubt, so to speak," Breirather said. He added he did not subscribe to McClellan's use of the word "surrender."

Anthony B. Champagne, a Chicago lawyer, invoked the Fifth amendment about 20 times in refusing to answer questions leading toward an investigation of alleged shakedowns and use of gangsters to settle labor disputes.

The committee, interrupting its Kohler inquiry, called Champagne as a witness in connection with other hearings it intends to hold later. These hearings will deal with employer associations in Chicago and elsewhere, their relation to labor unions, and the employment of attorneys to settle labor disputes by "unusual methods." Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said they would deal with employment of "gangsters and hoodlums" to bring about settlements and the use of shakedowns and other forms of collusion.

INDONESIA ARMY SAYS 300 REBELS ARE ENTRAPPED

Medan Commander Who Went Over to Insurgents Is Isolated Near Lake Toba.

JAKARTA, March 21 (AP)—The army commander who rebelled this week and held the North Sumatran port of Medan for 27 hours before it was recaptured is now trapped, the Indonesian army claimed today.

The army spokesman, Lt. Col. Rudy Pirngadi, said Maj. Boyke Nainn Golan and about 300 soldiers are "completely isolated" near Lake Toba, a resort 50 miles southwest of Medan. He said the troops are pinned along the east side of the lake without boats.

Golan's battalion in Medan rebelled against the Jakarta government last Sunday but Jakarta troops retook the important commercial center the next day. Since then Jakarta says ground forces and fighter-bombers have been pursuing Golan and another group of insurgents who were reported fleeing north.

"Hundreds of rebel troops," have surrendered, Pirngadi claimed.

The two pursuits were the only military activity, aside from scattered guerrilla fighting, reported on Sumatra. Pakanbaru, the Central Sumatran oil center recaptured by Jakarta forces March 12, was reported quiet.

The chief of army intelligence, Col. Sukendro, claimed that more than 100 rebels have been killed in the five-week-old civil war while casualties of the Jakarta government so far are only two killed.

The Dutch liner Oranje landed 520 foreign evacuees from Medan at Singapore today. They included 122 Americans, mostly women and children, 280 Dutch, and more than 100 Britons.

(One of the Americans arriving in Singapore aboard the Oranje was Michael Mazely of Gillespie, Ill., a sales representative with Goodyear Rubber Co. in Medan, the United Press reported.

(He said rebel troops were massing outside the city and that the government was digging fortifications inside Medan and around the airfield. He said the general feeling there was that the government could not hold Medan because of the hostile Sumatrans.)

Army Setting Up Its Jupiter C In New Bid to Launch Satellite

First Stage of Rocket on Stand at Cape Canaveral — Firing Is Possible Within Week.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., March 21 (AP)—The Army has mounted the Redstone first stage of its Jupiter C rocket on a mobile launching stand in preparation for a new satellite launching attempt, probably within a week.

The three high-speed solid propellant upper stages of the Jupiter C have not been installed. The satellite itself, apart of the fourth stage, will not be put in place until the day of the launching.

The Air Force admitted 75 reporters and photographers from Washington and New York City to its missile test center today and allowed them to inspect at close hand the launching mechanism for the next Explorer satellite.

The Navy's Vanguard launching tower nearby was empty.

"We have seven more Vanguards in our program," the Navy briefing officer said. "Two of them are in the hangar here at the Cape."

Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates, chief of the test center, said in a briefing that in the large number of missile launching in the last two years only three could be considered complete failures.

The Army's Jupiter C, carrying Explorer II, was one of them, a failure because its satellite never orbited. Yates added that the cause of the Jupiter C failure was "easily identified, easily corrected." He declined to elaborate.

Yates said the other two complete failures of the past two years were: the last of the Navahos—the supersonic ramjet vehicle that plunged oceanward 20 seconds after takeoff Feb. 25—and a Matador guided missile that was destroyed in order to save its own launching stand on which it threatened to fall.

On the other hand, Yates said, it would be hard to consider any one of the Vanguard launchings a failure, even the one that blew up just above its launching pad Dec. 6.

The Air Force released information on the operation of a new missile impact predictor system called Azusa. It enables the operator to predict during the powered flight of a missile the exact area in which the missile would land if its engine thrust cut off.

Developed by Convair Astronautics Division of General Dynamics Corp., the device is used to make sure constantly that a ballistic missile is within safe limits during its flight.

The Air Force also provided the visitors with descriptive details of the Convair-designed 12-story tall steel towers used to launch the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile.

The towers, larger than most oil derricks, serve as cranes to erect the missiles, as work platforms for crews that check the missiles for flight, and as environmental shelters to protect the delicate instruments on them. They are among the largest of the missile towers.

The facilities on the Atlas towers include electrical and pneumatic air systems for machine and automatic tools, a demineralized water system for washing down the missile, sliding waterproof curtains to protect the missile and workers from weather and from prying eyes, a complete communications system to the blockhouse with two-way speakers at each station, two types of fire protection systems, an emergency escape cable on which workmen at the upper stations can slide to the ground, and a complete lighting system for night work.

Seven retractable platforms encircle the missile at regular intervals, enabling engineers and technicians to work on any part of the missile while it is upright. Two elevators capable of holding 16 men each, take workers and equipment to various stations on the tower.

When the pre-launch countdown begins in the blockhouse 750 feet away from the tower, the tower is in use until, at an advanced point in the countdown, it is rolled back 500 feet away from the launch site.

Scientist Urge Speedy Program for Flight to Moon.

WASHINGTON, March 21 (UP)—A committee of United States satellite scientists recommended today "with utmost urgency" adoption of a long-range program they drew up for carrying man to the moon and the planets. They said it was clear that manned space flight is possible and that it is "hard to conceive of mankind stopping short when such a tempting goal is within reach."

The scientists who drafted the program work on the earth satellite project for the United States committee for the International Geophysical Year. They submitted it to the National Academy of Sciences and the National Science Foundation.

CAN'T DEPEND ON AEC REPORTS, SCIENTISTS SAY

Group Cites Underground Test Mixup, Charges Political Twisting of Facts.

WASHINGTON, March 21 (UP) — A group of scientists charges that the Atomic Energy Commission cannot be trusted to report accurately the facts needed to formulate a disarmament policy. They cite a recent AEC correction of a report in which it gave erroneous information about how far an underground nuclear explosion had been detected last September.

The executive board of the 2000-member Federation of American Scientists said yesterday the episode had "alarming implications," pointing out that United States agreement to bar atomic tests "has undoubtedly been delayed by apprehension" about the detectability of atom blasts.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, has charged the AEC's actions in the underground test case indicated "someone" was using scientific facts "to prove a political point" about detection of nuclear tests.

The scientists said the mixup over the underground test, plus the AEC's "incomplete and . . . misleading" statements on radioactive fallout, proved the commission was willing to make facts public "only under the pressure of outside scrutiny by non-governmental experts."

The federation said: "It is imperative that in the future the Administration draw upon a more broadly representative group of scientists for its advice and that scientists not intimateiy associated with large-scale Government programs be included."

The AEC originally said shock waves from the Nevada test were detected no farther than 250 miles away. The commission later issued a correction saying the blast had been detected as far away as 2320 miles.

The AEC attributed the incident to an "inadvertent error." The joint congressional Atomic Energy Committee last week accepted this explanation.

DEADLOCK OVER BLOCKING OF SEWER TRUSTEE REAPPOINTMENT

Williams Denounces Failure of Judges to Confirm Him—Matthews Not Naming a Replacement.

St. Louis county judges and officials were deadlocked today over reappointment of J. E. Williams Jr., chairman of the board of trustees of the Metropolitan St. Louis Sewer District. St. Louis county Supervisor Luman F. Matthews announced he would not name a replacement for Williams, "at least for the present."

Meanwhile, the failure of the circuit judges of the county to approve the reappointment was denounced as "unwarranted" by Williams, who started a vigorous effort to win confirmation.

Williams's appointment by Matthews to a second consecutive four-year term on the board was blocked Wednesday by the circuit judges, whose approval is necessary under the sewer district charter. The Post-Dispatch was told a tie vote resulted when the three Democratic judges voted against Williams, who is a Republican. He was supported by the three Republican judges.

Wants Judges to Reconsider.

Matthews said he would not submit a replacement for Williams, pending an attempt to have the judges reconsider their action. He added:

"I think they should approve the appointment of Mr. Williams because he is well qualified for the position. I have been advised by the county counselor's office that the nomination still is before the judges even thought it was not approved Wednesday. If it is necessary to resubmit the appointment to have it reconsidered, I will be happy to do that."

Presiding Judge Noah Weinstein, Democrat, when informed of Matthews's statement, said: "I suggest Mr. Matthews submit a new appointment. If Mr. Williams is the only qualified man in St. Louis county to serve on the sewer board, we are in bad shape, and I don't believe that."

The judges' failure to approve Williams's reappointment was "a final action as far as I am concerned," Judge Weinstein said.

'Entitled to Change.'

He repeated the belief he expressed yesterday that recent criticism of sewer district activities showed the public wanted a change in trustees. The public is entitled to a change, he said, declaring:

"The sewer district is a public institution not 'Rip' Matthews's private institution."

Weinstein denied that the failure to confirm Williams was a political maneuver intended to embarrass Matthews and other Republicans. He pointed out that any successor who might be named in Williams's place would be a Republican and as a result there would be no political advantage for the Democrats.

Both Matthews and Williams said they hope to meet with the circuit judges in an effort to resolve the deadlock.

Williams, who is head of the J. E. Williams Construction Co., 6490 Page boulevard, Wellston, said he conferred yesterday with Judge Michael J. Carroll, one of the three Democratic judges in the county.

"At his suggestion I plan to see Judge Weinstein and ask him to call a meeting of the court en banc, at which I can appear," he said. "I would like to know their reasons for rejecting my nomination. I also want an opportunity to answer any questions they may have and to explain the operations of the sewer district to them."

Sees Reputation Affected.

Williams termed the action of the judges a reflection on his reputation as a citizen and a contractor, adding:

"I want to be reappointed as a vote of confidence. I think every trustee on the sewer board is entitled to a vote of confidence and a lot of praise.

"There is no reason for changing the personnel of the board," he continued. "I don't agree with judge Weinstein's view that the public wants a change in trustees. The present board is handling the problems of the sewer district as well as is possible."

Pointing out that he has served as a trustee since the first sewer board was appointed in 1954, Williams stated he has attended all regular and special meetings of the board in that time and that many of its public hearings as well.

"I have seen the district born and seen it get sick as an infant," he stated. "Now it is beginning to get well and I want to stay with it."

Williams, who lives at 2717 North Geyer road, Frontenac, cited improvements in service and maintenance that he said have resulted since he was appointed chairman last July.

Praised by Kehr.

William Q. Kehr, executive director of the district, said Williams has worked extremely hard on the agency's problems. "He has been instrumental in some of the most significant improvements we have made," Kehr declared.

"One of the most important things Mr. Williams did after becoming chairman of the board," he added, "was to appoint liaison committees of trustees to work with staff members in each department. This has resulted in better understanding of problems by the board and in faster solution of problems.

"He always has given full support to the staff in efforts to improve our operations."

The legal staff of the sewer district has given an opinion that, under the district charter, Williams will remain a member of the board until a successor is appointed and confirmed.

When the initial appointments of county members of the sewer board were made by Matthews in 1954, they were opposed by Weinstein and Judge Douglas L. C. Jones, who were the only Democratic members of the county circuit bench at that time. They said they lacked sufficient information about the appointees, including Williams, to warrant confirmation. The four Republican judges voted for the nominees and the appointments were confirmed.

the novelty company. Mrs. William Hill, who lives next door to the company, told police she saw three men in the same automobile looking over the building last night.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Robert D. Kingsland and a stenographer were sent to the hospital to obtain a statement from Gazzoli. Such a statement would be for use as evidence in court should Gazzoli's wounds be fatal.

Star Novelty, distributors of cigarette and pin ball machines, was fined $500 in 1954 for offering for sale cigarettes that did not bear a city tax stamp. In 1951, inspectors of the City License Collector's office confiscated some cigarette machines of the company after they were found to contain packages of cigarettes with fraudulent city tax stamps on them.

Interests in 10 Taverns.

There were reports that Gazzoli had financial interests in about 10 taverns throughout the city, which use vending machines from his company.

Detectives of the hoodlum squad, who have had Burns under observation for some time, went to a flat in the 4500 block of Forest Park avenue, where he was known to have lived at times.

With the flat surrounded, Detective Capt. John Doherty and Detective Capt. Thomas Moran went through the basement to a door that enters into the first-floor apartment where Burns stayed. When the occupants would not unlock the door, Doherty shot the lock off with a blast from a shotgun.

Inside officers arrested Forest Allen Parker, Clarence Enloe, Eugene Hall, all former convicts, and two women, Miss Myra Hart, a waitress, and Mrs. Ellanor Garger, a beautician.

While officers were there, two more former convicts walked in and were promptly arrested. They were Marvin Dale Berry and Norman (Bosco) Owens. All were taken to headquarters where the women and Owens and Hall were booked suspected of possessing burglar tools and the others were booked suspected of robbery.

Police found a rifle, shotgun, pistol, two crowbars, screw drivers, sledge hammers, rubber masks, eight pairs of sunglasses and a large tarpaulin in the apartment, which they said was rented by Hall and the two women.

Enloe was arrested with Burns following the Bettendorf holdup last Jan. 24 and Parker was arrested with Burns following the Granite City robbery last Feb. 1. Berry was the third man arrested in the Granite City crime. All are at liberty on bonds.

Fined $500 in 1954.

Ernest Brown was shot and seriously wounded last night by a robber who fled with $50 taken from a cash register in Brown's drug store at 799 Bayard avenue. Brown's brother, Charles, fired three shots at the fleeing man.

Ernest Brown, 22 years old, 5072 Cates avenue, was taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital. Physicians said he was shot in the left shoulder, left side of the chest and left forearm.

Charles Brown, 42, of 4564 Cote Brilliante avenue, told police the robber came in the store about 9:30 o'clock and ordered abhesive tape. When the older brother turned to get it, the man pulled a pistol from his coat pocket and announced the holdup. At that moment, Ernest Brown walked out of the prescription room in the rear.

The robber forced the brothers back to the prescription room at pistol point. He told them to stay there. Then he apparently stole the money.

Charlese Brown said he and his brother believed the man had left and came from the rear room into the store about one minute later. As they did, the robber, who was at the front door, fired four shots at them. Three of the shots hit Ernest and he fell to the floor.

"I grabbed an old automatic from under the counter and fired three or four shots at the man, but I don't think I hit him," Charles Brown said.

The robber ran south on Bayard.

$200,000 CONTRACT SUIT

A $200,000 damage suit was filed in circuit court today by ChromCraft Corp., 4321 Semple avenue, against Central States Paper and Bag Co., 5221 Natural Bridge avenue, alleging failure to deliver paper tubes for rocket launchers.

ChromCraft received a $3,934,700 Air Force contract for the launchers, to be made for fighter planes, last July and subcontracted part of the work to Central States, it was stated.

CITY BUDGET PUT AT $63,019,000, REQUESTS CUT

Still $6,000,000 Above Expected Income Unless Earnings Tax Is Boosted.

Departmental requests of $69,456,000 for operating the city for the fiscal year beginning April 8 have been cut to $63,019,000 by Budget Director E. G. Schubkegel it was announced today. He submitted a tentative budget to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

The draft, which is still more than $6,000,000 higher than estimated income for next year of $56,800,000, unless the earnings tax is increased, will be the subject of a public hearing by the Estimate Board next Friday at 11 a.m.

After the hearing in Room 208, City Hall, the Estimate Board will draft a final budget for submission to the Board of Aldermen.

Schubkegel said his tentative budget of $63,019,000 is intended to permit each department to render exactly the same services it is now performing and noes not include a single added function.

The increase over the budget for the current year now drawing to a close includes a $1,800,000 annual salary increase for employes in the classified service; a $1,200,000 extra pay period in the next fiscal year; a salary increase of $100,000 voted by the Legislature for certain city officials and employes, and $385,000 in increased cost of materials and supplies. The current budget was balanced last summer only by drawing on certain accumulated funds which will not be available this year.

The prospective budget allows the Police Department only $14,468,000, the same amount as the current year, because the department has not yet submitted its proposed appropriation. However, H. Sam Priest, president of the Board of Police Commissioners, has indicated a substantial increase will be sought. Whatever request is made must be granted by the city, since it has no fiscal control over the Poilce Board.

Schubkegel's proposed budget could be balanced only if the city receives an authorization from the Legislature for voters to approve a rise in the earnings tax. A bill now before the Senate would permit an increase up to a limit of four-fifths of 1 per cent, but the approaching close of the special session makes its enactment by both houses very doubtful.

Even with a four-fifths earnings tax rate, additional sources of revenue would be necessary, Schubkegel said.

Departments over which the city has fiscal control asked for $48,575,000 for next year's operations. Schubkegel trimmed these requests to $42,200,000. The departments are expected to complete the current year's operations on a budget of $38,695,000.

Largest cut made by the budget director was in the Department of Public Welfare, which operates the city's hospitals, penal institutions and parks. Its request of $25,100,000 was cut to $20,542,000 by Schubkegel. It is operating on a current budget of $18,500,000. The hospitals had sought large increases for pay rises and additional personnel.

The Department of Public Safety request for $8,282,000 was reduced to $7,994,000 as compared with a current budget of $7,260,000. Similarly, the Street Department's request for $6,405,000 was cut to $5,660,000. It is now operating on a budget of $5,285,000. Public Utilities asked for $3,286,000. Schubkegel proposed $3,131,000. Current budget is $3,075,000.

Inquiry Board Urges Teamsters Here Confer, Settle Own Dispute

Suggestion Follows Secret Hearing by 3 International Officers Into Joint Council Election.

A suggestion that the disputed election of officers of Teamsters Joint Council 13 here be settled in conference was made today following a hearing conducted by three international vice presidents of the Teamsters Union at the Chase Hotel.

Attorney for E. E. (Gene) Walla, leader of the insurgent group and a candidate for president of the council, said Walla's group would consider following the inquiry board's suggestion, but would make no agreemen in advance to do so.

Harold Gibbons, whose election as president of the council by a vote of 76 to 71 was disputed by the Walla group, said his slate would be happy to co-operate if directed to do so by the board of inquiry.

John Backus of Philadelphia, chairman of the board, told a reporter the board would not derect the two factions to confer. He said it is entirely up to the local groups to "carry the ball."

Transcripts of the hearing will be sent to both groups and the board. The board will then make its recommendation to James Hoffa, Teamster president, who will present it to the union's general executive board when it meets in May. The executive board will make the final decision.

The other vice presidents on the board of inquiry were Murray Miller of Dallas, Tex., and John T. O'Brien of Chicago.

Says Gibbons Paid Dues.

Challenging Gibbons's election, Walla appealed to the international union executive board. He contended that the seven votes of the carnival delegates should not have been counted because Gibbons had paid the per capita dues of Local 447 members to insure support of his candidacy.

Two leading opponents of Gibbons who had been trustees of the council by appointment of the international union won important offices in the election. Patrick J. Burke, veteran offfcial of Local 603, defeated Peter F. Saffo, a Gibbons lieutenant in Local 610, for secretary-treasurer. Robert F. Lewis, of the Brewery Workers' Local 6, was elected recording secretary over Earl Graves, Local 611.

The Gibbons and Walla factions each elected a third trustee. The contest, involving restoration of autonomy to the district council by the international, was so heated that Gibbons asked three judges to serve as observers. Circuit Judges Robert L. Aronson of St. Louis and Michael J. Carroll and Noah Weinstein of St. Louis county were present for the balloting and the counting of votes.

Gibbons Here.

Gibbons, who is now an international vice president and Hoffa's principal aid, came here from Washington for the inquiry. Other members of his council slate on hand were Edwin Dorsey, Graves, Willard Anderson and Dale Ferris. Two other candidates on the Gibbons slate, Saffo and Pete Kunkel, were reported to be ill.

Walla and five members of his group were present. These were Burke, Charles Grogan, Thomas Edwards, William Frenger and Leslie Dickens. Lewis was out of town.

It was learned that Walla, in presenting his case today, made no reference to the disputed votes of the carnival workers. It was his contention that he had been elected council president by a vote of 71 to 69, and Gibbons should be directed to surrender the council books and records.

Gibbons, it was understood, argued that the votes cast by Local 447 delegates were valid, the delegates previously having been seated and therefore being entitled to vote.

The hearing was held behind closed doors, with attorneys excluded. Jerome F. Duggan, Walla's attorney, protested.

MUSSOLINI GRANDSON SEEKS OFFICE ON FASCIST SLATE

ROME, March 21 (UP)—Count Fabrizio Ciano, 26-year-old grandson of the late dictator Benito Mussolini, is a candidate for parliament on the neo-Fascist MSI party ticket.

The party, which polled 1,580,000 votes in 1953, hopes to win enough seats to qualify for membership in Italy's next government.

It is running Ciano—son of the late Count Galeazzo Ciano and Mussolini's daughter Edda—as its candidate in the United States base city of Leghorn. Young Ciano's father, who had been Italy's wartime Foreign Minister, was executed as a traitor on orders from Mussolini in 1944.

PHONE BOOSTS FOR 3 TYPES OF SERVICE SOUGHT

Certain Long Distance Calls Within Missouri Affected by Proposals Before PSC.

Rate increases for three types of long-distance telephone calls between Missouri cities are being sought by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., it was announced today.

The increase, which would yield an estimated $500,000 in additional revenue unless business conditions worsen, would go into effect in 30 days. However, the new tariffs may be suspended by the Missouri Public Service Commission if the commission wishes to conduct hearings on them.

The proposed increases, filed with the commission today, would apply to these types of long-distance calls within Missouri: person-to-person calls of more than 28 miles; reverse-charge, station-to-station calls of more than 14 miles, and special reverse-charge "Enterprise" long-distance service used by some business firms.

These types of calls require more handling than the more widely used station-to-station long-distance calls, the company explained in justification of the proposed higher rates.

No changes are proposed in the monthly rates for basic telephone services, regular station-to-station long-distance calls or in calls going beyond state boundaries.

Proposed increase in the basic rate for person to person calls of more than 28 miles would be five to 15 cents, depending on distance. The additional charge for collect station-to-station calls of more than 14 miles would be 10 to 25 cents, also depending on distance.

For example, on a daytime, person-to-person call of 35 to 40 miles distance, the present rate of 65 cents for a three-minute conversation would rise to 70 cents. The overtime rate of 20 cents a minute for the first three minutes would remain unchanged.

On a daytime, person-to-person call of more than 45 miles, the present rate of 70 cents would rise to 75 cents. Overtime rates also would rise under certain circumstances.

The special reverse-charge "Enterprise" service, which permits a business firm in one community to offer free long-distance calling to customers in another exchange, would be increased $2 per exchange each month. There are 200 "Enterprise" numbers in Missouri.

'Red Faces of 1958' Brings Lots of Chuckles To Gridiron Show of Women's Ad Club

Catchy Songs and Dances, Sparkling Humor Highlight 24th Presentation.

By FAY PROFILET
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

Members of the Women's Advertising Club of St. Louis learned who did what to make whose face red and reported their findings last night in the club's twenty-fourth annual gridiron show, "Red Faces of 1958." The show, at Hotel Chase, sparkled with humor, catchy songs and dances.

The evening began with champagne cocktails in the lounge and the Chase Club progressed through dinner and the show in the Khorassan room and ended with a nightcap party for the members of the cast and their friends. About 1300 women attended the gridiron.

Miss Joan Gardner is president of the club and Miss Martha Olson was gridiron chairman.

The theme, "Red Faces," was emphasized from the time guests arrived at great gold gates, topped by angel faces with rosy cheeks, at the Lindell entrance of the hotel until the finale of the show when the cast sang "The reddest face belongs to you."

Two hundred and twenty-five women reached the $65 plateau last night and became "angels," each designating her lofty station by wearing a glistening halo. They were greeted at their own cocktail party in the Regency room by the club's invincible "archangel," Mrs. Thomas M. Sayman.

A small group of debutantes tried their wings, each having paid $35 to become "cherubs." The remaining guests paid $24 each for the party. Proceeds will be used to establish cancer research fellowships for training of pathologists at Barnard Hospital. Since 1945 the club has given more than $120,000 to the hospital for cancer research.

"Red Faces of 1958" was written by members of the club with Miss Peg Jostedt, who also directed the show, as chief writer. Music for the title song was by Miss Helen Prange, musical director, and lyrics were by Miss Bea Adams who originated the gridiron parties and wrote and directed many of the shows. Costumes of beautifull, blended colors were created by Mrs. Norrie Passino.

The show got off to a brisk start when Miss Beulah Schacht, in a striking white satin gown, sang the title song. The curtain then rose to reveal a lush Florida resort, Laduna Beach, with a social director, Elsa Slaxfell, played by Miss Jane Sevening. From then on the beach was thronged with resorters including Miss Ruth O'Flaherty and Miss Sue Perkins whose song, "Let's Get Away From It All," told why they were fed up with St. Louis.

Among the first to arrive was the gridiron "archangel" Luella, who swam the English channel to get to the party on time. Mrs. Peggy Johnson, as Luella, the mermaid, provided one of the most delightful numbers of the evening. Wearing a gold mesh costume, she reclined on a huge rock to sing to the "angels."

"Jayne Mansfield? What's she got that you haven't got?" Miss Squelch (Miss Elna Engelhardt) asked Miss Bitter (Miss Muriel Braeutigan), who wanted to be a movie star. Jayne answered that question by simply posing in a skin-tight pink wedding dress.

The perennial gridiron star, Miss Dorothy Ward, arrived in a car the length of the stage and sang, "I Ain't No Lady, I'm a Vamp," to loud applause. Touching on the national news, Jimmy Hoffa (Miss Dorothy DeDoyard) accompanied by three monitors with spy glasses, sadly sang "Someone to Watch Over Me." Miss Marilynn Harris as Edouaro Van Remoortel directed "The Royalty Rock."

Poking fun at the new fashions, Miss Ward, Miss Martha Moore, Miss Schacht and Miss Engelhardt, in gorgeous bright green satin Floradora costumes and bonnets trimmed with plumes, sang of the days when "a girl dressed to please a guy."

Miss Dorothy Mattingly, Miss Helen Hardesty, Miss Braeutigam and Miss Shirley Vierheller wore new sack dresses in a song number paraphrasing "Thanks For the Memories." Roberto Rosellini, portrayed by Miss Vierheller sang, "Oh, why can't I get 'em to the church on time?"

The Bathing Beauties, Miss Wilma Sim, Miss DeDoyard, Miss Harris and Miss Myrna Stroud, were old friends of gridiron audiences, as they appear each year in the Fat Girls' Dancing Chorus. In gay '90s bathing costumes, they coyly sang "By the Sea," while the Khorassan room rocked laughter and applause.

As the girls from St. Louis read about Olympic figure skaters at the Steinberg rink, a dancing chorus in white satin costumes and caps trimmed with swansdown did the "Skater's Dance" while snow softly fell in the moonlight. The chorus composed of Mrs. June Ellison, Mrs. Veda Humphrey, Miss Sue Lega, Miss Ida Rowland, Miss Evelyne Farber, Miss Mary Keough and Mrs. Iola McCrum also appeared in two other numbers, "The Dancing Sleuths" and the Charleston.

Mrs. Betty Zemitszsch planned the decorations in which pink flowers emphasized a spring-time theme. The pillars in the lounge were entwined with simlax and were trimmed near the ceiling with great boughs of mauve lilacs. At the south side there was an Easter garden, planted with deliacte pink and white flowers, in which stood a six-foot sculptured glass rabbit with a scarlet face looking at a white polka-dotted baby bunny in the midst of her pink and white brood.

Large white lilac trees were featured in the Chase Club, where the circular bar was arranged around a fountain. Gold gates beneath spun glass clouds marked the entrance to the Regency room. Here the "angels" were served champagne in an all-white setting.

Lilac trees bloomed at the door of the Khorassan room, where tables were covered with pale pink cloths. Seated with Mrs. Sayman at a table adorned with white blossoms and small gold gates were women who have been "angels" for 10 years or more. Decorations for tables for the other "angels" and the "mortals" were red and white cabanas set under palm trees on bases of greenery and red and pink carnations.

Tall pink lilac trees were silhouetted against white satin draped back of the head table. Bouquets of pink and white flowers, studded with lollipops made into little faces with pink cheeks and pink ribbon hair bows, were arranged the length of the table between clusters of pink candles in gold candelabra. Miss Dorothy Brainerd was chairman for the dinner.

The "cherubs," Miss Carol Lammert Culver, Veiled Prophet Queen; Miss Judith Trimble, Miss Wanda Lea Bickel, Miss Julianne Williams and Miss Margaret Wightman, were seated at a special table with Miss Jeanne Dunaway.

Among those introduced at the head table were Mme. Lily Dache, president of Lucien Lelong Co., Miss Virginia Payne, known on the radio as "Ma Perkins;" Mrs. Genevieve Hazzard, Detroit, chairman of the Women's Council of the Advertising Federation of America; Mrs. Edward V. Long, wife of the Lieutenant Governor of Missouri; Mrs. Raymond R. Tucker; Mrs. Hugo Autz, wife of the president of the Men's Advertising Club; Mrs. Girard C. Varnum, whose husband heads the St. Louis County Chamber of Commerce; and Mrs. Bertram B. Culver, mother of the Veiled Prophet Queen.

SHAW'S GARDEN MAN LOOKS FOR FLOWERY EASTER

A prediction that spring will blossom out suddenly on the Easter weekend, April 6, was made today by Hugh Cutler, acting director of Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden.

Spring is late this year, Cutler noted, and all spring flowers have been held back an average of about two weeks. The earth is in good shape because of last winter's heavy snows and rains.

"So, when the warm weather starts coming," he said, "we'll have a mass of color in blooming daffodils, tulips, star magnolia and forsythia. They all should be out by Easter."

TORONTO, March 21 (UP)—The recently-formed Hawthorn Publishing Co., Ltd., has bid $25,555,021 for the Toronto Daily Star, the Star weekly and their assets.

The firm is composed primarily of Star executives, relatives of the late publisher, Joseph E. Atkinson, and trustees of his estate. Atkinson died in 1948.

The price figure, disclosed yesterday, includes $15,450,465 for the Toronto Star Ltd., which publishes both the daily and weekly. An offer of $4,104,556 was made for the Toronto Star Realty Ltd. Hawthorn also offered to assume $6,000,000 of past service pension liability and termination liability under existing labor contracts.

FARM BUREAU'S BOARD OPPOSES SUPPORT FREEZE

CHICAGO, March 21 (AP)—The American Farm Bureau Federation board expressed opposite Wednesday to federal legislation aimed at freezing minimum price supports and acreage allotments on certain commodities.

The Farm Bureau favors price supports where appropriate as an aid to orderly marketing and as a protection to farmers during periods of change, the organization's board of directors said. It added:

"But the Farm Bureau is opposed to efforts to convert price supports into Government price fixing and thereby to discourage and delay the adjustments that are needed to improve farm income.

"Farmers stand to profit from less rather than more Government intervention in agricultural production and prices."

COUNTY CHAMBER TO STUDY 10 PROJECTS, NEW HEAD SAYS

Ten projects to be considered by the St. Louis County Chamber of Commerce were listed yesterday by John F. Lilly in accepting the chairmanship of the chamber's board of directors, effective April 1.

Lilly, who is chairman of the board and president of the St. Louis County National Bank, Clayton, said the manpower of the chamber had been streamlined into divisions which already are at work in studying and preparing recommendations for the board of directors.

He listed the 10 projects as metropolitan governmental relations; speedup in bond issue projects; study of county bond issue needs; traffic control; county financial needs; master zoning plan; property reassessment; airport development; county charter revisions and expansion of hospital facilities.

LIBERTIES UNION PROPOSES LABOR 'BILL OF RIGHTS'

NEW YORK, March 21 (UP) —The American Civil Liberties Union today proposed a "bill of rights" for labor unions to "eliminate abuses" and guarantee democracy inside unions.

The A.C.L.U. said it submitted the proposals to AFL-CIO President George Meany and all AFL-CIO international union presidents before making them public. It suggested the labor chiefs incorporate the bill of rights into union constitutions.

The proposals covered six sections dealing with freedom of speech and assembly, freedom of elections and balloting, trusteeships and local union rights, accounting of union funds, equal treatment of union members and due process within unions.

The Civil Liberties Union noted what it called tremendous pressures on the labor movement "in the Congress and the forum of public opinion." Its proposals were aimed at helping unions "eliminate abuses which not only deny individual workers their rights but weaken labor's own position in and contribution to American life," the A.C.L.U. said.

Highlights of the bill of rights included:

Every union member should have the right to speak freely on matters affecting the union.

Every member should have the right to vote, on an equal basis with all other members, without fear or reprisal.

Any member should have the right to seek and hold office "subject to fair qualifications uniformly imposed."

Every union should meet in open, national convention within a reasonable period of time, such as at least every four years, to hold a full and open discussion of union policy.

No international union should deprive a local of its right to conduct its own affairs through trusteeship or other devices without reasonable cause and a fair hearing.

All unions should maintain full and complete record of accounts, with adequate annual auditing protections.

No union should refuse membership, segregate or expel any person on the grounds of race, religion, color, sex, national origin, opinion or lack of United States citizenship.

No union should discipline any person or local without reasonable cause.

Alcorn Advises Republicans Against Anti-Labor Laws.

COLUMBIA, O., March 21 (AP)—Meade Alcorn, the national Republican chairman, yesterday advised Ohio Republicans against anti-labor legislation, but then declined to tell reporters what proposals he was warning against.

In an address to members of the state Republican central and executive committees, Alcorn said it would be "a tragic mistake" for the party to advocate policies which would alienate a "vast potential reservoir of Republican votes."

Shortly after his address to Republican leaders, newsmen asked him if he referred to:

A proposed constitutional amendment outlawing union shops; or a planned state appeal against a recent Mahoning county court decision approving simultaneous supplemental unemployment benefits and state unemployment compensation benefits.

"Those are matters of state determination," Alcorn retorted. "The national committee has not and will not take a position on either question."

Supplemental unemployment benefit payments would come from a fund to which employers contribute and from which employes draw in time of unemployment.

Referring to recent disclosures of mis-management in top labor circles, Alcorn said the rank and file of labor is "disenchanted" with labor's top management.

But he said the Republican party should not take advantage of the situation and advocate legislation which would "destroy the goals of unionism."

The Republican leader added: "I am unalterably opposed to utilizing the present labor sentiment to enact anti-labor or labor-baiting legislation."

RED CHINESE EXPAND FOREIGN AID PROGRAM

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

HONG KONG, March 21—A recent loan to Ceylon points up that Red China, not to be entirely overshadowed by the munificence of Moscow or Washington, is gradually expanding a foreign aid program of its own.

As announced from Colombo, Peiping is providing the equivalent of about $11,000,000 for repair of damage suffered in the island country's December floods.

All told, assistance agreements, which China began making in 1954, total $801,500,000, or possibly as much as $844,000,000, at the official rates of exchange for various currencies involved.

Of the total, $338,000,000 has been earmarked for North Korea during 1954 to 1957; another $338,000,000, North Viet Nam, 1955-59; $40,000,000, Outer Mongolia, 1956-59; $22,000,000, Cambodia, 1956-57; $13,000,000, Nepal, 1957-59; $27,000,000, Ceylon, 1958-62; and $16,000,000, Yemen, 1958 for an unstated period.

Assistance to Hungary.

The uncertainty in the total involves aid to Hungary. Budapest announced a year ago that Peiping had offered $50,000,000 worth, half as gift goods and half as a loan in convertible currency. Peiping's only published figure has been a $7,500,000 grant.

There also have been unelaborated reports of aid to Albania and aid negotiations with Burma.

Since Peiping began providing budget figures on assistance, $171,000,000 was made available in 1956 and $192,000,000 in 1957, with $192,000,000 again to be spent this year. Herein lies a puzzle, for observers here can account for only about $90,000,000 to be serviced in 1958. Perhaps the rest has been set aside, it is conjectured, in anticipation of expanding the aid program still further.

Disaster Aid.

Besides formal aid agreements, Peiping frequently gives nominal amounts for such profitable propaganda causes as charity to flood victims in Pakistan or earthquake victims in the Middle East.

Except for Nepal, Yemen, an earlier agreement with Ceylon and possibly Hungary, all aid has been in the form of grants — not loans. And except for Nepal, Ceylon and Hungary, it has consisted of goods and services—not cash.

Chinese assistance to Yemen calls for dispatching "experts," for supplying light industrial equipment and undertaking to build roads and for technical education of Yemen youths in China. Peiping won't lose any money on this. Repayment is to be made in negotiable currency.

The motive for China's expanding aid program is patently political. Otherwise, except for the Yemen deal, it doesn't make sense. Not only is foreign exchange scarce, the Chinese people are complaining of being short of consumer goods such as the government is shipping to Cambodia in fulfilment of aid terms. Industrial equipment is needed for installation in the burgeoning factories.

China's aid effort is intended to glorify its new stature among the powers.

YEMEN CLAIMS ARMS ON SHIP SEIZED BY FRENCH

CAIRO, March 21 (AP) — Yemen today claimed ownership of the arms confiscated by the French from the Yugoslav ship Slovenija and demanded the French turn over the shipment.

The French commandeered the ship off the coast of Morocco last Jan. 18, claiming the 150 tons of arms and munitions were destined for the Algerian rebels. Yugoslavia said they were consigned to a "private group" in Morocco.

The Moroccan to whom the arms were consigned insisted they were headed for Yemen, the medieval kingdom across Africa on the Red Sea.

A statement from the Yemeni legation here said the Slovenija was unable to sail directly to Yemen from its Yugoslav port because of technical reasons and had to detour via Casablanca. The technical reasons were not explained.

CARTER WARNS ALGOA INMATES TO QUIT FIGHTING

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 21—Col. James D. Carter, director of the State Department of Corrections, today warned inmates of the Intermediate Reformatory at Algoa that he would mete out harsh punishment in the future to any prisoners found guilty of fighting.

"I will not tolerate any fighting and if you fight you go to the 'hole' for 30 days," he said. "Most of the trouble we have been having is with the St. Louis strongarm boys. We will gladly show them the way to the penitentiary if they persist in what they have been doing."

The 555 inmates, who gathered in the reformatory gymnasium to hear Carter, listened quietly as he ended his lecture by saying: "We're not asking you. We are telling you."

Only first offenders between 17 and 25 years old are sentenced to Algoa. They can be transferred to the penitentiary, however, if they are found to be incorrigible.

The director made it clear he would not tolerate a continuance of loose administrative conditions, which allegedly has caused a recent outbreak of fighting among the inmates.

'Cut Out Horseplay.'

"The captains (guards) do not have to get along with you," he said. "You have to get along with them. And keep your mouths shut. We did not ask you to come here. The best thing you can do is cut out this horseplay."

While the director was speaking, guards paid a surprise visit to Dormitory No. 6 and conducted an inspection of quarters. They found a collection of homemade items that could be used as lethal weapons, including triangular pieces of heavy glass, a tooth brush fixed to hold a razor blade and pieces of pipe of varying sizes.

Earlier Carter pledged his full support to guards who cooperate with him in an improved supervisory program at the institution.

Addressing most of the 90 guards employed at Algoa at a staff meeting, Carer said: "You run the place and I'll back you. If we can't run this institution without calling on the Highway Patrol for help, we are in a hell of a fix."

Resignation Cited.

The director heard complaints of some guards who said that the recent outbreaks were due to relaxed discipline which followed the resignation under fire last month of Superintendent Joseph M. Appleman.

Records at the institution show that there have been 28 fights among inmates this month, compared, with 20 in February and 15 in January.

Carter said he was drafting a new set of rules which will be posted in every dormitory by tomorrow night. To those guards who complained they felt the disciplinary court at Algoa was not backing them up. Carter said he would look into the matter and straighten out the court.

Carter was placed in direct charge of the institution by Gov. James T. Blair last night following the director's return from the east. He has been inspecting federal prisons in connection with plans for a new state medium security prison at Moberly.

"Carter will take whatever steps are necessary to maintain discipline," Gov. Blair said. "He is director of corrections and it is his baby. He is running the reformatory."

Everything was in good order when Carter paid a visit to Algoa last night. When Gov. Blair went there Wednesday night with a detachment of state troopers, he was told that a number of prisoners had been beaten by fellow inmates. Guards blamed a slackening of discipline which followed an order barring them from carrying clubs.

Patrol Mobilization Plan.

Blair said the Highway Patrol had a mobilization plan which would send 100 or more patrolmen to the reformatory in a short time should rioting break out.

The Governor issued his order placing Carter in charge of Algoa following a conference attended also by his brother, Circuit Judge Sam C. Blair, and Col. Hugh Waggoner, superintendent of the state police.

They also were with the Governor on the Wednesday night visit to the reformatory, which was prompted by rumors of an imminent uprising. Four troopers in plain clothes accompanied the group.

Ten uniformed patrolmen parked outside the reformatory gate for two hours while the Governor made his inspection. They were prepared to act in event of trouble.

QUEEN ATTENDS CHARITY SHOWING OF 'DUNKERQUE'

LONDON, March 21 (UP)—Queen Elizabeth turned out with her husband, her generals, admirals and air marshals last night to attend the charity premiere of a movie reliving the dark days of Dunkerque.

The firm "Dunkerque" was was a British-American production describing the "mircale of the little ships" which rescued 330,000 allied troops from the clutches of the German army on the beaches of France in 1940.

Thuosands of Londoners jammed Leicester square and cheered as the Queen and Prince Philip entered the theater.

In the foyer they were met by the First Sea Lord, Earl Mountbatten, uncle of the Prince and president of the Soldiers, Sailors and Airmens families Association which received the proceeds of the premiere.

The Queen wore an evening dress of pale coral satin with rose and blue brilliants in a floral pattern, with a single strap over the left shoulder, a diamond tiara and pendant necklace. The duke was in evening clothes, his chest bedecked with miniature medals.

The movie combined wartime newsreels with scenes played by actors.

Soviet Delegation to U.S.

LONDON, March 21 (AP)—A delegation of Soviet Ministry of Culture officials left Moscow for the United States today to negotiate exchanges of films and visits by theater and music groups, the Moscow radio reported.

9 S. VIET NAM NEWSMEN ARRESTED AS COMMUNISTS

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, March 21 (UP) — The South Viet Nam government today disclosed the arrest of nine Viet Namese newspaper men for suspected Communist underground activity.

Authoritative sources said a tenth person, a Viet Namese employe of the United States Information Agency, was arrested in the same Communist roundup when he left the American embassy yesterday.

Viet Namese newspapers claimed 150 Viet Namese civil guardsmen are suspected of Communist activities. Forty-eight of them were reported arrested at Mytho, a town 50 miles south of Saigon. The arrest of nine Saigon journalists was one of the biggest moves against the Communist underground in more than a year.

FPC BAR ON PRIVATE POWER DAM STANDS

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—The Federal Power Commission yesterday denied a request by Pacific Northwest Power Co., Portland, Ore., for a rehearing of the FPC's rejection of the company's proposal to build a hydroelectric project at Mountain Sheep and Pleasant Valley on the Snake River in Idaho and Oregon.

The commission said an opinion and order will be issued later. It added that Commissioner Arthur Kline dissented.

In denying the company's license application last Jan. 20, the commission concluded that the proposed project for the stretch of the Snake river just downstream from the Hell's Canyon area would not be "best adapted" to a comprehensive plan for developing the river.

The commission at that time said it was readily apparent that any combination of projects in the middle Snake basin that would include a high dam at the Nez Perce site would be superior to one that did not.

The proposed Mountain Sheep-Pleasant Volley project would have precluded a dam at Nez Perce, below the confluence of the Salmon river, the commission added.

Subsequently, Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton spoke out against any dam at Nez Perce until means are evolved to protect the salmon fishery in that area of the Snake.

3 KLANSMEN SENTENCED IN SCHOOL BOMBING PLOT

CHARLOTTE, N.C., March 21 (AP)—Three Ku Klux Klansmen were sentenced to prison yesterday for plotting to bomb a Negro school near here last Feb. 15.

An all-white jury of 11 men and one woman deliberated 3½ hours before convicting the three Klansmen. The jury acquitted two other Klansmen charged in the case.

Judge Zeb V. Nettles sentenced Lester Francis Caldwell, the grand wizard of Klavern 22, to five to 10 years in prison for attempting to bomb the school and two to five years for conspiracy, the latter sentence suspended on good behavior. Arthur Monroe Brown Jr. and William Oliver Spencer drew two to five years for conspiracy. All appealed.

OIL MAN STRESSES CONFIDENT OUTLOOK

Standard Oil Co. of Indiana will continue a large program of capital expenditures in 1958 because its executives are confident that the economic future of the United States is sound, John E. Swearingen, president of the firm, said here today.

Swearingen, in St. Louis to attend a southern regional sales conference of Standard Oil executives, said the company this year will at least match last year's capital expenditures of $340,000,000.

Asked by reporters when he thought the present business decline would end, Swearingen said most economists were expecting an upturn by the end of the year.

Speaking about his own company, Swearingen said he did not look for a substantial pick-up this year nor a substantial decline in business.

"I am very optimistic about the longer range outlook," he said. "I expect business will be much better in late 1959 and in the 1960s. The long-ranger problem will be inflation, not recession."

Domestic sales in 1958 will be close to domestic sales in 1957, he said, but export sales will be down somewhat. He pointed out that export sales soared last year because of the Suez crisis, which brought a world-wide demand for United States oil.

W. J. McGill, general manager of Standard Oil's employe and public relations department, said about 7 per cent of the total work force of the company had been "permanently severed" in the last 18 months. This will be offset in 1958 by the number of persons employed in the capital expenditures program, he said.

AFL-CIO TO OPEN EXHIBIT ON HORRORS OF COMMUNISM

WASHINGTON, March 21 (UP)—The AFL-CIO opens an exhibit of pictures today which it says will show the "horrors of Communism."

Labor federation president George Meany and several members of Congress were scheduled speakers at brief ceremonies in Union Station here to inaugurate the display.

The exhibit, called "Soviet Empire—1917-1958," previously was sponsored in New York City by a refugee group called the Assembly of Captive European Nations.

Young Rocket Builders Warned Not to Make, Fire 'Live' Ones

Youngsters should learn all they can about rockets and their design, and related matters, but should not attempt to build and launch working models, Lt. Col. Norman C. Pardue, commander of the St. Louis Ordnance District, said today.

"The growing number of accidents among young rocket enthusiasts throughout the country indicates that the practice of firing the devices should be discouraged in general," Col. Pardue said.

The only circumstances under which actual firings should be permitted, he remarked, are in cases where there is an isolated area with facilities to permit remote firings and where there is expert supervision, not simply adult supervision.

Students should study plenty of mathematics, physics and chemistry, study rocket design and principles, keep abreast of information on space travel and aerodynamics and, if they wish, build harmless models of rockets, Col. Pardue said.

There should be no attempt to load or fire a "live" rocket, he emphasized. Ordinarily harmless chemicals that are used to launch rockets can explode easily and cause serious injury simply by being mixed improperly, he warned.

Col. Pardue reminded parents to be watchful, because a youngster can purchase at a drug store virtually all of the chemicals needed to fire a rocket.

YOUTH GETS 5-YEAR TERM ON TWO ROBBERY CHARGES

Billy Dale Pyles, was sentenced to serve five years in the Intermediate Reformatory at Algoa on each of two charges of robbery yesterday after he pleaded guilty before Circuit Judge Franklin E. Reagan. The terms will run concurrently.

Pyles, 18 years old, was one of three youths charged with slugging and robbing two St. Louis county men of $86 last Dec. 28. The men, Walter Randell, 419 Warford avenue, Ferguson and Fred Carlisle, 6184 Behle avenue, Normandy, said they met the youths in East St. Louis and gave them a ride across the river.

The men said they were forced out of Randell's car at Crittenden and Salena streets, and were beaten and robbed. The robbers fled in the automobile, which was abandoned after they struck two parked machines, the second one in the 2000 block of Sidney street. Pyles was arrested the next day at his home in the 2300 block of South Eleventh street, after he had been implicated by one of his companions.

SENATOR WILEY PROPOSES U.S. OPEN SCHOOLS IN RUSSIA

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

GREENWICH, Conn., March 21 — Senator Alexander Wiley, (Rep.), Wisconsin, proposed last night that American educational institutions establish "experimental branch centers for Russian students in Moscow and possibly other leading Soviet cities. The purpose of such schools, he said, would be "to demonstrate in action that the United States is interested in friendly, productive relations with the present and future generations of Russia."

The Senator spoke at a meeting here of 250 Christian Scientists, who are launching a drive to raise $1,250,000 to build a private school in nearby Stamford.

In seeking "education for peace," Wiley said, "we need to exchange more teachers and scholars," to strengthen American schools, and to develop "fuller potentialities" of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Soviet Fish Discovery.

MOSCOW, March 21 (AP)—Soviet biologists have found in the Antarctic a hitherto unknown species of whiteblooded fish, Tass News Agency said yeesterday. The agency said 18 of the fish with no hemoglobin, the element that makes corpuscles red, had been found by members of the Zoological Institute of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

C.A.B. IS SORRY PRESS OFFICER KNOCKED PRESS

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board said yesterday its chief information officer spoke without its knowledge when he criticized the press for criticizing the board.

"We wish to disassociate ourselves from the March 13 press conference and letter from the Office of Information of the board," the board said in a formal statement.

The board's two-paragraph press release did not mention by name William Kloepfer Jr., but a letter Kloepfer sent to about 50 nwspapers was attached.

In the letter Kloepfer said that in the last 18 months "more than 50 of the nation's largest daily newspapers, plus many commentators, trade journals and general circulation magazines (and the list is growing) have published columns and editorials on the general theme that the CAB is dragging its bureaucratic feet while the financial structure of the country's airlines is going to pot."

Kloepfer wrote that "until now I have refrained from comment on this assualt," but wanted "to break my silence" and "protest that we are not heedless of the demand for swift completion of our investigation" into requests of airlines for higher passenger fares.

At a news conference, Kloepfer called the press criticism one-sided.

The board's statement said, "We have, of course, regretted the statements in the press and trade publications which to us seemed to give an inaccurate and incomplete picture of the board's attitude toward passenger fare increases," but added:

"However, we believe as a basic principle of democracy that the right of the press to comment freely on all public affairs is one of the surest and strongest forces for good government."

The press conference referred to in the board's statement was held by Kloepfer in connection with the board's denial of a request by American Airlines for faster handling of t ehfare case. American wanted the board to bypass an examiner's initial decision.

The board granted the airlines a package increase of about 6.6 per cent Jan. 24. This will remain in effect until the board decides just how large an increase should be granted.

RINGLING CIRCUS LEAVES WINTER QUARTERS QUIETLY

SARASOTA, Fla., March 21 (AP)—The Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus began a quiet departure from winter quarters today.

In contrast to the ceremonious departure of the big special train needed for the old style circus, with bands, city officials and thousands of fans on hand, the performers, animals and equipment of the streamlined circus are going piecemeal by train, truck and automobile.

The circus makes its first appearance in Charlotte, N.C., March 25. From there is goes to New York for its annual 40-day stand in Madison Square Garden beginning April 2. The circus discarded its old "Big Top" tent show in 1956 and now performs in big arenas—indoor and outdoor.

DRUIDS WELCOME SPRING IN ANCIENT RITES IN LONDON

LONDON, March 21 (UP)—London knew that spring had arrived yesterday. The druids were out in their flowing white robes and hoods.

Dr. R. MacGregor-Reid, the chief druid, three male druids and six female druids turned out in white robes of spring with a banner, a horn of plenty, a six-foot horn for blowing spring - like noises and a sheathed "sword of peace." The horn of plenty contained cider. In the ancient days the druids drank mead, but this year there wasn't any.

The druids, supreme grand council of "An Druid Ulleach Braithreachas," converged on Bryn Gwyn, a white mound on tower hill, for the ceremonies.

The chief drained the horn of plenty and emptied the dregs on the flagstones and he scattered seeds of corn from a wooden platter decorated with forsythia. Then the druids packed up and went to lunch and it was officially spring.

New License Fees Pushed to Pay For County Food Distribution

St. Louis county officials acted today to speed up collections of a new license fee for coin-operated amusement devices, to obtain revenue to pay for the county's proposed Federal surplus food distribution program.

Donald B. Lasater, executive secretary of the county council, said he is sending letters to all known distributors of amusement devices, calling their attention to the $5-a-year county license fee that became effective last Jan. 1.

Lasater said records show that only 1380 licenses have been bought thus far, although the total number of amusement devices in the county has been estimated at more than 5000 machines. The tax does not apply to merchandise-dispensing devices, such as cigarette machines.

Lasater said the council has estimated the potential annual revenue from the license fee at more than $20,000. Costs of distributing the free Government food to the needy unemployed residents of the county has been estimated at $1800 to $2400 a month.

Several members of the county council suggested that efforts to collect the new license tax be stepped up, Lasater said, after a bill was introduced Wednesday to authorize the food distribution program. The measure, which is expected to be approved by the council next Wednesday, would appropriate $15,000 from the county's emergency fund to cover initial costs.

Lasater said the distributors of the amusement machines, rather than proprietors of establishments where the devices are located, usually pay license fees. His letter to distributors includes a reminder that the new license fee is a county levy.

County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews, who has expressed confidence that the council will authorize the food distribution program without delay, is proceeding with preliminary planning, Lasater said.

The supervisor's timetable calls for contracts to be signed by county and state officials next Thursday, contingent upon the council's anticipated approval. An order for food for 6000 to 8000 persons for one month will be given to state officials at the same time, for relay to the United States Department of Agriculture.

A food depot will be established in a warehouse at the Air National Guard station at Lambert Field. Lasater said places at which applicants for food can be interviewed will be located at various points in the county. He has received calls from several persons and organizations offering to volunteer their services as interviewers, he said.

Lasater said applications for the surplus food would be accepted next Friday and Saturday at locations still to be announced. In St. Louis, applications are to be received next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with actual distribution of supplies expected to start a week or 10 days later.

Eligibility rules that county applicants must meet in order to get food will be identical with those which have been announced for St. Louis residents, Lasater said.

The St. Louis Board of Aldermen, at its final meeting of the current session, adopted a resolution proposed by Alderman Alfred Harris (Dem.), Twenty-second Ward, commending Aldermen Edgar J. Feely (Dem.), Twentieth Ward, and Joseph P. Roddy (Dem.), Seventeenth Ward, and Comptroller John H. Poelker for the "tremendous" amount of work they did on getting the city's food distribution program under way.

At the annual meeting of the Urban League of St. Louis last night in Kiel Auditorium Opera House, Irvin Sobel, professor of economics at Washington University, estimated the Negro labor force in St. Louis was 20 per cent unemployed. The estimate, he stated, is based on the fact that unemployment among Negroes was generally two and a half to three times greater than that of whites.

If Negroes are allowed to drift into semi-or unskilled labor areas because of low income or lack of encouragement in the home or school, they would be drifting into those areas where there is a decreasing demand in the economy, Sobel asserted.

PRIEST RECEIVES MEDAL FOR ANTARCTIC FINDINGS

© New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, March 21 — The Rev. Daniel Linehan, S. J., the scientist-priest who proved there is land above sea level at the South Pole, received Fordham University's Insignis medal yesterday.

Father Linehan, Boston College seismologist, last Dec. 5 used seismic soundings to determine that the ice cap at the South Pole was about 8300 feet thick—but underneath it lies bedrock some 900 feet above sea level.

The results, a contribution to the International Geophysical Year, were substantiated in later tests by Dr. Vivian Fuchs on his British transpolar expedition.

7 KILLED IN EXPLOSION IN ARSENAL IN CANADA

ANGUS, Ont., March 21 (AP)—Explosive charges used by the Royal Canadian Air Force in safety and air-sea rescue devices blew up in an arsenal yesterday and killed seven men.

The dead were an airman and six civilians. An eighth man escaped with injuries.

The building where the men worked contained cartridges used for such purposes as blasting away a plane's canopy when a pilot must bail out. There was no explanation of how the charges were set off. The building was destroyed.

SAC TO BUILD UNDERGROUND 'MISSILE PILOTS' STATION

OMAHA, March 21 (AP)—The Strategic Air Command will build an annex for "missile pilots" adjoining its big, underground headquarters at Offutt Air Force Base.

The men who will "pilot" SAC intercontinental ballistics missiles are intelligent specialists. With electronic computers, they will figure trajectory and space data to be fed into missile guidance systems.

The Air Force's first missiles target squadron, now in training, will man the Offutt missile station. The $800,000 missile trajectory center, on which Army engineers are now taking bids, will be housed in a basement addition to the present headquarters.

COMPROMISE INDICATED IN TUNIS DISPUTE

PARIS, March 21 (AP)—The French Cabinet met in secret session today to decide on the next step toward settling the Tunisian crisis. Signs increased that a compromise may be possible.

Premier Gaillard, who refused yesterday to make any statements on the negotiations at an Assembly Foreign Affairs Committee meeting, reported to the cabinet on the United States-British good offices mission.

United States Deputy Under Secretary of State Robert Murphy was reported to be optimistic after meeting with Gaillard. Murphy brought from Tunis the latest views of President Habib Bourguiba.

Murphy flew to London yesterday and was expected to return to Paris later today to continue discussions with French leaders.

French political circles viewed yesterday's independence anniversary speech in Tunis by Bourguiba as relatively moderate. Informed sources said the good offices team had cautioned Bourguiba not to slam the door on any settlement by making an inflammatory speech.

Bourguiba still insisted French troops must withdraw from Tunisia but expressed confidence this would be accomplished through the good offices mission. He also said Tunisia would remain with the West, whereas a week ago he had threatened a break.

Bourguiba's relative moderation and Gaillard's silence bolstered reports both sides may be seeking a face-saving method of settling the crisis brought on when French planes bombed a Tunisian border village.

This would mean a resumption of negotiations between France and the former French protectorate on the status of French troops that remained after Tunisia gained independence.

The formula might include a statement from Gaillard reaffirming France's recognition of Tunisian sovereignty and a statement from Bourguiba declaring non-belligerence in Algeria where France is fighting a three-year-old rebellion.

Gaillard was obviously trying to hold off on any decisions on Tunisia until the end of next week when the National Assembly starts a month-long holiday. That would give Gaillard a slightly freer hand in the face of strong right-wing opposition in his cabinet toward any concessions to Tunisia.

Snow in East

restaurant but were unable to start the rescue operation until the roads partly cleared of the wet, heavy snow had been widened to accommodate large trucks and busses.

About 50 persons remained in the restaurant in the hope they could soon shovel their cars out and leave on their own.

One Death Reported.

Gerstell said only one person was reported to have died. He said the death was the result probably "of the 36-hour nightmare."

Witnesses returning from the scene by airport helicopter reported that "no chaos or great excitement was evident at any time.

Dan Freeman, a salesmanager from suburban Philadelphia who estimated the number packed into the restaurant, described the situation in a telephone interview.

"We're depressed and very uncomfortable," he said, "but there's no panic. We're sleeping in shifts in the boiler room, storage rooms, on chairs, tables and counters."

Mrs. W. B. Krebs of Hanover, Pa., said there was enough food, but the bread ran out once.

"We stood in line for food, sometimes two hours," she said, "that's what we spent our time doing. Then we sat because there wasn't anything else to do."

Marius Rosseau of western Pennsylvania said: "This is an experience I won't forget—how so many persons can get thrown together and work this thing out like we have."

Worst in History.

The storm in Pennsylvania was a slowly-moving storm but never seemed to end. Biggest damage was to power lines, leaving thousands without heat, electricity and telephone service in many towns and cities.

A Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. spokesman described the situation as the worst in company history.

Deaths attributed to the storm, which was general throughout the northeastern seaboard states, totaled 41, of which 17 were in Pennsylvania.

In Philadelphia, Lancaster and a score of other communities emergency care centers were set up for families lacking heat and food. Civil defense units were active practically everywhere.

Some communities declared emergencies and schools and colleges were closed. Many schools and churches were used to care for those without heat in their homes.

Harrisburg, the state capital, had up to 30 inches.

At Oakland, Md. four inches of snow fell last night raising the total snowfall in the area this winter to 143 inches—one inch short of 12 feet.

Turns Down Eisenhower Bid.

BUENOS AIRES, March 21 (AP)—President-elect Arturo Frondizi said yesterday he is unable to accept President Eisenhower's invitation to visit Washington before being sworn in May 1. Frondizi told a news conference he has thanked Mr. Eisenhower, but said the need for studying Argentina's problems prevents him from accepting.

WINS NEW TRIAL, JURORS READ ACCOUNT OF CASE

A new trial for Walter H. Pummill, who was found guilty of bank robbery last Feb. 26 by a jury in federal court, was ordered today by United States District Judge Roy W. Harper because two members of the jury admitted reading a newspaper account of the case while the trial was in progress.

"The newspaper article gave a true, factual picture and it was news," the judge said, but he noted that it included facts that might have been prejudicial to Pummill—the fact, for example, that he was a former convict. Members of the jury had been cautioned not to read about the case.

Defense Attorney Robert Lyng made his motion at the completion of the government testimony and was overruled at the time. Pummill was convicted of robbing the Lemay Bank & Trust Co. and the Normandy State Bank of a total of $37,217 in 1954 and 1955.

LAMBERT FIELD TO PREPARE FOR JET TRANSPORTS

Extension of one 6000-foot runway and other improvements at Lambert-St. Louis Field to get ready for the use of jet transport planes has been approved by the Civil Aeronautics Administration, it was announced today in Washington.

A federal $63,566,135 airport improvement program for the fiscal year beginning July 1 includes the federal share of the cost of extending the runway from its present length of 6000 feet to 8000 feet, and related improvements. The runway, when completed, will extend in a south-southwest direction across Natural Bridge road near the old Naval Air Station. A portion of Natural Bridge will be vacated for this purpose and traffic will be carried over the Mark Twain Expressway at this point.

Federal funds for the project must be matched with municipal funds on a 50-50 basis. The city's share will come from the Airport Development Fund, which is expected to be sufficient for this purpose when the expenditure is needed.

There are now one 10,000-foot and two 6000-foot runways in operation. The largest of these can accomodate jet airliners now. Plans already are being carried out to extend finger ramps, add more loading gates and more holding aprons at the field.

A second important phase of the new project is the stabilizing of taxiway shoulders. Present taxiways have a maximum width of 75 feet. However, the new jet transports have their engines well out toward the ends of the wings. This presents a danger that in taxiing the engines may such up dirt and grass over which they pass. The widening of the taxiways is intended to meet this problem.

Included in the project are the installation of high intensity lights on the extended runway, addition of a taxiway and holding apron to serve it, and lighting of the taxiway.

If the usual practice is followed, the city will be given two years in which to make the improvements after the money becomes available.

The patrol said the tractor-trailer driver, Harry A. Hetrick, 33, of Omaha, was not injured. He told the patrol the car crossed the center line into the path of his vehicle.

TRAFFIC ON PART OF N. BROADWAY TO BE REROUTED

Southbound traffic on a section of North Broadway, between Angelica and Dock streets, will be rerouted for about six months beginning March 31, to permit widening and resurfacing of the street, Director of Streets Henry S. Miller, announced today.

A detour will route southbound Broadway traffic west on Cornelia street to Eleventh street, south on Eleventh to Branch street, and east to Broadway. Parking will be restricted on Cornelia and Eleventh streets, and some additional stop signs will be erected to control traffic along the detour.

Two bus lines will be affected, Miller said. The southbound Broadway bus will operate regularly to Angelica street, then detour west on Angelica to Ninth street, south on Ninth to Dock street, and back to Broadway.

The eastbound Salisbury bus line will go south to Mallinckrodt street, on ninth street east to Broadway, and north to Salisbury street. No changes will be made in the northbound Broadway or the westbound Salisbury routes, he added.

10,000 STRIKE IN DISPUTE REPORTEDLY OVER ONE MAN

EAST CHICAGO, Ind., March 21 (AP)—A dispute reportedly over one man caused 10,000 workers to leave their jobs today at the Indiana Harbor Works of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. The big plant was shut down completely.

The walkout of United Steel Workers members started last night. The dispute began in the day shift reportedly over the job classification of one man in the electrical department. About 100 pickets patroled the plant's five gates.

Reno Mussatt, president of USW Local 1011, and Lester Thornton, Region 2 director, were conferring today in an effort to agree on settlement terms. The company said it would refuse to negotiate while the men are away from their jobs.

HOUSE GROUP CUTS OFF LEASE PURCHASE FUNDS

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today cut off funds for the lease-purchase program. But it recommended $177,255,000 in new cash to finance construction of 66 public buildings in the program.

Among the projects affected was a proposed new federal building in St. Louis.

The committee said the direct appropriation procedure will save money. It ordered that hereafter the lease-purchase method be used only for constructing post offices.

As an anti-recession measure, the committee approved $75,000,000 to accelerate repair and improvement of government buildings.

The committee's action was in connection with approval of a $6,549,920,900 bill to finance independent federal agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1. This is $627,577,400 more than President Eisenhower requested and $1,159,988,100 more than Congress gave the same agencies this year.

Two Officials Criticized.

In a sharply worded explanation of its lease-purchase action, the committee criticized Franklin G. Floete, General Services Administrator, and Maurice H. Stans, who recently became director of the Budget Bureau.

It said it had asked Floete not to bind the government on any more lease-purchase contracts until further notice. The committee added, however, that he had "ignored the request and within the last two weeks has signed two lease-purchase contracts and advises the committee that he intends to sign 26 others."

Asked for comment on the committee's statements, Floete said: "We are acting under an existing law. If Congress sees fit to change the law we will act accordingly."

Administration View.

A spokesman said Floete referred to the lease-purchase act, under which the Administration holds it has full authority to go ahead with the 98 projects originally approved for construction.

The committee said Stans ignored a request not to require GSA to enter into any commitments for lease-purchase contracts until Congress could decide whether the buildings should be constructed under direct appropriations.

Stans contended "lease-purchase was an administration policy," the committee said, adding that his action "was arbitrary and clearly showed no respect for the congressional request."

The lease-purchase law enacted in 1954, provided for private construction of public buildings such as courthouses, with the Government eventually obtaining ownership through annual rental payments. Congress refused last year to renew the law and the committee noted that only one public building had been constructed under the program since the law was enacted.

The 66 buildings for which the committee recommended direct appropriations had been approved for construction under that law.

Some of the building projects for which the committee recommended direct appropriations reecntly were ordered constructed under lease-purchase contracts with the Government.

In those cases, committee sources said, the contract presumably would stand unless the GSA canceled it. In that event, the appropriation would be rescinded or impounded.

But the committee barred any further activity under the lease-purchase program after June 30, by prohibiting GSA from using any of its fiscal 1959 money for site purchases, planning or construction under lease-purchase contract except buildings used solely for Post Office purpises.

Savings of $171,000,000.

Through the direct appropriations procedure, the committee said, the Government will save about $171,000,000 on the 66 projects. It said a General Accounting Office survey indicated it costs at least $1.64 under lease-purchase to buy the same amount of building that can be obtained for one dollar in direct appropriations.

The committee's action is subject to approval by the House next week.

The $75,000,000 recommended for repair and improvement of federal buildings is $25,000,000 more than Mr. Eisenhower has requested. The committee said that in view of current heavy unemployment, "now is the time to get this job done." An additional $38,000,000 was approved for acquiring sites and preparing plans for public building projects.

The bulk of the over-all increase in the bill was accounted for by the committee's recommendation for a direct appropriation of $589,000,000 to civil service retirement and disability fund. The President had requested nothing for this purpose.

The committee said "the insolvency" of the civil service fund since June 30, 1953, has increased from $9,900,000,000 to $18,065,000,000 because the Government has not made its contributions.

Largest money allotment in the bill was $4,932,210,000 for the Veterans Administration. This is $35,342,000 less than Mr. Eisenhower had requested.

Injured Man Walks Half Mile.

FORT PIERRE, S.D., March 21 (AP)—When his truck hit an icy spot and rolled over, Fritz Hosman crawled out of the wreckage and walked half a mile to the nearest farm, where he collapsed. A doctor said he had suffered a broken neck, crushed chest and abdominal injuries.

$6,393,000 SETTLED ON BOBO SEARS, SON

NEW YORK, March 21 (UP)—Winthrop Rockefeller settled $6,393,000 on his wife, Barbara (Bobo) Sears Rockefeller, and son in a 1954 divorce settlement, it was disclosed yesterday.

Rockefeller's attorney, Timothy N. Pfeiffer, made the disclosure in testimony in the suit of another attorney to collect $100,000 in counsel fees for the part he says he had in obtaining the settlement for Mrs. Rockefeller. The settlement had previously been estimated at $5,000,000.

Pfeiffer said it provided a $2,393,000 cash settlement for Mrs. Rockefeller, trust funds for her in the amount of $1,500,000, and trust funds totaling $2,500,000 for Winthrop Jr.

Boston attorney Joseph Sax is suing both Rockefellers for the $100,000 fee, asserting he made the financial arrangement which was later put in final form by other lawyers.

Mrs. Rockefeller testified by deposition from Florida hat she had hired Sax only to effect a reconciliation, on the understanding that she would pay him only $100 and expenses if he failed, and that she fired him immediately after a meeting for that purpose did fail.

Rockefeller supported her statement from the witness stand yesterday. He described the meeting in a Chicago hotel room, and said that when it became clear that he had no desire for a reconciliation with his wife, she fired Sax then and there. Rockefeller said Mrs. Rockefeller got out her checkbook to pay Sax immediately but that he refused. She said she later sent him a check for $217.

UNION'S YACHT PUT UP FOR SALE BY NEW CHIEF

© New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, March 21—The 57-foot yacht that figured in Senate criticism of lush practices of the high command of the International Union of Operating Engineers has been listed for sale.

Joseph J. Delaney, new president of the 270,000-member union, disclosed yesterday that he had put the yacht Half Moon into the hands of brokers. The yacht came to public attention six weeks ago in the course of hearings before the Senate rackets investigating committee.

The craft was berthed at Miami, where William E. Maloney, the union's former head, had a winter home. The vessel cost the union $35,000 in 1949. Accountants testified that maintenance charges had brought the total bill to $120,535 by the end of 1956.

UNIONIST PARTY RETAINS CONTROL OF NORTH IRELAND

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, March 21 (AP)—The ruling British Conservative party's political allies in Northern Ireland were assured continued control of the local Parliament today.

Partial returns from the general election yesterday gave the Unionist party 31 seats to 9 for all opposition groups. Returns were not in from 12 districts. In the old Parliament the Unionists had 38 of the 52 seats.

Only one incident of violence was reported, and it was attributed to the underground Irish Republican Army, which wants Northern Ireland merged with the Irish Republic. Terrorists blew up a customs building on the border near Newry, County Down. No one was hurt.

Ancient Temple is Found

VIENNA, March 21 (AP) — A temple of the Egyptian goddess Isis has been discovered in eastern Hungary at Szombathely. Archeologists said it was built by Egyptian soldiers serving with the Roman legions. The Romans first conquered parts of Hungary in about 35 B.C.

Wallbridge avenue would become one-way southbound and Clara place would become a northbound street between Lee and Farlin avenues.

Other one-way streets in the area would be: Harney avenue, westbound, Union boulevard to Mimika; ,Davidson avenue southbound, Thekla to Prange avenue; Plover avenue, south bound, West Florissant to Stratford avenue; Genevieve avenue, southbound, West Florissant to Prange.

Alcott avenue, northbound, Thekla to Bircher boulevard; Claxton avenue, southbound, West Florissant to Prang; Wren, Beacon and Arlington avenues, northbound, Bircher to West Florissant.

The stop signs which will be eliminated are at the intersections of the following streets: Mimika and Garesche; Lena and Acme avenues; Penrose street and Dressell avenue; Darby street and Grimshaw avenue; Theodore and Wren; Plover and Theodore; Harney and Wren; Gooldfellow and Stratford.

When he introduced the measures, Noel said he was preparing for the changing traffic pattern which will result in the area when the Mark Twain Expressway is completed and in operation.

Bill Allowed to Die.

A measure providing for revision or elimination of several hundred stop signs throughout the city died without action. This bill contained some of the recommendations made by the consulting firm of George Barton and Associates last year after a study for which the city paid $35,000.

Parking restrictions imposed by the master traffic plan were removed by a bill enacted today which affected Russell boulevard between Second and Ninth streets. Parking was prohibited by the master traffic plan on either side of the street during the morning and afternoon peak hours.

Cottage avenue was made a one-way street for westbound traffic between Pendelton and Taylor avenues.

Other new one-way thoroughfares authorized by the aldermen included:

Westbound — Milentz avenue Kingshighway and Hampton avenue; Farlin avenue between Clarence and Fair avenues, and Rhodes avenue between Hampton and Macklind avenue.

Eastbound — Goethe avenue between Kingshighway and Hampton; Simley avenue between Jamieson and Ivanhoe avenues.

Southbound — Richard place between Carter and Kossuth avenues.

Four bills involving revisions of parking restrictions on Biddle and O'Fallon streets, which have been made one-way streets since the adoption of the master traffic plan, were also enacted.

Three bills restricting parking on DesPeres avenue between Delmar boulevard and Lindell boulevard were passed. One prohibits parking between 7 and 9 a.m. on the west side from Delmar to the University car tracks; the other prohibits parking at any time on the west side between the tracks and Lindell; and the third prohibits parking on the east side between 4 and 6 p.m. from Lindell to Delmar.

Intermittent Jail Terms.

City judges would be empowered to permit defendants to serve jail or Workhouse sentences intermittently, such as on weekends, under terms of another approved measure.

Another bill voted would broaden provisions of rat control ordinances to permit the raising and keeping of pigeons. Andrew Leponis, who raises show pigeons as a hobby at his home at 2759 Arsenal street, was arrested last month under an ordinance that went into effect about a year ago. Leponis escaped penalty by obtaining a pet shop license.

The aldermen repealed a recently-enacted ordinance directing condemnation of the Public Service Co.'s streetcar right of way extending from DeBaliviere avenue west to the city limits, in connection with the proposed Rock Island expressway.

The ordinance, if allowed to stand, would require legal action to be started within six months. Frank Kriz, president of the Board of Public Service, recently told aldermen he believed the Public Service Co. eventually would abandon the right of way.

Abandonment Awaited.

The utility earlier had indicated abandonment of the right of way was under consideration. After the city moved toward condemnation, the company announced its damages might run as high as $1,000,000. City officials then decided to wait for abandonment of the route instead of risk being faced with payment of condemnation damages.

A measure also was voted to permit city-owned vehicles to be parked on the parking lot south of City Hall without coins being inserted in the parking meters.

A bill which had been introduced by Alderman Alfred I. Harris, requiring the Board of Education to place flood lights outside of all schools to combat vandalism, was passed by a vote of 26 to 2. Harris said flood lighting would be less expensive than putting burglar alarms on the schools.

Alderman William A. Stolar (Rep.), Twentieth-eighth Ward, said he was opposed to the city telling the Board of Education what to do. He said he believed the bill was illegal. Harris contended it was legal under the city's policing powers.

INDONESIA REBELS CUT OFF CREW OF EX-S. ILLINOISAN

JOHNSTON CITY, Ill., March 21 (AP)—A former Southern Illinoisan is a member of a construction crew cut off from direct communication with the outside world in the jungles of Sumatra.

He is Earl Capps, 38 years old, an electrical contractor working for Bechtel Construction Co., San Francisco. The crew is building an oil pipeline on the Indonesian island.

A relative in Johnston City said the last letter from Capps was dated Jan. 31. Since then the Bechtel company has reported only intermittent shortwave contact with the crew.

Capp's wife, Virginia, lives in Portland, Ore. Capps formerly lived in Anna and West Frankfort.

His cousin, Henry Capps, said Capps is working in territory held by rebel forces fighting the Indonesian government. Capps left for Sumatra in October.

BRAZILIAN JUDGE REVOKES ARREST ORDER FOR RED

© New York Times News Service

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 21 — The Communists were given a clear track to build a projected anti-American front in the election campaign here yesterday when a court revoked a standing order for the arrest of the old Stalinist leader Luiz Carlos Prestes.

The decision announced by Criminal Court Judge Jose Monjardim permits Prestes to emerge from the underground where he has spent the last 10 years. Monjardim said he ordered Prestes to remain in Rio de Janeiro and present himself to the court once monthly.

While the Communist party, barred in 1947, continues to be considered illegal, the court's decision permits Prestes and other Red Leaders to return to the public stage.

The announcement followed last weekend's Communist call for a united nationalist front against "American imperialism" in the October elections.

GOV. BLAIR GETS FIRST COPY OF '58 STATE BLUE BOOK

JEFFERSON CITY, March 21 (AP) — Secretary of State Walter H. Toberman presented the first advance copy of the new Missouri Blue Book to Gov. James T. Blair yesterday.

The Blue Book is the official state manual for 1957-58. Members of the Legislature will get their copies next week, and Mrs. Thelma P. Goodwin, the editor, says general distribution will start in three weeks.

The 1500-page volume goes to schools, libraries, newspapers, radio and television stations and others.

The book, a storehouse of information about the state and its government, includes a Civil War feature called "Tragic Brotherhood" by Will Davis, Toberman's chief clerk. It is the third in a series about the confused loyalties of Missouri during the war years.

Toberman dedicated the volume this year to "Unity—bulwark of greatness for state and nation."

PLANETARIUM SITE AT LINDELL AND DEBALIVIERE

A vacant tract of land at the northwest corner of Lindell boulevard and DeBaliviere avenue has been recommended by the City Plan Commission as a site for a proposed planetarium it was announced last night. The planetarium will be constructed with funds authorized in the 1955 public improvement bond issue.

The site is about six and one-half acres, including 1.8 acres of city-owned property and 4.9 acres of private property, Arthur F. Schwarz, chairman of the Plan Commission said.

Acquisition of the portion of the land not owned by the city, Schwarz explained, will involve condemnation proceedings. The entire tract is now zoned for residential use.

Future Cultural Center.

The Lindell-DeBaliviere location was chosen after nearly two years of study. A plan commission committee decided that a planetarium site should become a nucleus of an expanding cultural center, with a location which could be expanded for additional cultural facilities such as a science center, museum of natural history and aquarium, Schwarz said.

The committee pointed out that the Lindell-DeBaliviere site is near City Art Museum and the Jefferson Memorial.

The site was given additional favorable consideration because of its central location and good access by public transportation, as well as private automobiles, it was said. The proposed Forest Park expressway will be constructed immediately north of Lindell.

To assure use of the land west from the proposed planetarium site to Des Peres avenue as an area for future location of cultural buildings and facilities, the Plan Commission will seek to amend the official Land Use Plan. That land now is zoned for residential use. About 10 large residences are located there.

Consideration of a location adjacent to the proposed Mississippi riverfront memorial was dropped, Schwarz said, when it was learned cost of acquisition would be prohibitive and acquisition of the Government-owned land would require an act of Congress.

Locations in Forest Park were turned down because the commission felt a planetarium would take up too much open recreation area, Schwarz said. The commission's recommendation will be considered by other city agencies.

At a meeting last night at the Statler Hilton Hotel, the commission also approved three minor revisions in the Plaza Redevelopment plan.

The revisions were made by the Urban Redevelopment Corp. to increase the total number of parking spaces to comply with Federal Housing Administration requirements, the commission was told.

In the block bounded by Pine, Olive, Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, an elongated parking area providing 35 spaces for surface parking over an underground parking area is now proposed.

In an adjacent block, a second revision calls for a parking lot with one point of entry, instead of the previously proposed two entries from Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets, with two tiers of parking accommodating 158 automobiles.

The third revision provides for some additional parking area between proposed apartment buildings by extending the parking areas to the buildings.

Conditional Approval.

The commission approved the revisions as to location and general character "subject to provision of adequate screening of parking areas as well as adequate landscaping," Schwarz pointed out.

A representative of the Federal Housing Administration said the commission's approval of the revisions in the parking plan for the project was a necessary condition to approval of the Urban Development Corp.'s applications for FHA insurance.

The applications are now being processed but further information has been requested from the redeveloper, and until it is received no insurance commitment can be made, he said.

Hungary Bars Prayer Books.

GRAZ, Austria, March 21 (AP)—Red Hungarian customs officials have rejected a shipment of 62,000 children's prayer books, printed here in Hungarian. They were ordered by a Roman Catholic church at Kaposvar. Catholic authorities said the books were returned without explanation.

NASSER ASSAILS ARAB FEDERATION, SAUD, EISENHOWER

CAIRO, March 21 (UP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic ushered in the Moslem holy month of Ramadan last night with a bitter attack on the Iraqi-Jordanian federation and King Saud of Saudi Arabia.

In a two-hour address delivered in Cairo's Gomhouria square, Nasser told a crowd of thousands that he had won out over every "imperialist weapon." Nasser, in what many persons took to be an attack on King Saud, assailed "individuals bought by United States money."

He called King Hussein of Jordan a traitor who "betrayed" Arab nationalism by supporting what he called "imperialist aims."

He used some of his strongest criticism on the Eisenhower Doctrine, which he said was designed to "lead Arabs away from their objectives."

3 YOUTHS BEAT PEDESTRIAN FOR NO APPARENT REASON

John Fenner, a laborer of 4510 Oakland avenue, was beaten by three youths who attacked him last night without provocation as he was walking in Taylor avenue near Oakland, he reported to police.

Fenner, 51 years old, said the youths, accompanied by three teen-age girls, drove up in an automobile, jumped out and started after him. One hit him in the mouth with his fist and knocked him down. The other two kicked him. Then the three tossed him into a vacant lot. Fenner was treated at City Hospital for a cut lip and bruises.

VALLEY PARK AREA ZONING PLEA TO COUNTY COUNCIL

A proposed zoning law change, requested by the Frisco Railroad, to permit industrial development of a 532-acre tract near Valley Park will be introduced in the St. Louis County Council next Wednesday, County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews announced today.

He said the County Planning Commission, which had voted approval of the measure after a public hearing last Tuesday, expedited final action on the measure at his request. Under normal procedure this action would not have been until April 1 and the council would not have received the bill until April 9.

The land lies east and west of the $50,000,000 Chrysler Corp. assembly plant under construction on U. S. Highway 66 west of Sylvan Beach. It is now zoned for residential, commercial and resort use.

Recession

cost the cost of living and general business conditions, he said. Food and services, two big categories in the consumer index, are slow to respond to a business downturn, he added.

Consumer durable goods—such things as automobiles, furniture and appliances—are quicker to reflect a recession, and price decreases have begun to be noted on some of these items, Clague said. The same is true of consumer "soft goods" such as gasoline, household fuels and clothing, he added.

The commissioner pointed out, however, that prices on some durable lines already are being heavily discontinued, so that these items have not been selling at factory list prices for months.

Clague said the weekly spendable earnings figures for workers were the averages for about 13,000,000 factory production workers, about one-fifth of the country's total labor force.

The decreases in weekly paychecks for these workers resulted from a "slight dip" in number of hours worked weekly, meaning either production curtailments and layoffs or less overtime work, both reflections of the business downturn.

Housing and Rents.

The housing category of the cost of living index advanced .2 per cent in February. Rents were up .1 per cent on an over-all basis, although decreases were reported in several cities.

Prices of home furnishings rose .7 per cent, principally due to higher prices for textiles after the January "white sales." Costs of home repairs and maintenance rose .4 per cent. Gas bills were higher but the price of fuel oil declined.

In the area of services, medical care went up .1 per cent last month. There was a decline of .1 per cent in transportation prices. Clothing prices were down .1 per cent, due to a drop in price of women's clothes. Men's apparel held steady.

A decrease of 2.7 per cent in gasoline prices, as a result of price wars in several cities, contributed largely to the drop in transportation costs. Automobile insurance rates "rose substantially," the index report said.

Some Get Pay Rise.

The over-all .2 per cent living cost increase means a pay rise of one or two cents an hour for about 100,000 workers whose wage contracts have "escalator clauses" tied to fluctuations in the index.

Clague said the workers affected are in the aircraft, metal work and local transit industries. The aircraft firms are Martin, Hughes and Fairchild.

The rise in food costs last month was cuased by increases in prices on allmost all items. Meat, poultry and fish prices were up an average of 1.6 per cent. Some pseecific increases were :Chicken, 3.5 per cent; bacon, 2.1 per cent; chuck roast, 3.4 per cent, and hamburger, 2.4 per cent.

Clague said the advances in fruit and vegetable prices were accounted for by crop freezes in Florida and generally poor weather conditions over much of the South. Lower prices for fruit and vegetables can be expected in May or June, he aded.

He was pessimistic about living costs as a whole in the next few months, saying he did not see "much chance" for a downturn. The main problem will be to hold prices stable and prevent further substantial increases, he added.

By the United Press.

Other economic developments:

The Commerce Department announced last night plans to spend $63,566,135 on 358 airport construction and improvement projects as another anti-recession measure. The money already was provided in the Administration's fiscal 1959 budget, but the department had not heretofore detailed where and how it would be spent. It will be used for projects in all of the 48 states.

House Democratic leaders plan to meet within 10 days to discuss the kind of tax cut they will propose when and if they decide a reduction is needed. Their present disposition is to hold off on any tax-cutting drive until the President signals that such action is necessary to pull the economy out of the recession.

Senator Paul Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, estimated that unemployment in the week of March 8 rose to between 5,400,000 and 5,650,000 based on unemployment compensation claims. The latest Administration figures placed unemployment as of last month at 5,173,000.

Representative Peter Frelinghuysen Jr. (Rep.), New Jersey, introduced a $1,800,000,000 school construction bill for the "twofold purpose" of combating unemployment and classroom shortages. It calls for federal grants of $600,000,000 annually for three years for school construction. States or local communities would have to put up equal matching funds.

Alcorn Says Democrats Would Spend 'At Random.'

DELAWARE, O., March 21 (AP)—Meade Alcorn, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said today Democrats would spend federal funds "at random" to halt the business downturn.

Republicans, he added, are not willing to "hand our grandchildren a billion dollar bill for 1958 leaf-raking."

In an address prepared for Ohio Wesleyan University's student assembly, he said the difference between the two parties on the current recession is this:

"The Democrats see in this a negative, hard-times issue on which their various splinter groups can unite. Their answer is twofold: (1) Mount a massive publicity barrage of professional pessimism to shake confidence in the future and (2) wheel out their traditional and only economic weapon, the Federal Treasury, and fire it off pretty much at random in all directions.

"We Republicans see in the downturn a temporary challenge to the working partnership of government and private initiative. We refuse to spread fear and panic among our people.

"We refuse to believe that the bright future of America has suddenly dimmed. We quietly loosen credit, encourage enterprise and carry out a solid economic program to stimulate and accelerate spending only for things the country needs."

SHAW'S GARDEN OFFERS HORTICULTURE COURSE

A course in spring horticulture opened today at Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden, 2315 Tower Grove avenue, in the garden's experimental greenhouse.

Members will receive instruction on plant growth and pruning in classes which will meet three hours once a week for five weeks, under instruction of Clarence Barbre of the garden's horticultural council.

Each person enrolling will be given space and material for 300 seedlings which will be grown in flats, cultivated and later taken home for replanting. There is a nominal charge for the course.

'WE ARE HAPPY' IS RULED UNFAIR BY NLRB EXAMINER

WASHINGTON, March 21 (UP)—An examiner for the National Labor Relations Board ruled today it could be an unfair labor practice for an employer to make workers wear buttons saying "We are happy."

Examiner Louis Plost said the United Butchers Abatoir of Atlanta, Ga., frustrated its employes' efforts to form a union when a company official passed out the "happy buttons."

The examiner said 18 employes laid off at the plant in January all wore buttons proclaiming their membership in the United Packinghouse Workers Union. He recommended that the NLRB order the firm to rehire 12 of the workers and bargain with the union.

$800,000 Xochimilco Project.

MEXICO CITY, March 21 (UP) — Authorities announced today that Mexico's famous floating gardens of Xochimilco would be improved soon. They said $800,000 would be spent to deepen the canals of the gardens from three to six feet and also to treat the stagnant waters.

ROBBER TRAPPED BY 2 YOUTHS IN DEADEND STREET

A man who said he was Ralph R. Hill, a machinist, was held by county police today after he admitted fighting with a 73-year-old drug store operator in a $35 holdup in Bel Ridge last night. Hill, who fled in a taxicab, was trapped by two youths, who used their automobile to block the cab in a deadend street.

William C. Todd, operator of the store at 8600 Natural Bridge road, Bel Ridge, said Hill came into the store about 10 p.m. He kept his right hand in his coat pocket as though holding a pistol. "'Don't say a word or I'll kill you,'" Todd quoted Hill as saying.

Hill then forced the proprietor to hand over the $35 from one cash register and demanded that he get the money from a second register.

Victim Attacks Robber.

At that point, Todd, who is five feet, five inches tall, struck Hill in the face with his fist and kicked him in the groin, police were told. Hill fought back and the two fell to the floor with such force that a heavy candy counter was moved several inches.

Hill broke away from Todd and ran to the door. Todd ran after him and sounded a burglar alarm, which is installed above the door.

Just then the two youths, Les Lauber Jr., 3410 Maybelle drive, Normandy, son of the Normandy police chief, and Richard Cellner, 18, 5312 Winslow avenue, Normandy, were driving by in their automobile.

They said they say the man run from the store, fall to one knee on the sidewalk, get up and jump into the taxicab, which had been waiting at the curb.

Follow Taxicab.

The youths followed the taxicab south in Carson road. When it turned into Wales avenues, a narrow deadend street, the youths placed their machine across the street, blocking the cab from getting away. One of them ran to a nearby home and asked that police be called.

Deputy Marshal Carl Ducept arrived in a few minutes and took Hill and the cab driver into custody. Hill surrendered without a struggle. Later, he was identified by Todd as the robber.

Ducept said he found $27 in bills and about $8 in change in Hill's pockets. He was booked suspected of assault and robbery. The cab driver was held as a material witness.

BARON MASSY, 'PENNILESS PEER OF KILLADEE,' DIES

RATHFARNHAM, Ireland, March 21 (AP)—The death of Baron Massy, known as "the penniless peer of Killadee," was announced today. He was 63 years old.

Massy's father died before his mother did, and her will failed to provide the eighth baron with any income.

He inherited Killadee Castle but, lacking the money to maintain it, moved to a lodge near the castle gate. He did his own housework and was often seen tramping the countryside to gather firewood. To eke out what income he had, he served tea to hikers.

GIANT TELESCOPE TO PLOT LAST DAYS OF SPUTNIK II

MANCHESTER, England, March 21 (UP)—The world's largest radio telescope will be used to plot the last days of the second Soviet earth satellite, it was announced today.

Prof. A. C. B. Lovell, head of the Jodrell Bank Observatory, said its giant radio-telescope would be switched from other work next week to scour the skies for Sputnik II. The telescope plotted the first few weeks of the second Soviet satellite after it was launched Nov. 3. It also followed the first Sputnik for a time.

The Moscow radio has announced that Sputnik II could be expected to enter the earth's atmosphere and burn up some time in early April.

Grandiose Plans Hog-Tie U.S. In Missile Race, Von Braun Says

LOS ANGELES, March 21 (AP) — The United States is hog-tied in the satellite race because it is trying to produce an elaborate space vehicle too soon, says Dr. Wernher von Braun.

This country's leading missile expert last night criticized the "idolized weapons system concept"—the idea of integrating the vehicle, its armament, navigational aids and supporting ground equipment before it is launched.

"Did the Wright brothers operate under the weapons system concept?" Von Braun asked in addressing the western space age conference.

"Let's get a good, big rocket engine adequate to power a manned orbital rocket, even if the latter does not qualify as an integrated weapons system but is nothing but a glorified test bed.

"We are literally hog-tied because we cannot proceed without first satisfying all the small print specifications required under the idolized weapons system concept," said Von Braun, chief of the guided missile development at the Army's Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala.

Thoughtless Application.

This concept is thoughtlessly applied to the United State's fledgling steps into space, said Von Braun, adding:

"In fact, I am quite convinced that it has already cost us serious delays.

"The weapons system will not work here because no one can, at this stage of the game, determine the forms of potential space warfare.

"Do you get an atomic bomb by waiting for some ordnance officer to establish a military requirement for a bigger bang than he can produce with TNT? Or do you begin with a scientist and a note pad, using his imagination and inspired by curiosity?"

Von Braun said he would rather see a less-than-perfect manned satellite in three years than a perfect one in five—when the "Russians have again beaten us to the punch."

He said the aircraft and missile industry had failed to utilize 25 to 30 per cent of its scientists and aeronautical engineers because of "unavoidable ups and downs between projects."

'Sorry Waste of Talent.'

Sometimes proposed projects are canceled, other times there are changes because of military or operational considerations, said Von Braun.

"After each such cancellation or re-orientation, hundreds of scientists are temporarily without a job," he said. "From the national point of view it is a loss. I think nobody can deny that there is a sorry waste of talent."

He offered this remedy:

"Improve our bidding and contract assignment methods by putting more emphasis on the stabilization of time-tested development teams and by avoiding the need for that most striking anachronism of our time: The scientifically educated missile expert trying to peddle missile projects at a time when everybody seems to believe that our progress in missile technology is limited by our shortage in scientists and engineers."

A fleet of winged missiles could cruise over the earth for months on end, ready to streak down on any target at a moment's notice, the conference was told today.

Atomic Engine Research.

General Manager William F. Ballhaus of Nortronics, the electronics division of Northrop Aircraft, Inc., said:

"Considerable research is now in progress on atomic engines. Such engines will make it possible for winged missiles to cruise for months over the face of the earth.

"Should present negotiations with the Russians for an open skies agreement ever materialize, I can visualize a fleet of winged missiles with atomic engines and automatic reconnaissance equipment maintaining constant aerial inspection which is part of the open skies plan.

"If we were to let our imaginations rove, we could see fleets of atomic-powered winged missiles carrying thermo-nuclear warheads cruising endlessly in a condition of immediate readiness to strike at pre-selected or command targets."

Such missiles, Ballhaus said, would not need refueling and would have to be returned to their bases only for periodic maintenance work.

RISE IN VACANT DWELLINGS

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—The number of vacant dwellings available for sale or rent edged up slightly in the fourth quarter of 1957, but the percentage still was relatively low, the Census Bureau reported yesterday.

Two dwellings in every 100 were vacant and available for rent, the bureau said, and one dwelling in 200 was vacant and available for sale. The total rate of available vacant dwellings was 2.5 per cent compared with 2.4 per cent in the third quarter and 2.3 per cent in the previous two quarters of the year. The average rate in 1956 was 2.6 per cent.

TV WINNINGS AT $140,300

NEW YORK, March 21 (UP) —A 30-year-old Army captain from Kalamazoo, Mich., boosted his winnings to $140,300 on a television quiz show last night.

Capt. Michael O'Rourke defeated recording engineer Arthur Leigh of New York on the NBC-TV program "Tic Tac Dough" and tied another contestant before time ran out. O'Rourke and sales administrator Martin Dowd of West New York, N.J., will appear on the program again next Thursday night to take up where they left off at questions worth $2900.

Too Few Lawyers in Ghana.

ACCRA, March 21 (AP)—Ghana is going to abolish a law that allows only lawyers who have qualified in Britain to practice in Ghana courts. Premier Nkrumah said there are just 104 practicing lawyers in this Negro nation and there should be more.

'CRATED' KOREAN TURNS OUT AS NO MERE BOY AFTER ALL

SEOUL, March 21 (UP) — United States Army investigators have discovered new evidence in the case of the Korean "crated boy" which may lead to reduction of charges brought against an Army captain, it was learned today.

It is now reported that the Korean youth involved in the case, Kim Choon Il, was actually 19 years old and not 14 as he had claimed. Capt. Marvin E. Kemp of Kilmichael, Miss., is charged with "unlawfully assaulting and striking a child under the age of 16."

National police have taken Kim from the orphanage where he was placed by the United States Army and placed him in a juvenile detention home to await trial on robbery and narcotics charges. Police disclosed Kim had been arrested seven times previously on similar charges.

Mill Creek Plan

the Mill Creek Valley failed to pass on a narrow vote.

The resolution also would have required reasonable time schedules for construction and the provision of housing accommodations within the means of the present residents of the area.

President Gunn, opposing the resolution at this time, said it might be construed as an attempt to give orders to the federal government, the Land Clearance Authority and others before the "project gets off the ground." He suggested it could be offered later with more propriety.

The vote was 13 for, 12 against and two not voting. It was ruled defeated under a rule that requires an affirmative vote of a majority of those present.

Pre-Session Caucus.

The aldermen, holding their last meeting of the 1957-58 session today, paved the way for quick action on Mill Creek by holding a caucus before convening. Discussion with land clearance officials cleared up questions about the redevelopment program. The aldermanic committee on housing and land clearance brought the bills out on the floor with a unanimous recommendation for enactment.

Clarence M. Turley, one of the project developers, assured the aldermen there will be no unnecessary delay in the program. He said applications have been received from more industries than there will be room for, and that orderly development is planned. "We are not going to develop a heterogeneous mess of industries," he said.

One reason speedy approvel by the Board of Aldermen is needed, Turley added, is the danger that federal money now earmarked for this work may be allocated elsewhere.

Joseph Cousin, secretary of the Building Trades Council, likewise urged prompt approval. "We in the building trades want to get these projects moving," he said.

The legislation gives the go-ahead signal to the Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority, which says it will lose no time in filing an application for a $50,000,000 federal loan and grant contract with the Urban Renewal Administration. The money will finance purchase of property, demolition of old buildings and installation of site improvements in the area bounded by Grand boulevard, Olive and Twentieth streets and the Mill Creek railroad tracks.

The municipal agency hopes to begin buying land in 60 to 90 days. There are 2200 parcels to be acquired, by negotiated purchase or by condemnation, and it is estimated that this will require two and one-half to three years.

Land acquisition will begin at the southwestern corner of the redevelopment area, in the section bordering Grand between Clark and Laclede avenues. It is here that the first new housing will be erected.

2100 Dwelling Units.

There will be 2100 dwelling units in University Heights Village, as the new residential area of Mill Creek Valley will be called. City & Suburban Homes, a New York firm, will provide about 1700 of the units, and the remainder will be built by a group of local real estate men who have organized the St. Louis Redevelopment Corp. This corporation also will handle most of the commercial and all of the industrial redevopment.

Now that the aldermen have passed the required enabling legislation, the Land Clearance Authority will draw up contracts with the redevelopers spelling out terms on which properties are to be sold. The aldermen must approve these contracts.

It has been estimated that it will cost $37,000,000 to acquire all the properties, clear selected tracts and sell the ground at reduced price for redevelopment. The Federal Government defrays two-thirds of this "writedown," and the city bears the remaining third, or about $12,330,000.

Since the city will be credited for public facilities it provides, its actual cash contribution is not expected to exceed $5,900,000. This sum would come out of a $10,000,000 fund for urban redevelopment projects provided by the 1955 bond issue.

Federal law requires that the local Land Clearance Authority find decent housing for displaced persons. The agency will help defray moving expenses by paying up to $100 per family and $2500 per small business establishment.

St. Louis U. Declaration.

St. Louis University has declared its "desire and intention" to develop a 20-acre portion of the Mill Creek Valley project, immediately east of Grand boulevard, the Rev. Paul C. Reinert S.J., president of the university, told a Building Code Conference today.

"This is an opportunity which the university must seize, no matter what the cost or the difficulty involved," Father Reinert said. The two-day meeting, which ends tomorrow, is sponsored by the St. Louis University department of engineering in co-operation with the Missouri Association of Building Official and Inspectors, St. Louis Department of Public Safety and Building Officials Conference of America.

Father Reinert said the university would have to pay the "fair estimated value" in line with the projected residential use of the surrounding territory. The estimate, he continued, has been placed as high as $2,000,000, "an amount which represents a frightening drain on already badly strained resources, particularly since these projects demand cash payment."

The initial cost of the land would be only the beginning of expenditures, he declared. Eventually, at least another $10,000,000 would be needed for new buildings and improvements on the tract of land, the university president said.

ALCORN SAYS RAYBURN MADE 'FALSE CHARGE'

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 21—A sharp attack on Speaker Sam Rayburn (Dem.), Texas, came yesterday from the chairman of the Republican National Committee. Meade Alcorn accused the Speaker of a "false charge" that the Eisenhower Administration is not fighting the recession.

Avoiding all mention of the Democratic anti-recession program that now is moving through Congress, Alcorn criticized Rayburn for failing to act on such "long-pending Administration economic proposals as depressed area assistance, tax relief for small business, post office modernization" and other items.

Alcorn asserted: "Mr. Rayburn's false charge that the Administration is not acting to stimulate business conditions is particularly outrageous in view of the seven-point Administration program announced March 8 and the summary of previous actions made public on Feb. 12."

LUCKY LUCIANO IS RULED 'FREE CITIZEN' OF ITALY

© New York Times News Service

NAPLES, March 21—Charles (Lucky) Luciano, former New York racketeer, was declared "a free citizen" by a special commission of the penal tribunal here yesterday. It rejected a police recommendation to have him formally reprimanded.

The judiciary commission said it found Salvatore Lucania, which is "Lucky's" legal name, was "leading a perfectly regular life that does not call for any censure." The group that investigated Luciano was composed of three judges and a public prosecutor.

The police had moved for tighter surveillance over the former hoodlum, alleging that he was living beyond his visible means of support, that he associated with dubious characters and that he was maintaining ties with the American underworld. Luciano was deported to his native Italy in 1946.

URGES YEARLY PHYSICAL EXAMINATION FOR PUPILS

Physicians can prevent many diseases if parents of the community will bring their school children in for routine, yearly examinations, Dr. V. H. Casner, president of the Missouri Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, said last night.

Dr. Casner of Kirksville, Mo., addressing the St. Louis chapter of the state organization at the Gatesworth Hotel, said that by taking advantage of modern inoculation many diseases can be prevented by yearly physical examinations of school children. He urged community education in good health habits and practices.

"The medical profession with all the scientific prevention and therapy provided by moder- research," he said, "cannot do the whole job."

TOWER GROVE PARK'S NEED FOR FUND RISE CITED

A "substantial" increase in this year's appropriation for Tower Grove Park will be necessary to avoid a drastic reduction in services and maintenance, the park commissioners said in their annual report yesterday.

For the last five years Tower Grove Park has received $45,000 a year from the city—with no increase to meet rising costs. The amount sought now for the next fiscal year is $71,032.

As an example of stringent steps already taken to conserve the funds available, it was noted that the annual report was for two years, the 1956 report raving been omitted.

Receipts from sale of soft drinks, tennis permits and other miscellaneous sources brought in about $10,000 extra for last year and the year before, but still there was a 1956 deficit of $1306 and last year it was $6990.

"Every expedient of day by day operational economy was resorted to, none of which was conducive to high standards of public park maintenance," the report said. "In a metropolitan city such as St. Louis this is a deplorable fact inconsistent with progress."

It said further: "Tower Grove Park's traditional deficit has become an undesirable park distinctive—a hackneyed fact—a chronic obstacle the commissioners face year after year and about which a large segment of the public is becoming more and more aware."

The park's trees, numbering about 12,000, were badly damaged by the drouth and disease from 1952 through 1956, and hundreds of trees and limbs still have to be removed. For that purpose the commissioners propose to spend $20,000 of bond issue money voted in 1955.

Tower Grove Park, with 285 acres, is second to Forest Park in size. The land was given to the city by Henry Shaw in 1868.

NEW OIL WELL DRILLING STARTED IN CENTRAL OMAN

© New York Times News Service

BEIRUT, March 20—Drilling has begun on a new oil site in the Sultanate of Muscat and Oman, it was learned yesterday.

An affiliate of the Iraq Petroleum Co., working in the little known and desolate interior of Oman, has begun a new well about 75 miles southeast of Fahud where nearly two years of drilling failed to produce exploitable oil.

Fahud was abandoned last month. The new well was spudded in on March 3 at a point named Al Ghaba, about 75 miles due south of Nizwa, the traditional capital of central Oman and the scene of the revolt against the Sultan last summer.

ASIAN AID KEY TO SURVIVAL, ADMIRAL SAYS

WASHINGTON, March 21 (UP) — Adm. Felix B. Stump, United States Pacific commander, said today the United States could not "resist Communism if we lose Asia." And it cannot hold Asia, he said, without continued economic and military aid.

"It's just that simple," the Admiral told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Stump, urging approval of President Eisenhower's $3,900,000,000 foreign aid program, said he felt the Administration did not ask for enough in its request for $1,800,000,000 in outright military aid.

While the United States is "reasonably well off" in the Far East, he said, "I think we should be stronger."

Stump said the Russians have been furnishing the Chinese Reds with more and more submarines and have greatly increased their own submarine activity in Far Eastern waters.

"Foreign military and economic aid are absolutely essential to the survival of the United States," Stump said. "If our military and economic aid is denied to some of the countries of Asia, the time would be very short indeed before those countries would be forced to join the Communist bloc."

Asked the probabilities of war in the Far East, Stump replied:

"I don't think there will be any as long as we maintain a military posture sufficient to strike back immediately, and, just as important, as long as we make clear our intent to strike back if any of these Allied nations are attacked."

Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson, intestimony made public last night, warned there has been no apparent weakening of the Russia-Red China alliance and that the situation in the Far East remains critical for that reason.

Robertson, in charge of Far Eastern affairs for the State Department, said Moscow and Peiping were still "softening" free Asian governments through subversion while awaiting "large, sudden gains" through wars or revolutions.

Robertson, at recent closed-door hearings of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, urged congressional approval of the Administration's foreign aid program.

Robertson said the Communists while pressing subversive activity have remained militarily strong in North Korea and in Viet Nam where they have a puppet army in the north of from 350,000 to 400,000 men.

He said the Communists have an army of some 3,000,000 men on the Chinese mainland and hundreds of modern airplanes.

BIG BELL STOLEN; MAN UNWITTINGLY ASSISTS THIEVES

A 1000-pound white brass bell, more than 100 years old and valued at $1000, has been stolen from the Union Methodist Church in Belleville, police there were told yesterday. What is more, a man living near the church unwittingly assisted the thieves in taking it.

The Rev. Eugene M. Leckrone, pastor, said the bell was placed in the yard back of the church after it was removed from the belfry of the old First Methodist Church, following a merger of First Methodist and Jackson street Methodist Church. Because of its sentimental value, it was to be used to decorate a garden.

The Rev. Mr. Leckrone said about a week ago two men appeared, asking to purchase the bell, cast in 1852. They departed after being told it was not for sale. Yesterday, the Rev. Mr. Leckrone noticed that the bell was gone.

A check among nearby residents disclosed that two men had been seen working around the bell Wednesday after dark. One neighbor, curious, asked the men what they were doing. They said they had bought the bell, so he helped them load it onto a truck after they cut and iron pulley wheel from the bell with an acetylene torch. The neighbor was not identified.

AIRLINES ASK U.S. TO DROP SALE OF SURPLUS PLANES

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—Airlines asked the Government yesterday to postpone or abandon its plan to sell in the open market 112 C-46 airplanes declared surplus by the Defense Department.

Spokesmen for the airlines and aviation organizations told the Commerce Department disposal of the planes "in an already depressed market" would damage the resale value of planes they own.

This would impair the finances of airline companies at a time when vast outlays for the new jet transports are just beginning, the airline officials argued. The Government sold four of the planes in January for $41,000 each. Industry men said this was about $25,000 below the price received at a surplus sale last fall.

ALGERIAN GIRLS GET RETRIAL

PARIS, March 21 (AP) — The French supreme court ordered a new trial yesterday for two 16-year-old Algerian girls sentenced to death on the guillotine on charges of terrorism.

The two girls were convicted of helping plant bombs in two Algiers stadiums crowded with soccer fans last February. Eleven persons were killed and 45 injured in the two attacks. President Rene Coty last week commuted death sentences of three Algerian women to life imprisonment.

JAPANESE MINERS S...

TOKYO, March 21 (AP) Thirty-five thousand Japanese coal miners walked off their jobs at 15 major mines today. The miners union said the strike would cut production of high-quality coal 38,700 tons a day.

A two-hour stoppage yesterday by 30,000 postal workers delayed delivery of 600,000 postcards and letters and 30,000 packages. Some 80,000 private railway workers are set for a 24-hour strike Sunday.

PEDESTRIAN STRUCK AND KILLED BY AUTO

Henry H. Fiman, 947 Swarthmore lane, University City, was killed when struck by an automobile as he was crossing Delmar boulevard at Academy avenue today. He was 72 years old and a retired dry goods merchant.

Driver of the machine, Mrs. Lillian Frank, 7268 Stanford avenue, University City, told police she was eastbound in Delmar and did not see Fiman until the right front part of her car hit him.

He was thrown about 40 feet and was pronounced dead of head injuries at City Hospital.

Police said Mrs. Frank was driving in the street car lane and that Fiman apparently stepped into the lane from a safety zone.

LARGE NUCLEAR FREE ZONE URGED BY YUGOSLAVIA

BELGRADE, March 21 (AP) —Yugoslavia favors a nuclear free zone involving Greece, Italy, Bulgaria, Albania, Hungary,Romania and Yugoslavia, a government spokesman said today.

Spokesman Jaksa Petric told a news conference, "Yugoslavia believes that no atomic arms of any type should be given to any country in this area."

This would be in addition to Poland's plan for an atomic free zone of East and West Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Yugoslavia supports this idea.

West Germany should not be allowed to have atomic weapons, Petric said, because that would mean "a serious sharpening of the international situation in Europe."

He said Yugoslavia has instructed its ambassador in Rome, Darko Cernej, to state Yugoslavia's opposition to proposals for missiles bases in Italy.

An Italian government spokesman has said that defensive arrangements in the framework of NATO are an internal question of Italy.

POLICE BOARD CONTINUES HEARING ON BRIBE CHARGE

A Police Beord hearing on a charge that Traffic Patrolman Harry A. Bass tried to obtain $20 from a speeder on a promise to drop charges was continued today after the board deliberated 50 minutes on testimony submitted.

Board Chairman H. Sam Priest said a date from the continued hearing would be set later and added that additional charges might be preferred against Bass.

Bass, a policeman since 1949, has been under suspension since March 1, when Richard Fischer, a truck driver, complained that Bass had suggested he leave $20 on the seat of Bass's police car after the officer discovered a shotgun and rifle in the trunk of Fischer's machine. Bass denied Fischer's charge.

NEHRU BACKS INDIA HONORS FOR PAUL ROBESON

© New York Times News Service

NEW DELHI, March 21—Prime Minister Nehru and his daughter are supporting a nation-wide campaign to honor Paul Robeson, American singer who has been denied a passport by the State Department.

Plans are being made to hold meetings and concerts in India's four major cities on April 9, Robeson's sixtieth birthday.

The Prime Minister, backing the campaign, has called Robeson a sufferer in the "cause of huban dignity." His daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, is urging many of her friends to take part in the celebrations.

Robeson is cited frequently and widely by Indian Communists as evidence of United States suppression of civil liberties and mistreatment of Negroes. Robeson is a hero to most Indian intellectuals who have only vague ideas of his political opinions but are attracted by his voice and personality and are convinced he is a man of high ideals.

SUBURBAN TEACHERS GROUP MEETS, SCHOOLS CLOSED

St. Louis county and St. Charles county public school teachers and administrators attended a conference of the St. Louis Suburban Teachers' Association today at Kiel Auditorium. Schools were closed for the meeting which began last night.

State Commissioner of Education Hubert Wheeler and four of his assistants led a panel discussion on "How Can the Department of Education and Classroom Teacher Be Mutually Helpful?" Workshop sessions for teachers also were on the program.

Will Rogers Jr., son of the late humorist, was to address the conference, which ends today.

U.S. METEOROLOGISTS SAID TO BE AHEAD OF RUSSIA'S

Meteorologists and climatologists in this country are ahead of their Russian counterparts generally, though in agricultural meteorology the Russians may surpass the American scientists in certain areas, it was stated here last night.

Dr. Willem Vanderbyl, associate professor of physics at Kansas State College, Manhattan, spoke at a meeting of the American Meteorology Society at Rueppel Hall, St. Louis University, 3621 Olive street. He was associated with the Royal Netherlands Meteorological Institute from 1946 to 1954. He later taught at the University of Chicago, and now teaches the first meteorology and climatology course ever offered at Kansas State.

Examination of Russian meteorological literature shows at least two erroneous methods in research there as early at 1920. However, he said, the Russian mathematical and statistical approach to agricultural problems, such as evaporation of water from soil, may be ahead of the Americans' work.

BLAIR SAYS U.S. CAN LEARN FROM RUSSIA

Russia appears to be putting more emphasis on education for citizenship in a totalitarian state than this country does for citizenship in a democracy, Gov. James T. Blair said here today.

Speaking before the annual convention of the Missouri School Boards Association at Hotel Chase, Gov. Blair asserted that Russia has given teaching a status equaling or exceeding that of any of the other professions, which "we would all have to admit is not done in the United States."

"We would not want to adopt the Soviet educational system unless we wanted to produce citizens for a totalitarian state, but there are some things that can be learned from Russia's educational pattern," he said.

In this country, he continued, workers in many industries earn more than college teachers.

"In contrast, the head of a department in a Russian university has a salary about eight times the income of the average Russian worker," he said. "In the per cent of income spent on education, in the salaries paid teachers, in retirement provisions, free medical care and paid vacations, Russia has done everything possible to attract the most able individuals into teaching.

"We must do much more than produce the most brilliant group of scientists in the world. If we did this and yet failed to create an enlightened electorate, our nation would be in great peril.

"The preservation of peace is fully as important as progress in science. The success of democracy depends on wise participation in public affairs."

In Missouri, he said, as a result of the high birth rate since World War II, the job of providing adequate education for children "is certainly a challenge to your leadership in the local community and my leadership in state government.

"Fortunately, Missouri is a wealthy state. Our per capita state tax is one of the lowest in the nation. The question is not can we afford better education for Missouri children. It is rather can we afford not to provide an educational program that will assure the maximum indviidaul state development."

The meeting opened yesterday and will end tonight with a dinner at which Glenn W. Giddings, manager of the General Electric Co. research laboratory, will speak on "Science in a Democracy."

PROMPT U.S. AID TO ISRAEL, N. AFRICAN NATIONS URGED

Prompt aid to Israel and the new free nations of North Africa from America is the only means of enabling these countries to remain aligned with the West, Hubert T. Delany of New York said last night at a meeting of the St. Louis Council of the American Jewish Congress.

"There is still time in Tunisia, Morocco, the Sudan, Libya and Ethiopia to help these countries remain free," Delany said. "But we must give help free of political demands that are impossible of acceptance. And we must serve notice that the United States will tolerate no new military attacks on Israel."

A retired justice of the New York Domestic Relations Court, Delany said the Soviet Union is gaining considerable satisfaction from the growing anti-Western tide in North Africa, led by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the new United Arab Republic.

TOWN RUSHES, AS USUAL, TO HELP DISABLED PLANE

KANAB, Utah, March 21 (AP)—A small plane circled over Kanab, just north of the Utah-Arizona state line, last night. It was a familiar sight to townspeople, who rushed about 300 automobiles to the small, unlit municipal airport to light up the runway with headlights.

The plane landed short of the runway, narrowly missed a few cars and hit a tree. Aboard were K. L. Lincoln, Alamo (Calif.) contractor, and his wife, Audrey. They were en route to Las Vegas, Nev., from Phoenix, Ariz. Their injuries were not serious. The plane was demolished.

"This is old stuff to folks around here," airport employe R. K. Knight said. "Whenever we see a plane circling at night, we rush the cars out to the airport."

TOWNSEND ON LAST STAGE OF 17-MONTH WORLD TOUR

SETE, France, March 21 (UP) — Group Captain Peter Townsend, returned to Europe today on the last stage of a round-the-world tour he started 17 months ago after the breakup of his romance with Britain's Princess Margaret.

He arrived in this Mediterranian port on a French cargo ship from Algiers. Townsend said he expected to be in Brussels Monday or Tuesday. His trip started there Oct. 21, 1956.

Townsend would say little about his immediate plans except that he has "many things to do." He also said he is giving up horseracing and turning to writing a book.

BUS DRIVER SAVES PUPILS

SYOSSET, N. Y., March 21 (AP)—A school bus driver averted a tragedy yesterday by quickly evacuating 20 children from his stalled vehicle a few minutes before it was smashed by a train.

Witnesses said Albert Witte of Bayville, N. Y., almost threw some of the slow-moving pupils out of the bus and herded them to a safe distance before a Long Island Railroad train rammed the bus.

200,000 RUHR STEEL, IRON WORKERS TO VOTE ON STRIKE

GELSENKIRCHEN, Germany, March 21 (AP) — West Germany's big metal workers union today ordered a strike vote by 200,000 iron and steel workers in the industrial Ruhr.

The union set the vote for next Thursday after rejecting a 3.7 per cent wage increase offered by management. The workers are seeking an 8 per cent increase of wages now averaging 83 cents an hour, including fringe benefits. A walkout would paralyze the German steel industry — now the world's third largest after the United States and the Soviet Union.

More than 250,000 municipal workers went on a 24-hour strike Wednesday. Textile, paper, farm and forestry workers are clamoring for wage increases.

FRENCH CAPTURE BAND OF YOUNG REBEL RECRUITS

ALGIERS, March 21 (UP)—An official army source said French troops intercepted a band of 100 teen-age recruits for the rebel army yesterday and killed 20 rebel soldiers escorting them.

The French soldiers sent 49 of the youths to a hospital for treatment. Many were tubercular, the informant said. Some had barely reached the age of 15.

All 20 rebel soldiers escorting the recruits were killed in a battle near Aumale, about 55 miles southeast of Algiers, the army source said.

He said the band was on its way through the mountain trails of the Kabylias to training camps in Tunisia. Another band of recruits was captured in the same region two days ago.

3 DEAD IN OIL STOVE BLAST

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 21 (AP)—A fire set off by an oil stove explosion killed three children and injrued another child and their mother and father last night.

Police identified the dead as Jo Ann Kelly Tucker, 13 years old; Linda Sue Tucker, 3, and Judy Ann Tucker, 12. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Tucker and a fourth child, Betty Lou, 18 months, were in serious condition at a hospital.

TEACHER BLACKLIST CALLED 'CRUEL AS INQUISITION'

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP) —Dr. Louis M. Hacker, retiring dean of Columbia University's School of General Studies, said last night a "virtual blacklist as mean and cruel as any inquisition" exists in some American universities.

"Administrators of universities have not had the courage to restore to academic life men who have been discharged from teaching posts simply because they refused to answer questions about their private lives by legislative committees," he said.

Dr. Hacker said he knew of no such situation at Columbia.

Dr. Hacker spoke at a dinner in his honor given by the faculty chapter of the American Jewish Congress.

Lecturer Says FHA Loan Not Necessarily 'Better' Than Conventional Type

If you have an extensive personal debt, such as a $100 monthly car payment, it would have the effect of reducing that percentage of your income available for meeting your house payments, was the counsel given to prospective home owners Dr. A. C. Meyers Jr., associate professor of economics at St. Louis University, said recently in one of his series of weekly talks over KETC Channel 9, entitled "What About Home Ownership?"

"If you have recently been turned down for a home loan, don't re-apply to another lender until your situation has been adjusted to meet the requirements," he advised. (Some financial institutions have a policy of not making real estate loans or of making loans on income property only, so find out the reason for the turndown first, and if not your fault, re-apply elsewhere.)

The discussion was concentrated on the conventional type of financing. Dr. Meyers stated that the FHA type of loan was not necessarily "better" than the conventional type.

"Because FHA loans are generally in force for a longer period of time, the total amount paid for interest can be more than the amount paid on a shorter term conventional loan," he said. "Then, too, because the down payment is apt to be larger, and the length of the mortgage shorter, one can sometimes obtain a lower interest rate by making a conventional loan."

He stated that in a recent year, the FHA insured only 202,000 of perhaps as many as 3,500,000 home loans. The source of financing was as follows:

Savings & Loan Association — — — — 33 per cent
Insurance Companies 5 per cent
Commercial Banks 20 per cent
Mutual Savings Banks — — — — 6 per cent
Individuals — — — 20 per cent
Others — — — — 16 per cent

In a question period, Dr. Meyers debunked the old superstition that "it is a good idea to keep a small mortgage on property because that makes it immune to legal proceedings—no one can take it away from you."

"While the presence of a mortgage makes it a bit more difficult to take your house from you, it most certainly does not preclude that possibility, should you be unable to cope with liabilities which you have incurred," he said.

In answer to a question about rising taxes, Dr. Meyers stated that the taxes must be paid by the occupant, whether he owns or rents. He said that taxes on rental properties are generally passed on to the occupant in the form of higher rentals.

Four Scholarships Awarded for Night Realty Courses

Four St. Louis area residents have won full-tuition scholarships for night courses in real estate at University College, adult education division of Washington University.

Raymond L. Tenholder, 3162a Nebraska avenue, has been awarded a $40 full-tuition scholarship for a course in "Real Estate Appraisal." A similar scholarship was also awarded to Mrs. Doris Eileen Harris, 614 North 37th street, East St. Louis, Ill., for a course in "Real Estate Management."

Both scholarships were provided by anonymous friends of the university.

Two full-tuition scholarships paying $40 each for courses in "Real Estate Titles and Conveyancing" were awarded to Donald J. Kopf, 8878 Berkay, Jennings, and Max L. Weich, 6914 Noble drive, Berkeley, by the Mortgage Bankers' Association of St. Louis.

Income Tax Overhauling Demanded

NEW YORK, March 21—"The time has come for a bold overhauling of our federal income tax structure" to achieve equity and confine taxing to its proper function, H. Walter Graves, Philadelphia, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, declared here this noon.

Graves addressed the 18th annual conference of the New York State Society of Real Estate Appraisers at a luncheon meeting in the Sheraton-Astor Hotel.

Asserting that in their business transactions realtors are "seriously affected by unrealistic and inequitable federal income tax policies" that deter real estate investment, the NAREB president called for a resumption of the tax reform program launched by President Eisenhower and the Congress in 1954.

He maintained that the response of business to the 1954 tax reform program vindicated the effort and brought increased tax revenue based on an increased volume of transactions at higher levels. For lack of "follow through," however, the drive lost its momentum, he said.

Hinders Economy.

"The statesmanship needed now in resuming that broad scale work of tax reform is to remove the obstructions that stand in the way of economic progress," Graves maintained. "Worthy of the highest leadership in the land, basic and thorough tax reform should now go forward without hesitation . . . forward-looking in the goal of a mightier national productive plant that is within our reach, and imbued with the confidence in the future health of our economy that is shared by the business community."

Present federal income tax policy, the president of the 62,000-member Association of the nation's realtors maintained, is "the kind of hindrance to the vigorous development of our national economy that comes about when federal taxation goes beyond its proper function — and only proper function—of producing essential revenues, and undertakes to regulate the economy, the volume of business, or the spending habits of the public."

"In that way," Graves told the group, "taxation becomes an unwarranted factor in business decisions, a factor that generates uneconomic decisions. Whenever the income tax takes the lion's share of the dollar, there is an invitation to wasteful avoidance and extravagance," he added.

Can't Afford to Wait.

As an example of the hindering effect of such policy, Graves said that at times real estate brokers are told that a property owner cannot carry through a desired negotiation to sell real estate because of the adverse effect it would have on his federal income tax position.

Observing that we are a growing nation with a productive economy tooled up "to the vast potential expansion that challenges us," the Philadelphia realtor asserted that "we can no longer afford the dead weight of waste and the wrong-way economic force of taxation that strives to fulfill a mission that is not its purpose."

Leadership for the move for equity and reform, Graves asserted, "should come from the summit of our national government."

"Without it," he warned, "the public may be pressured into accepting some hastily-conceived monetary palliative, rather than the thorough-going overhaul of the entire income tax system that is so clearly needed. Today's situation calls for systematic and progressive tax revision to reduce excessive rates in a program that confines the taxing objective to its just purpose and seeks greater equity in imposing the tax obligation. Expedient amendment for purposes apart from the necessary revenue-producing function will simply remove us further from the needed kind of tax reform."

Application of Building Codes to New Techniques Is Theme of Conference

The application of performance type building codes to new materials and techniques is the theme of the second annual Building Code Conference scheduled today and tomorrow by the Department of Civil Engineering of St. Louis University, in co-operation with the Missouri Association of Building Officials and Inspectors, St. Louis Department of Public Safety and the Building Officials Conference of America.

One of the major problems facing the building industry is acceptance of new construction materials as safe and dependable. Hand-in-hand with this goes the problem of older accepted materials as applied under new techniques of production or construction.

Recent developments in technology led to the introduction of new materials and techniques at a rate far exceeding that of any other period.

Primary purpose of a building code is to protect life and property and with this as its objective, it must be carefully drawn and administered. At the same time, however, it must be sufficiently flexible to accept new and worthy ideas of construction.

MISSOURI-KANSAS-TEXAS RAILROAD COMPANY
REQUEST FOR BIDS
(Superseding Request for Bids dated March 10, 1958)

Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Company hereby invites bids for the lowest interest rate at which the bidder will loan to this company, for the period and upon the terms and conditions herein stated, the sum of Four Million Dollars ($4,000,000.00), said loan to be evidenced by the company's promissory note or notes and to be secured by the pledge of its Prior Lien Mortgage Four Per Cent Bonds, Series F, due January 1, 1962. No bid for less than the entire amount of the loan will be considered, although a joint bid by more than one bidder may be submitted. The interest rate may be designated at any percent or fraction thereof.

The company will covenant to maintain at all times the pledge of its said Prior Lien Mortgage Four Per Cent Bonds, Series F, in a principal amount of $15,500,000.00 and to thereafter, in the event the market value, determined as hereinafter provided, of such Series F Bonds shall be less than 50, deliver and pledge and repledge at the request of the lender or lenders such additional principal amount of said Series F Bonds up to the maximum amount thereof deposited in the Applicant's treasury, i.e., $20,000,000, as will equal 200% in market value, determined as hereinafter provided, of said Series F Bonds of the unpaid principal amount of such loan. In the event all of said Series F Bonds which may be so required to be pledged shall be insufficient to maintain a ratio in market value of said Series F Bonds equal to at least 3150% of the unpaid principal of such loan, the Company will from time to time at the request of the lender or lenders further deliver and pledge and repledge such additional collateral, subject to such further approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission as may be necessary, as will maintain a ratio in market value of said Series F Bonds and such additional collateral, taken together, as will equal not less than 150% of the unpaid principal of such loan. The company shall have the right to prepay said loan in whole or in part at any time on 30 days' notice in amounts of $100,000 or multiples thereof, without penalty, except that any prepayment from funds borrowed by the company shall be subject to the following premiums: on or prior to April 1, 1959, one and one-half per cent of the principal amount prepaid and thereafter one per cent of such amount; and in lieu of pledging additional Series F Bonds or other collateral the company may at its option, in the exercise of said right of partial prepayment, pay down the loan then outstanding to such a point as shall maintain the applicable security margin. The company will also agree, so long as the loan shall not be repaid in full, to hold free of any lien, pledge or encumbrance so much of issue of said Series F Bonds as shall not have been pledged pursuant to the company's Loan Agreement and Collateral Pledge Agreement for the purpose of maintaining the collateral requirements of the loan. The Company further covenants that it will at all times maintain a net working capital of not less than $8,000,000.00 and for this purpose net working capital shall be the amount of the excess current assets over current liabilities, the same to be determined in accordance with the accounting rules and regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission in effect on December 31, 1957. The Company shall also furnish the holder of the note or notes monthly its balance sheet and statement of profit and loss for the last month available, certified to by its Chief Accounting Officer, and such other information relative to earnings and the Company's financial affairs as may reasonably be requested, and Company's President or Vice President shall certify that as of the date ending no substantial adverse change from its condition as of December 31, 1957, has occurred.

The company will agree to pay the principal amount of the loan in approximately equal consecutive quarterly installments, commencing April 1, 1959, and ending April 1, 1961, with interest thereon payable on the first days of January, April, July and October of each year beginning with the first day of October, 1958, and thereafter until maturity.

It is contemplated that the proceeds of this loan will be used to provide funds to assure adequate net working capital for capital expenditures and other general corporate purposes, including repayment of balance of principal and interest on unsecured indebtedness to Republic National Bank of Dallas, Texas, arising out of a loan to company dated as of October 1, 1956 in the original sum of $600,000,000.

The company has filed application before the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue its said promissory note or notes and to pledge said Series F Bonds to the extent necessary as collateral security for this loan.

This request for bids is made pursuant to the regulations prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its order of October 6, 1919, as amended October 4, 1920, in its Docket Ex Parte No. 54. Bids pursuant to this request must be submitted in duplicate on forms furnished by the undersigned. Each bid must be enclosed in a plain envelope, securely sealed, bearing no indication of the name of the bidder or the amount of the bid, and shall be marked "Bid under proposed Contract No. F-11," and shall be addressed to the undersigned at his office, Room 1506, Railway Exchange Building, St. Louis 1, Missouri. All bids must be received on or before twelve o'clock Noon, Central Standard Time, on the 4th day of April, 1958. Bids so received will be opened by the undersigned, or in his absence by D. V. Fraser, Chairman of the Board of the company, at said office immediately after twelve o'clock Noon, Central Standard Time, on the 4th day of April, 1958.

The company reserves the right to reject any and all bids. In the event the lowest rate of interest shall be offered by more than one bidder, the successful bidder shall be chosen by lot, unless the company shall reject all bids. Any acceptance of a bid will be subject to the procuring by the company of all necessary authorization and approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the issuance of the company's note or notes and the pledge of said Series F Bonds as collateral security therefor. Notice of acceptance of the most favorable bid, subject to such authorization and approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, will be telegraphed to the successful bidder not later than 1:00 o'clock p.m., Central Standard Time, on the 4th day of April, 1958.

Payment of the said sum of Four Million Dollars ($4,000,000.00) is to be made against the delivery of the company's note or notes in said amount and the pledge of all of Prior Lien Mortgage Four Per Cent Bonds, Series F, due January 1, 1962, on such date as the company may designate on five (5) days' notice to the successful bidder, such date to be as soon as practicable after the Interstate Commerce Commission shall have authorized the issuance of said note or notes and the pledge of said bonds as collateral security thereunder.

As the Series F Bonds to be used as collateral for such loan will not be listed upon the New York Stock Exchange, the market value thereof, for the purposes of such loan, shall be considered to be the market value of the company's Prior Lien Mortgage Four Per Cent Bonds, Series B, dated January 1, 1922, due January 1, 1962. The market value of bonds of all series, except Series F, shall be the last sale price of bonds of such series on the New York Stock Exchange within the most recent three-day period, if any such sales have been made; otherwise, the mean of the last bid and asked prices as reported by the New York Stock Exchange. If there shall have been no such sales within said three-day period, and if such bid and asked prices are not available, the market value shall be determined by the decision of three brokers, one chosen by the company, one by the holder of the note or notes, and a third by those two. The decision of all or a majority of said brokers shall be final and binding.

Copies of the proposed Form of Note, Loan Agreement, and Collateral Pledge Agreement, and the Form for Submission of Bids, are available upon application at the office of the undersigned.

SNOW FIGURES IN ACCIDENTS TO TWO AIRLINERS

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP)—Two big airliners—one Bermuda-bound and the other headed for Copenhagen—were involved in accidents at Idlewild Airport in the snow storm last night. No one was injured.

A Pan American World Airways DC-6 bound for Bermuda took off successfully but Capt. Edward Lawler of Fanwood, N.J., reported the nose wheel would not retract and he headed back to the field. After landing, the plane spun around. The 11 occupants were shaken up but none reported injury. It was believed slush and snow lodged in the nose wheel housing and became frozen.

Earlier, a Scandinavian Airlines DC-7 skidded 100 feet off a runway. Fifty persons aboard escaped injury. Capt. Thorbjorn Lie, of Oslo, said slush and snow on the runway made it difficult to reach take-off speed and he applied the brakes. The action was uneven, the airliner veered to the right and the nose gear collapsed.

$15,000 DAMAGES AWARDED FOR AUTO CRASH INJURIES

Paul Bruno, 1128 Dunwoody drive, Warson Woods, was awarded $15,000 damages yesterday by a circuit court jury for injuries suffered when an automobile in which he was riding collided with a truck on the dangerous S-curve on Lindbergh boulevard near the intersection with Page avenue, St. Louis County.

The verdict was against John A. Grellner, 7446 Richmond avenue, Maplewood, driver of the automobile, and the Berry Tractor and Equipment Co., 3545 Gratiot street, owner of the truck. Bruno suffered severe back injuries in the collision July 23, 1956.

Bruno, a student at the University of Missouri, said Grellner lost control of his car on a slippery pavement, "fishtailed" and skidded into the path of the oncoming truck. His counsel argued that the truck could have stopped in time to avoid the collision. The suit was heard in the court of Judge Ivan Lee Holt Jr.

S.M.U. PRESIDENT APPROVES INVITATION TO RED EX-EDITOR

DALLAS, Tex., March 21 (AP)—Dr. Willis M. Tate, president of Southern Methodist University, has given his support to a student group that invited a former Communist newspaper editor to appear on the campus.

The invitation to John Gates, former editor of the defunct Daily Worker, to appear in a panel discussion has been opposed by three Dallas civic groups and the S.M.U. student newspaper.

Tate said yesterday he would "stand behind the rights of this student group to engage in this study, on the grounds that to do so is to encourage them to be prepared to recognize and combat the Communism conspiracy." Gates is scheduled to appear on the campus April 23. He was invited by the S.M.U. Student Forum Committee.

GROUP DEMANDS CITY HAUL AWAY LITTER FROM LOT

Hyde Park area residents heard Walter H. Smith tell why he has refused to obey a court order to remove rubble from a lot he owns at 1413 Bremen avenue last night. Then they voted to circulate petitions demanding that the city remove the debris, which has littered the lot for more than a year.

Smith, who now lives in the 3900 block of North Ninth street, said he felt the city unjustly condemned his house as sub-standard and razed it without cause. He angrily announced he has appealed the order obtained by the city to force him to clean up the property.

Residents at the meeting in Clay School, 3820 North Fourteenth street, also voted to urge that the city amend an ordinance so that the city would remove rubble at the time a house or building is demolished. At present, the owner of the property is responsible for the removal. The meeting was sponsored by the Community Stewards Assembly of Teamsters' Local 688.

Sidney Zagri, community relations director for Local 688, told the meeting he believed it was the city's prime responsibility to clean up the lot, which now is "a breeding ground for disease and a danger to children who might be tempted to play there."

PUBLIC LIBRARY JOINS INTERCITY TELETYPE HOOKUP

A teletype system connecting the St. Louis Public Library with libraries in Kansas City, Jefferson City, Columbia, Mo., and Washington, D.C. to expedite the handling and lending of hard-to-get books, was placed in operation here today.

The teletype machine in the library's Extension Department can send and receive messages, Paxton Price, state librarian, said this is the first state to install the machines, which will aid in obtaining reference material and in getting books for rural readers.

"Formerly, requests for inter-library exchange of books were made by mail and sometimes it took several weeks to find a book and get it mailed to the person requesting it," Price said. "With the machines this can be done in one day."

JUVENILE JUDGES ADVISED ON HANDLING MENTAL CASES

A plan to minimize crowding at state mental institutions was outlined to juvenile judges of Missouri yesterday in letters from Circuit Judge Noah Weinstein of Clayton, president of the Missouri Council of Juvenile Court Judges.

It was suggested that each judge, before committing anyone, advise the Missouri Division of Mental Diseases at Jefferson City so facilities could be designated where available. The plan was decided upon at meetings of the State Mental Health Commission and the judges' council.

MOTHER BERTHA PADBERG FUNERAL HELD IN MONTREAL

Funeral services for the Rev. Mother Bertha Padberg, superior vicar of Canada for the Order of the Sacred Heart, and a former St. Louisan, were held in Montreal today, with burial there.

Mother Padberg, 75 years old, died Thursday in Montreal of a heart ailment. A native St. Louisan, she entered Maryville College in 1903, and became superior vicar of the Canadian vicariate in 1937. There are no immediate survivors.

REFUSAL TO ISSUE WARRANT

The Circuit Attorney's office refused to issue a concealed weapons warrant yesterday against Jeral Woods, 19 years old, of the 4400 block of Laclede avenue. Woods was arrested yesterday with a number of weapons in his automobile.

Police stopped him at Seventh street and Park avenue. In his machine they found a .22-caliber rifle, three daggers, two billies and a springblade knife. Assistant Circuit Attorney Robert J. Koster said the warrant was refused because police admitted they did not have a legal cause to arrest Woods.

2 SENATORS HIT AT RELAXING OF BILLBOARD CURBS

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP) — Senators Richard Neuberger (Dem.), Oregon, and Thomas Kuchel (Rep.), California, today opposed any further relaxation of what they called "extremely modest" billboard controls in a pending bill.

The proposal would provide a federal bonus in matching funds to states that agree to limit billboards along the national network of interstate superhighways. It is included in a bill to speed construction of the roads.

The two Senators, joint sponsors of the section, said it cannot be watered down further "without the risk that it may become so feeble as to be a deception to (those who want) a measure of roadside protection for the new highways."

The highway bill is to be debated on the Senate floor next week. Senator Albert Gore (Dem.), Tennessee, its chief sponsor, said that the only major controversy he knew of in connection with it would be over billboards.

The measure would make available an additional $1,500,000,000 in federal funds over presently planned work this year to get the big road building program back on schedule and to help counter the recession.

Neuberger and Kuchel said in a Senate report they were particularly unhappy over an amendment to the billboard provisions to allow small signs, up to 500 square inches in size, along the interstate system within 12 miles of the business advertised.

Neuberger also expressed dismay at an amendment stating that the bonus to be paid to states that regulate billboards must come out of general appropriations. He had wanted it to be paid automatically from the highway trust fund.

He said this provision makes it uncertain from year to year whether the bonus would be paid.

Condemned as Spy.

HONG KONG, March 21 (AP) — One man was condemned to death yesterday and 11 other persons got two to 25 years in prison as members of an alleged spy and sabotage ring in North Viet Nam, the Hanoi radio reported. Two others were acquitted. The radio said Nguyen Quang Hai was given the death sentence as the ring leader.

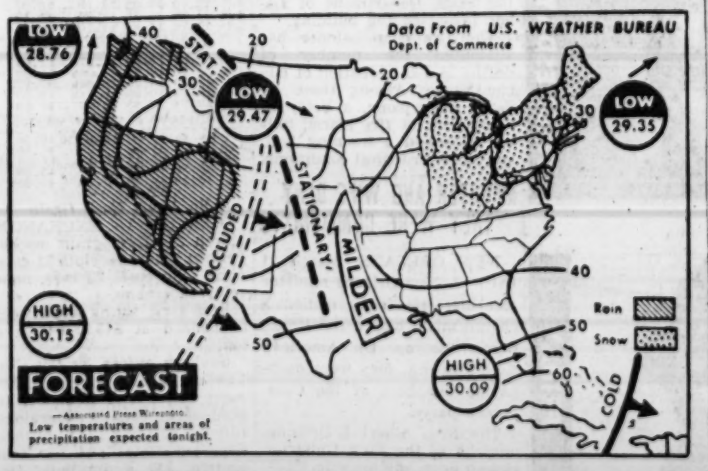
Fair, Moderate Weekend Forecast



Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

St. Louisans will enjoy a weekend of generally fair skies and moderate temperatures, the Weather Bureau predicted today. Mostly sunny skies and a high temperature in the upper 40s are forecast for tomorrow, with about the same predicted for Sunday. The low temperature tomorrow morning will be in the upper 20s.

In contrast to the rather dismal reception spring received yesterday, skies were sunny and clear over most of Missouri this morning. The mercury dropped to a low in the state of 23 at Farmington during the night, while the high in the state yesterday was 46 at Kansas City.

The Atlantic coast storm, which so far has dumped up to three feet of wet, heavy snow in areas of the East, was centered off the New England shores this morning. Heavy snow warnings were up again today for much of the area, as the storm continued to drift northward along the coast during the day.

South of the storm center, light rain or snow was in prospect for the middle Atlantic states during the afternoon. Snow flurries were expected as far west as the Great Lakes, and southward into Tennessee and North Carolina.

In the Southeast, temperatures were expected to be cool during the day, in spite of sunny skies. Skies in the South were mostly fair this morning, with cloudiness reported only in Arkansas.

SPRING SONG FAR FROM BEING ALL SAD

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP)—Spring has made it on the calendar no matter where it may have got bogged down on the weather map. And almost the only business men sorry to see this particular winter go are those in the coal and fuel oil and natural gas industries and the makers of tranquilizers.

A lot of businessmen are eager to welcome spring. For instance, all of those who cater to the growing American trend to outdoor living. For one thing, they expect Americans to pay nearly one and one-billion dollars this year on planting and maintaining grass plots, from the smallest of front yards to the plushiest of golf links.

Sam Dawson

Workers expect new jobs to open up soon on the farms. And the coming of better building weather should furnish more work. Garment makers who have staked large sums of money on the chemise are confident they'll get it back when sprind sends women into the stores in greater numbers.

Merchants are watching for the expected spring pick up in retail sales in general. Bad weather in February turned many retailers gloomy but there's still time to recoup, although Myron S. Silbert, vice president of Federated Department Stores, tells the Dallas meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board that because of weakness in consumer durables total trade this spring may be off from last year by 2 or 3 per cent. The travel industry looks for its biggest year. The Department of Commerce predicts a further rise in foreign travel in 1958 and says that last year Americans spent nearly two billion dollars that way, a 6½ per cent gain over 1956.

Steamship companies report big bookings in the summer months. The airlines see April 1 as their kick-off day because a new low-fare service to Europe starts then. The International Air Transport Association reports its 81 members have 2900 aircraft in operation around the world. And in the oil industry domestic travelers are counted upon to spark the seasonal switch in emphasis from fuel oil to gasoline. Stay at homes are expected to go in more than ever for outdoor living.

The Dutch expect to sell $30,000,000 worth of bulbs here, spring and fall. Nursery men report that sales have hit a new peak every year since 1950. The cook-out has become so popular that it now accounts for an estimated $50,000,000 outlay annually. The president of the Lawn Mower Institute, D. M. Lilly, who also heads the Toro Manufacturing Corp., says power mower sales have reached 3,000,000 units a year. Nearly $250,000.000 a year is reported spent on garden supplies, with the average family outlay put at $5.

Trends reported in this industry include: Greater attention to color and style design both in the products and their packaging; adaptation of tools and machines to easy handling by women; more convenience machines such as the riding power mower, and making one machine do many jobs. So the spring song—even if much of it is still just a hopeful whistling—is far from being all sad today, despite the statistics on other sectors of the economy.

NEW LAWS SOUGHT AFTER FIRE IN LOFT

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner has called for new municipal laws to prevent factory and loft fires like the one on lower Broadway which took 24 lives on Wednesday. He says he will propose that the City Council enact at least four new laws "right away."

However, both Wagner and Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh Jr. said after a tour of the building at 623 Broadway yesterday that there was no violation there of any fire or building regulation.

The fire was in the fourth-floor plant of the Monarch Underwear Corp. It followed an explosion in a fabric testing oven in another plant on the floor below.

Wagner proposed immediate enactment of ordinances that would:

1. Require installation of automatic fire-sprinkling systems in loft buildings. (Present laws do not require these except under special circumstances.)

2. Require erection of fireproof partitioning walls in rooms of great length. (The work floors of almost all the concerns at 623 Broadway were approximately 180 feet long.)

3. Call for construction of full ceilings in loft buildings. (In the ceilings of the top floors of 623 Broadway were former skylights, plastered over.)

4. Require that each worker be given a fire drill. (Present laws call for a fire drill every 30 days. With high employment turnover in the textile trade, many workers never receive such drills.)

In addition to the 18 women and 6 men who perished, 15 persons were burned or otherwise injured.

Several investigations into the cause of the blaze and the reason for the extent of fatalities are under way. In addition to the City Fire Department, the Division of Safety of the State Department of Labor inspected the building.

The fire commissioner has attributed the number of deaths to a combination of circumstances. Among those he listed were panic, a delay in turning in the fire alarm, failure to sound a warning bell, and some structural conditions.

MINISTER AND WIFE DENY THEY WERE COMMUNISTS

NEW ORLEANS, March 21 (AP)—A New Orleans minister and his wife today denied a charge made before the House Committee on Un-American Activities that they were dues-paying members of the Communist party.

The Rev. Albert D'Orlando, minister of the First Unitarian church here, and his wife, Pauline, were named in Boston yesterday by Mrs. Carol Foster of Nashua, N.H., as Communist party members from whom she had collected dues.

The Rev. Mr. D'Orlando said he had told an executive session of the committee in Washington last Friday that he was not a Communist. He and his wife said they had known Mrs. Foster when he was minister in a church in Wilton, N.H., about 25 miles from Nashua. Mrs. D'Orlando described her as "a disturbed person."

"She (Mrs. Foster) had been to my home on one or two occasions with friends and she'd bring literature with her, something like the Daily Worker, and I purchased it," he said. "I buy many books and read many things. I'm interested in world affairs."

CORN STRONG SPOT, WHEAT SELLS LOWER

CHICAGO, March 21 (AP)—All grain futures except wheat encountered light to moderate demand at firm to strong prices on the board of trade most of today.

Corn was surprisingly strong with gains of well over a cent a bushel most of the time on buying which traders said was induced by rejection of export bids for about a million bushels of corn by the Minneapolis office of the commodity credit corp. That office has been selling large amounts of corn for export recently but it was reported overnight to have turned down bids of $1.20 a bushel for the corn delivered at New Orleans.

The other buying was ascribed largely to short-covering.

Wheat was under pressure most of the day with the selling reported to be related to continued favorable winter crop conditions, light exports and limited flour mill requirements.

Finland was reported overnight to have bought 485,000 bushels of spring wheat for April shipment and Belfast bought 360,000 bushels of corn.

INTEREST SHOWN IN THE NATURAL RESOURCES LIST

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK, March 21 (UP)—Stocks advanced today with the best gains in issues of raw material companies, foods, drugs, mercantiles, and some of the building issues.

The heavier industry departments were neglected but they ruled firm enough to lift the industrial average moderately. That average also was helped by the fact that it contains a copper that rose substantially and a strong aircraft plus several oils. Steels gained fractions in the main list.

Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 3.03 points higher at 452.49 at the close. The 20 rails gained 1.36 at 105.67 and the 15 utilities rose .26 of a point to 73.44.

Standard & Poor's average of 500 stocks was .31 of a point higher at 42.42 at the close. The 425 industrials rose .35 to 45.32, the 25 rails gained .28 at 22.74 and the 50 utilities advanced .11 to 34.70.

Coppers outperformed other groups and the aluminums joined them. Oils ran up 1 to more than 2 points. Texas Pacific Coal & Oil slipped back when Sinclair denied reports it was planning to acquire additionel shares of the company.

Railroad shares met good demand in some issues late in the day and their average outperformed the industrials on a percentage basis.

Natural resources like the coppers and oils received most attention.

This buying into the so-called natural resources group came at a time when the cost of living index rose to a new record high, something that seldom occurs when business is in a recession.

The coppers performed best of all the groups. Their leaders had been saying the inventory situation was improving and some price firming has been noted for the metal.

Aluminum shares, also natural resource issues, joined the rise.

The aircrafts received buying attention on outlook for heavy defense orders.

The Associated Press reported that the average of 60 stocks advanced $1.20 to $164.00 with the industrials up $1.60, the rails up $1.50 and the utilities up 20 cents.

Of 1113 issues traded, advances totaled 613 and declines 255. Statistics for new highs and lows were based on 1958 alone for the first time instead of including 1957 as well. The highs totaled 113 and the lows 13.

It was the market's best rise since March 11. Based on the advance in the Associated Press average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New Pork Stock Exchange rose an estimated 1½ billion dollars.

Volume totaled 2,430,000 shares compared with 2,280,000 yesterday.

Prof. John M. Fowler Lists Six Points—H-Bomb Expert Concedes Only One, Says St. Louisan Is Picking Out 'Small and Irrelevant Details.'

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 21.

JOHN M. FOWLER, assistant professor of physics at Washington University of St. Louis, has attacked the scientific validity of Edward Teller's conclusion that radioactive fallout presents only a negligible hazard.

Teller, the University of California physicist who led in developing the hydrogen bomb, has conceded one of Fowler's six points. On other points, Teller has accused Fowler of "fighting windmills" and picking on "small and irrelevant details."

The two scientists carried on their dispute in letters to Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), of Creve Coeur, a member of the Senate Disarmament subcommittee. Symington showed the correspondence today to the Post-Dispatch.

Fowler began the exchange with a six-point criticism of a recent article by Teller and Albert Latter in Life magazine, which has been expanded into a forthcoming book.

Teller Sends Reply.

Symington sent the criticism to Teller, who sent Symington a five-page reply last week.

Fowler concluded that "a number of the scientific assertions made in the Teller article fail to conform to the standards of validity which are customary in scientific work," adding:

"If this article had been submitted for publication in a scientific journal, rather than in Life, it would have been rejected because of these deficiencies."

Teller, a strong opponent of a proposed suspension of atomic weapons tests even under an international agreement, apologized for wasting Symington's time discussing "small and irrelevant details." He said he was "impressed by the fact that these people (Fowler and Linus Pauling, Nobel prize-winning chemist who opposes continued nuclear tests) pick on the same small details and do not pay sufficient attention to the really important issues."

The one point which Teller conceded concerned a statement in the Teller article about the radiation history of the Marshall islanders who were exposed to heavy fallout during the 1954 H-bomb test.

The Life article stated: "What happened to them (the Marshall islanders) is the best indication we have of the long-term effects of substantial radiation exposure."

Calls Statement 'Untrue.'

Calling that statement "on its face untrue," Fowler added:

"This statement is false because the time elapsed since the Marshall islanders were exposed is less than four years, whereas the long-term effects of radiation appear at an average delay time of at least twice that long."

Teller replied that this was "the only point where I feel that Dr. Fowler has advanced a valid and relevant piece of criticism."

"It is the generally accepted opinion that the cancer-producing effects do not show themselves for a few years," Teller went on. "Our statement that the exposure of the Marshall islanders is 'the best indication we have of the long-term effects of substantial radiation exposure' is true only in the sense that it is the only case where a considerable number of people have been exposed to a substantial and known amount of fallout and where the effects have been studied.

"I believe that the absence of any alarming observations up to date is a favorable indication and no more. We have said in our article and we are saying in our book that the Marshall islanders are actually being watched for further developments."

The Other Five Points.

The other five points raised by Fowler, with Teller's replies, were as follows:

1. The Teller article asserted that nuclear tests "do not seriously endanger either present or future generations."

Fowler said this statement was "contradictory to evidence—now agreed to by most scientists including those associated with the AEC—that some number of people will sustain biological damage as a result of fallout from past nuclear tests." He noted that the AEC's advisory committee on biology and medicine said last October that the ultimate world-wide increase of defective children from fallout of tests already completed would be 2500 to 13,000 per year.

Teller replied: "Having carefully checked with a great number of experienced people, I can say with definiteness that there is no proof of cancer-producing effects as long as the intensities are small. In fact, as we have stated in our Life article, the effects upon the present generation might be harmful or helpful. We simply do not know.

"With respect to future generations we can be reasonably certain that mutations will be produced. However, such mutations are not all for the worse.

"Therefore we have made the conservative statement that tests do not seriously endanger present or future generations. I continue to believe that our statement was fully justified."

2. Relative hazard from fallout radiation and other radiation sources.

The Teller article was accompanied by a chart showing radiation from fallout to be small compared with natural radiation from cosmic rays and the ground and with the radiation received from a luminescent wristwatch. Fowler charged that Teller had taken too small a figure for fallout and had exaggerated the true rates of radiation from other sources.

Teller accused Fowler of "quibbling" over some of the figures but conceded that some of Fowler's corrections "may be justified."

3. Neglect of the non-average.

Fowler objected to the Teller statement that, at the rate given for radiation received from fallout, "the lifetime dosage for the average American comes to only a small fraction of a roentgen, although in rare cases it might be several times that amount."

Questioning the word "rare," Fowler said a study of 62 children had shown that 5 per cent had five times the average strontium-90 content in their bones and 4 in 1000 would be expected to have 10 times the average.

Teller pointed out the natural "background" radiation fluctuates strongly from one individual to another. He said Fowler's point was valid but added that: "If it is properly considered it strengthens rather than weakens our case."

"Our statement that exposure to fallout hazards is similar to but much smaller than the danger from the natural background is true, both with respect to the average value of radiation and with respect to the fluctuations in the radiation," Teller said.

4. Leukemia incidence from cosmic ray data.

Fowler complained that the Life article gave figures for the incidence of leukemia and bone cancer in the high-altitude city of Denver and the lowland cities of New Orleans and San Francisco, showing that Denver did not have the higher incidence that greater cosmic radiation might indicate without giving any statistical measure of the reliability of the figures. Teller denied he was trying to prove anything by his figures.

"All we did was to underscore the present limitations concerning medical statistics, which happens to be the only information we possess about the cancer-producing effects of small radiation doses," Teller said.

5. Genetic effects on humans.

Fowler said the Teller article used "unacceptable" reasoning in noting that the people of Tibet have been exposed for centuries to much more radiation than is caused by atomic tests, "yet genetic differences have not been noticed in the humans of Tibet, or for that matter in any other living species there."

The reason genetic differences have not been noted, Fowler commented, is that there are no adequate studies of Tibetan genetics.

Replying, Teller accused Fowler of "fighting windmills" and insisted it was proper to mention Tibet even in the absence of statistical evidence. He continued:

"The example of Tibet is interesting because on that high plateau greater cosmic ray irradiation has been received for hundreds of years by the same human population and the higher irradiation levels have affected many geographically confined plants and

Eisenhower's Popularity at Lowest Point

His Vacations, Handling of Joblessness, Farm Price Issue Cited.

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N.J., March 21.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S popularity with voters is at the lowest point since he took office. Although a majority continue to approve the way he is handling his job, the 52 per cent popularity score registered today is 5 points lower than it was in any other of the 62 months he has been in the White House.

His previous lowest point, 57 per cent, was recorded on two occasions—last November and in November, 1954, following the Congressional elections of that year.

In the last month, the President's popularity has slipped 6 points from 58 per cent to 52.

Behind the decline are three specific reasons cited by voters who disapprove. They are:

1. His handling of the growing unemployment situation.
2. Irritation with his vacations to "play golf,"
3. The falling farm prices and the plight of the farmer, particularly in the Midwest.

At intervals in the Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower administrations, the institute has asked voters about the job the occupant of the White House is doing by means of the following question:

Do you approve or disapprove of the way Mr. Eisenhower is handling his job as President?

The results nationwide in the latest survey:

Approve	52%
Disapprove	33
No opinion	15

One month ago, his popularity index read as follows:

Approve	58%
Disapprove	27
No opinion	15

Mr. Eisenhower has lost ground in the heavily-industrialized East where unemployment has been particularly severe and in the Midwest where both unemployment and falling farm prices promise to be issues in next fall's Congressional election.

In the South, the President's popularity has remained relatively unchanged. Although there is still dissatisfaction in this area for Mr. Eisenhower's handling of the Little Rock trouble, the approval vote has been relatively level for the last few months.

Here is the per cent of persons approving today and a month ago in each region of the country:

	Today	Feb. '58
East	57%	65%
Midwest	53	62
South	47	46
Far West	53	56

Mr. Eisenhower started his second term with his popularity equal to his record high—79 per cent. His score today constitutes a drop of 27 percentage points since January 1957.

UNITED ARABS CAN DEFEAT ENEMIES, NASSER ASSERTS

CAIRO, March 21 (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser said yesterday a united Arab world could defeat its enemies just as the united Arabs of eight centuries ago turned back the Crusaders of what he called early western imperialism.

He was cheered wildly as "the new Saladin"—a comparison with the Twelfth Century sultan who fought the Crusaders.

In his first Cairo speech since returning from a tour of Syria as President of the United Arab Republic, Nasser addressed a rally staged in Republic square by the National Union party.

SPAIN REPORTED OFFERING TO CEDE AREA TO MOROCCO

© New York Times News Service

MADRID, March 21—Spain has offered to return to Moroccan sovereignty the southern zone of the former Spanish protectorate in Morocco, diplomatic circles reported yesterday.

It is understood that a proviso to the return of this economically-arid region is that Morocco accept latitude 27.40 degrees north and longitude 11 degrees west as the northern and eastern boundaries of Spanish Sahara.

Spanish troops have continued to administer the barren former protectorate since Spain recognized full Moroccan independence in 1956.

About 5000 soldiers of the royal Moroccan army have taken up positions along the Draa river. The army has not yet entered the disputed protectorate area, according to reports here, although it has been rumored recently that it may be planning to do so and confront the Spanish government with a fait accompli.

Right-Winger Rumely Wins Benson Favor

Lobbyist Flooding U.S. With Copies of Secretary's Book.

By DREW PEARSON

(Copyright, 1958.)

WASHINGTON.

EZRA TAFT BENSON is a sincere gentleman with a strange choice of friends. Hardly an hour after President Eisenhower announced his unqualified support of Benson, the embattled Secretary of Agriculture telephoned Dr. Edward A. Rumely, the often-investigated lobbyist for right-wing causes.

"You have been foremost in upholding my work," Benson said. "So I wanted you to be the first to hear of this indorsement by the President."

Rumely was jailed as a German agent in World War I and now operates the Constitution and Free Enterprise Foundation, which uses congressional franks to flood the country with propaganda and copies of Benson's book, "Farmers at the Crossroads."

Secretary Benson followed up his phone call to Rumely with a letter urging more financial support for "the fight to regain and preserve freedom for American agriculture."

"The fight seems to be intensified," Benson wrote. "There is so much at stake that every business firm in this country financially able to do so should be willing to provide a few thousand dollars to help in this fight to regain and preserve freedom for American agriculture."

Rumely responded by ordering 1,000,000 copies of an article by Earl Hughes, called "Let's Set the Farmer Free."

Rumely told his contributors that he intended to use the free mailing priviliges of Congressman Ralph Gwinn of New York to circulate 1,000,000 copies at the expense of the taxpayers. This would save his contributors $30,000, figuring three cents a letter.

Rumely also announced he would distribute 150,000 copies of a pamphlet written by Benson.

This is how a lobby, financed by big business, is trying to

Nixon Backs Off on Tax Cut, Now Firmly in President's Camp

Switch Shows Intensity of Eisenhower's Drive to Bar Hasty Reduction—Political Pressure Mounts.

By JOSEPH R. SLEVIN
The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 21.

VICE PRESIDENT RICHARD M. NIXON backed away yesterday from his 10-day-old demand for a tax reduction "in the next few weeks" if business fails to improve.

The Vice President's switch places him squarely in President Eisenhower's camp and provides a significant insight into the intensity of the Chief Executive's campaign to bar what he considers a premature tax reduction.

Nixon started a red-hot tax cut boom with his original call for prompt action and Mr. Eisenhower has been trying to cool it off ever since.

The President, highly-placed administration officials say, as determined to resist demands for a tax cut until he is convinced that a reduction is necessary to hal the downturn—and he has not been convinced.

The present intention of Mr. Eisenhower and his top advisers is to delay a decision until after Congress returns April 14 from its Easter recess. The Administration by then will have had an opportunity to study reports of March activity and the Congressmen will have had a chance to sound out the voters back home.

Hopes to Avoid Cut.

Mr. Eisenhower hopes that it will be possible to avoid cutting taxes. Key advisers have pointed out that a substantial tax reduction could produce a budget deficit of from 10 to 15 billion dollars, that it would weaken the government's ability to fight the next inflationary push—and, worst of all, it would not carry a sure-shot guarantee of recovery.

Top officials acknowledge that the odds now are against Mr. Eisenhower's being able to hold out. The political pressure for a tax cut is growing daily and the major business barometers have not given any indication that they will justify a rejection of tax cut demands.

Mr. Eisenhower, in trying to brake the momentum of the tax cut boom, is closely in accord with the views of such top fiscal advisers as Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson.

The Treasury chief stressed that a 5 per cent individual income tax cut would add only 40 cents weekly to the pay check of a married man with two children while slashing a billion dollars a year from the Treasury's tax collections.

Nixon's original call for swift action if the recession deepens is generally acknowledged in Congress to have been a political stroke that captured the tax-cut initiative from the Democrats. It assures the Administration of a full share of credit for any tax cut that eventually is voted and firmly identified the Vice President with those who want to act vigorously to halt the recession by chopping taxes.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell seconded Nixon's appeal the day after it was made and Anderson had to make a hurried flight back to Washington to bolster the Administration's crumbling defenses.

The conservatives who have most vigorously protested against high taxes in recent years now are in the van of those urging the President to hold-the-line against a tax cut and a huge budget deficit.

Nixon said in a press conference in Chicago yesterday that the economy may not need tax cut stimulation after all, and he advised against "writing off" Republican chances in the congressional elections this fall.

Foreign Aid Prospects.

The Vice President even suggested that Republican Congressmen in the Midwest may come around to the Administration's views on foreign aid.

"I am confident that the 44 billion dollars we are spending for national defense is going to be wasted unless we supplement it with the amounts the President has asked for in the field of mutual security," Nixon said. "The money we spend in the foreign aid field—I should say mutual security—is really aid to ourselves."

Nixon said his economic views are in accordance with the position of watchful waiting expressed by Mr. Eisenhower.

The Vice President said the American people should plan for the future "on the assumption that this country is not going to have a depression." He added that, if the economy levels off or turns up before the general elections this fall, it could be the major issue in November and Republicans should benefit at the polls.

About the Earnings Tax

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

As one who has resided in St. Louis county and worked in St. Louis for many years, I prefer to have my salary taxed at the same rate that applies to the citizens of St. Louis.

Nearly every county resident concerned, with whom I have discussed the matter, feels the same way. They appreciate the many privileges available to them in the city and are willing to pay their part of the cost.

Hollis E. Suits

We believe the city earnings tax is unfair since we outside the city do not elect any representatives to the Board of Aldermen. This is taxation without representation.

The levy was designed to tax county residents who enjoy "the advantages of the city," but do not pay taxes to the city. This is inequitable since the county residents who work in the county and do not pay this tax also enjoy "the advantages of the city."

This tax is essentially the same as the federal income tax. The earnings tax is not legally deductible from the state income tax whereas the federal tax is deductible.

Lester H. Stevens
William R. Gahr
Noel E. Schmiedeke
John W. Weingaertner

You mention that the city should have the earnings tax raised. Maybe it should, I don't know. You are in a better position to tell us than I am. But how about looking into other ways to raise the money without raising taxes, or ways to reduce expenses without cutting out the services we are now getting?

Find out how many automobiles are registered with the state as of last Jan. 1, St. Louis residents only, and find out how many of these automobiles that personal property tax has been paid on. I think that you and all city officials will be very surprised.

Thousands of non-residents who, stood by with the minimum of protest when St. Louis first advocated the earnings tax are disturbed by the proposal to raise the tax.

Although the non-residents felt that it was taxation without representation (as they have absolutely no voice in the government of St. Louis), they were willing to accept this tax because they believed that their help was necessary to keep St. Louis financially healthy.

People who remember the "emergency toll," which was placed on the "free" or municipal bridge about 25 years ago, and is still being collected, will vouch for the fact that once these extra charges are saddled upon the populace, they are seldom, if ever, rescinded.

Parents Might Be People

Millie Wolff's recent article on the rearing of parents revealed the heartening fact that the brothers Wolff are doing a splendid job on their parents. I sincerely feel that barring illness their boys will some day be able to point at them and say with pride "we had our rough times, but perserverance paid off. Those are our folks."

Our sons also saw to it that we had our share of waiting in hot and cold cars, back in the early days of The Car Pool. But some place along the line our boys must have goofed because we're still fighting for our identity, or at least that's what we like to think.

The months before our boys returned from their army duty could be roughly compared to what must have taken place in the households of the ancient Greeks in preparation for the return of their conquering heroes. Thank heavens we were not at war but our boys had been in Europe, had traveled extensively on their accumulated leave time and would be, we knew, quite tired. We redecorated the house, refurbished their room, built additional closet space, put new gourmet cookery into effect. Two young men moving back into the household make a difference and elaborate preparations must be made.

The boys came home and we cheerfully attended their every need. We revamped our time schedules and living habits and saw to it that their endless mountains of laundry were returned to them promptly and in perfect condition.

It was when, for months after the boys' return, people would look into our weary eyes and continually ask, "And how are the boys adjusting to home life?" and we would muster that little bit of leftover energy to answer "great" that we began to realize that our boys had neglected our training. We actually thought that somebody should have asked about OUR adjustment.

As I said, we still think of ourselves as people. I only state all this as a warning to the Wolff boys while there is still time. Anyway, all this happened at least a year ago. Ruth Cohen

Unemployment Confusion

As national unemployment grows, unemployment compensation must grow with it. This fact has involved the Eisenhower Administration in planning a still-undefined improvement in the jobless insurance program.

The need for improvement in the midst of an economic slump is not arguable. The number of unemployed is 5,173,000 and seems to be rising in a season when it should be falling. Nearly three million workers are receiving unemployment benefits. But these benefits replace only a third of the wages the workers lost, whereas the 1935 unemployment compensation law intended benefits covering at least half of wages lost.

The worst of the situation is that many unemployed are drawing no benefits at all. Either they are not covered by the program, which exempts employers of fewer than four persons, or they have exhausted their benefits, which run usually to 26 weeks, or they were disqualified by inconsistent state laws.

Missouri currently pays a maximum benefit of $33 weekly for 26 weeks, up to a total of $858. Twenty-two states pay more.

Five years ago President Eisenhower urged the states to extend both the payments and their duration. Not one state has met the standards requested. The states would argue that they do not have the money. They receive an incentive grant from the Federal Government, which usually covers administrative costs. But the insurance reserve from which benefits are paid is based entirely on employers' payroll taxes. (These range up to 3 per cent of the first $3000 of a worker's earnings. Under the usual state formula, if the insurance reserve fund grows larger than necessary, the tax rate falls, and if the reserves become inadequate, the tax rises.)

Clearly most states will not legislate larger jobless insurance programs without more federal aid. Recognizing that, Senator Kennedy of Massachusetts and 16 other Democrats last month introduced a bill to establish the standards sought by the President.

The Kennedy bill would increase average benefits until they represent half the worker's lost wages, and would extend the benefit period to 36 weeks. The Government would make reinsurance grants to cover the cost.

This week President Eisenhower told eight Governors that his advisers are working on a new program. The trouble is that the Governors left a White House meeting in complete confusion as to what the program would be, and who would pay for it.

Gov. Knight of California understood that when a state exhausted its insurance reserves, the Government would grant it more money from the federal administrative fund. But an Administration official said later that the Government would offer loans, not grants. He said the states could repay the loans as their reserve funds were rebuilt in better times, or even increase the employers' tax.

If the slump is to be of short duration, the states probably could repay the federal loans without a tax increase. A tax increase makes no sense in a recession, when taxes should, if anything, be reduced. If the slump should last longer than now anticipated, however, the Government would have to reconsider the whole idea of repayment by the states.

Right now Congress is marking time, waiting for an Administration proposal, and holding the Kennedy bill in case the Administration delays. But at this moment of confusion, one thing is surely plain: Rising unemployment and declining purchasing power cannot be permitted to continue without a better unemployment insurance program.

New Tactic on the Gas Grab

The fight against the bill in Congress to relax federal controls over producer prices for natural gas has really taken a new turn. It used to be that the opponents tried to defeat the proposed legislation in committee rather than run the risk of having it pass narrowly on the floor. This time Mayor Dilworth of Philadelphia, speaking for the Mayors of 86 gas-using cities, has asked Speaker Rayburn, a leading supporter of the gas industry bill, to call it up for a House vote.

And why are the Mayors who oppose the bill eager for a House vote? Because they say they had the bill defeated by 35 votes before the Texas oil magnates gave Republican Congressman Martin a complimentary dinner for which they raised $100,000. Since then the Mayors say they have picked up 15 more House votes and stand to win by at least 50.

And do they just want to win a thumping victory over the bill? Not at all. Their purpose is deeper than that. They believe that such a defeat for the gas grab bill would "prod the Federal Power Commission into effective regulation of the industry." And hence the call on Speaker Rayburn to call up the bill. "Mr. Sam" has been in tight spots a good many times in his long service on Capitol Hill. It will be worth watching to see how he gets out of this one.

An Election Nobody Won

For more than a month now the Republic of Colombia has been the only nation in the world governed by five Presidents. This week it is counting ballots of a national election which neither of the two contesting parties could win.

These strange events are preliminaries, Colombians hope, to a restoration of the democracy that was destroyed a decade ago.

The hoped-for restoration began last May when Colombians ousted the dictator Gustavo Rojas Pinilla. A five-man military junta then ruled the nation in an effort to maintain peace, and last month each member of the junta was sworn in as a President.

Meanwhile the Liberals, who had constituted the majority party for many years, and the Conservatives, who threw out a Liberal government only to become enmeshed in dictatorship, had agreed on a plan to restore political peace. The plan was to hold a March election in which each party would be guaranteed an equal number of seats in Congress, state legislatures and municipal councils.

In addition, the Liberals agreed to support a leading Conservative for President, on condition that the next President would be a Liberal. This system of sharing power would last for 12 years.

Unfortunately, Sunday's election results have left the republic without a leading candidate for President. The Liberals outpolled the Conservatives by 3 votes to 2, as expected, but the Conservatives did not agree on the expected presidential candidate. The slate of the moderate Dr. Guillermo Leon Valencia was overwhelmed on the Conservative side by the faction of ex-President Laureano Gomez, who was ousted in 1953 after a fascist-style dictatorship.

The Liberals are unlikely to support Gomez for President, and he says he does not want the office. But his victory gives him a leading role in the bargaining that will inevitably follow if the two parties are to agree on a President. Agreement is essential if Colombia is to return to her constitutional traditions.

A First Step Is Essential

The State Department's latest reply to Bulganin appears to be a holding operation. There are many evidences that our Government is preparing a new initiative on disarmament and the summit conference—perhaps a plan for suspension of nuclear tests, perhaps a "Big Two" meeting, perhaps something else. The new note to Moscow, ducking discussion of Bulganin's outer space proposals, may be intended to keep the wires open until the American counter-proposals can be prepared.

We hope those counter-proposals are impressive and foolproof, for Bulganin's audacious theft of the outer-space issue cannot lightly be tossed off.

Secretary Dulles is not quite accurate when he complains that Bulganin mixes two utterly different things by linking control of ballistic missiles and outer space with elimination of American bases overseas. It is a fact that American planes and intermediate missiles based on foreign soil present a strategic deterrent to Soviet aggression, and the Kremlin can with some plausibility claim that its intercontinental ballistic missile presents a comparable deterrent aimed at the United States. We cannot expect to demand elimination of Russia's weapon but not our own.

This does not mean that the United States can agree to abandon the bases on which our deterrent strategy so utterly depends. Far from it. Any missiles-for-bases deal would have to be virtually the last stage of a disarmament-peace arrangement, rather than the first. But to counter the Soviet proposal, it is indispensable that the West offer genuine, workable and honest alternatives. If we understandably hesitate to take the last step first, we must be incontestably willing to take a meaningful first step first.

$35.10 for What?

Some rare intellectual wheels were set to spinning and whirling to justify the County Council's opposition to the city's desperate battle for an increase in the earnings tax. This activity of the Council produced the extra rare argument that a county resident pays about $35.10 in county taxes on a $13,000 home and that he also pays, if he happens to be a skilled mechanic working in the city, an earnings tax of $37.50. This $37.50 charge, according to the Council, is "an unjust and unfair tax burden." Well, if it is, then the $35.10 county tax is a howling outrage.

Assuming that this county mechanic lives in one of the suburbs—University City, Clayton, Webster Groves, Kirkwood, it makes no difference which one—just what does he get for his $35.10? He pays for the county police, but they serve unincorporated areas. The streets he uses are principally maintained by his municipality, not the county, and he pays extra taxes for municipal service. He gets real service from his school district, but pays a school tax for it. For the $35.10 he hands the county, he gets very little except the collection of his taxes.

There is not space enough here to list, on the other hand, all that the county mechanic gets for the $37.50 he pays the city: the streets he uses to earn his daily bread, police and fire protection for his place of employment, the zoo, the museum, the skating rink and the parks to which he takes his children, emergency hospital treatment if he should need it, and above all the economic opportunities of a metropolitan community.

The County Council should know, and the county's three State Senators—E. Gary Davidson, Hartwell Crain and Charles A. Witte—must know how dependent the county is on St. Louis, economically, socially and culturally. Do they believe that if St. Louis is forced into a worsening crisis, everything in the county will bloom more profusely than the green bay tree?

No, We Don't Speak the Language

President Eisenhower is properly indignant because most of the foreign service officers of the State Department are sadly lacking in ability to speak a foreign language. He is reported to be angry over this deficiency.

There should be no doubt that President Eisenhower has long been aware of the value of linguistics. As the commander of the allied forces that invaded Nazi-held Europe in 1944, he must have learned time and again the difficulties of liaison when different tongues are involved. The surprising thing is that it took a luncheon with the advisory committee of the Foreign Service Institute for him to become informed of the sad state of language training in the State Department's vital foreign service corps.

He learned that half this corps has no speaking knowledge of any foreign language, that 70 per cent of the new men coming into the corps are in the same condition, that only one of our ambassadors to a Communist country speaks the language of the country to which he is assigned, and many similar sad facts. Yet it was only two years ago that Deputy Under Secretary of State Loy Henderson was advocating "heroic measures" to overcome this deficiency. And for years it has been reported in the press that the United States is unique among the other great powers—and even smaller ones—because of this language lack.

The President's attitude after the luncheon was reported to be: "Why didn't somebody tell me about this?" The question might better be put another way: "Why didn't I find out what so many others have known so long?" Until this nation has foreign service officers who are well trained in languages it will not possess diplomacy that can best oil international frictions.

A principal who spanked a 5-year-old kindergarten pupil was wrestled to the floor by the father of the child and hit with a chair by the mother. And thus is the great creative force of education transmitted from generation to generation.

"HOW TO SOCK IT IN THE PUSS?"

A Physicist Answers Dr. Teller

Columbia University Professor Lists Ways of Detecting Nuclear Weapons Tests

Jay Orear in the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists

Since 1957 I have been a participant in the Columbia Inspection Project, a private, unclassified study (sponsored by the Columbia University Institute of War and Peace Studies) of the technical problems involved in detecting possible violations of a disarmament agreement.

My specific project was to study the possibility of devising a minimal inspection scheme which could detect violations of a test-ban agreement. Since this is a technical report, political considerations are touched upon only when relevant to the technical problem under discussion. On the other hand, one would arrive at a highly unrealistic inspection scheme if all political considerations were ignored.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

I have attempted not to permit my personal political conclusions to influence the technical conclusions. However, I feel it is best to let the reader know that, for political and military reasons not presented here, I am in favor of a test-ban agreement.

Information Not Classified

The information presented here has been obtained from the literature, private conversations, and simple scientific reasoning. I am grateful to the physicists, seismologists, and meteorologists who have helped me. Since I have no access to classified material, I am in the fortunate position of being free to say anything.

Unless violations could be detected, an agreement banning nuclear weapons testing would be worthless, whether part of a general disarmament agreement, or a separate "first-stage" agreement.

It is well known that many unannounced nuclear weapons tests have been detected at large distances by various monitoring techniques. Under what conditions are these techniques sufficient to detect violations of a test-ban agreement?

Because monitoring stations present almost no interference with internal security, a test-ban has often been proposed as a possible "first step" to disarmament. Although it would not in itself be disarmament, many people feel it could be a test of good faith which could lead to further agreements.

Way to Ban Tests

In fact the establishment of United States monitoring stations throughout the entire Soviet Union would in itself be more progress toward disarmament than has yet been made. Most other types of agreements would require a degree of inspection and free access which a nation like the U.S.S.R. would be reluctant to accept.

An adequate inspection system for a test ban would require the establishment of monitoring stations at various locations deep inside the Soviet Union. About 25 such stations uniformly distributed throughout the Soviet Union should be sufficient.

There is hope that such an inspection system would be acceptable to Russia, since it was Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin who proposed in the June 14, 1957 meeting of the U.N. Disarmament Subcommittee that the test-ban agreement "be implemented by scientific control posts to be set up in the United States, U.S.S.R., United Kingdom, and Pacific Ocean areas."

The main techniques for detection of nuclear weapons testing are detection of: acoustic waves, seismic waves, electromagnetic radiation, radioactivity.

The general feeling is that except for deep underground explosions, very high altitude tests, and tests of sub-nominal yield, nuclear tests can be detected at very large distances by the acoustic wave technique. Thus low-yield tests of just a few kilotons T.N.T. equivalent would probably require monitoring stations inside the Soviet Union. Low-yield tests could probably be detected at distances up to a few hundred miles.

If we require that every point in the Soviet Union be within 300 miles of a monitoring station, about 22 stations would be needed within the borders of the Soviet Union. This is assuming there are additional stations in the free nations bordering the U.S.S.R. A similar density of stations would be needed in other possible testing areas.

Quakes and Bombs

As with the acoustic waves, the seismic wave cannot be detected at large distances for sub-nominal tests. However, such underground explosions can be detected at distances of 300 miles and the signals can be distinguished from natural earthquakes.

Is it possible to evade detection by rigging up a bomb to go off "simultaneously" with a natural earthquake of larger magnitude? As long as there are several monitoring stations within about 500 miles from the explosion, seismologists are of the opinion that this method of deception would not work.

The main limitation to electromagnetic radiation detection is the weakness of secondary scatterings. This technique is probably useful up to about 500 miles.

Because of neutron-induced activity, all except the deep underground tests will produce radioactivity which may be detected. For example, the Japanese have detected low-yield Nevada tests by collecting dust from air at sea level.

Although sub-nominal tests of low fission yield and deep underground tests could possibly escape detection, a test-ban agreement which could be checked only by outside monitoring still would fulfill many of its purposes. To restrict tests to the point where they must be made undetectable by outside observers certainly does impede weapons development. In the view of M. Taketani, professor of physics in Tokyo and a leader in the Japanese test-ban movement, "Underground explosions are morally preferable to explosions in the atmosphere, because the former has no fall-out. In the present situation, I would like to propose, pragmatically, the cessation of all the tests of A- and H-bombs whose explosions are detectable."

U.N. to Be Called In

Even these tests which could escape outside detection could be detected if about 25 ground monitoring stations could be uniformly distributed over the Soviet Union. Then any test would be within 300 miles of at least one station and usually be within 500 miles of four stations. The 300 mile requirement proposed here may be too conservative. If so, perhaps only a few stations would be needed. A 500 mile requirement can be met with eight stations.

The provision that U. N. observers must be invited to all large chemical explosions plus the provision of about 25 fixed monitoring stations would make it impossible in practice to violate an agreement which suspends the testing of all nuclear weapons unless they are within an order of magnitude of conventional weapons.

Because a nuclear "bomb" can be made to have a yield as small as that of a firecracker, it is technically correct, but highly misleading, for a public official to state that we can't be sure of detecting all tests. Certain officials such as President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan, and Dr. Edward Teller have made general statements which to the public appear in conflict with the findings of this paper.

When asked to propose a method of testing which is undetectable, these officials hide behind the cloak of secrecy. Until a specific and valid objection is made to the findings of this paper, one can assume these officials are relying on the technicality of ultra-low yield nuclear "tests."

Between Book Ends Career Opportunity

RADAR TROUBLE-SHOOTER: THE ADVENTURES OF SGT. WILSON OF THE AIR FORCE, by Malcolm Stevenson. (Dodd, Mead, 245 pgs., $2.75.)

This is another title in the Dodd, Mead Career Books series. For young people of high school age these books offer not only entertainment but also a great amount of practical information to assist them in choosing their life's work. So far a dozen or more have been published describing a wide variety of career opportunities, ranging from "Pam Wilson, Registered Nurse" to "Keith Arnold in Mining Engineering." It is interesting to note that as a matter of editorial policy Dodd, Mead requires that their authors must actually have lived in the careers they write about.

George Wilson, the principal figure in the latest volume, is a 17-year-old who enlisted in the Air Force and became a skilled electronic technician. Beginning with George's first visit to the Air Force recruiting station, the story follows him through basic training and describes his technical education in the "Electronics Fundamentals" course at Keesler Air Force Base, Mississippi. Later, after a tour of duty at a base in California, George returns to Keesler for an advanced electronics course and is then assigned to an air-sea rescue squadron in England. As the story unfolds it gives a good picture of what Air Force technical training is like and what it means to be responsible for the vital radar equipment the modern Air Force uses. Jack Aldridge

High Adventure

THE LONG WHITE ROAD, by Marvin H. Albert. (David McKay Co., Inc., 175 pgs., $3.)

SENOR EL DIK DAK, by Homer L. Hooban. (The Caxton Printers, Ltd., 221 pgs., $3.50.)

Here are two books of high adventure in distant places. "The Long White Road" is an exciting account of Ernest Shackleton's Antarctic Adventures by Marvin Albert, who sold his first by-line article to the Philadelphia Record, and has worked for Look and other magazines. The latter book, by an Idaho outdoorsman, is for younger readers. It describes the land of the gauchos, the far southern reaches of South America, where an American boy turns up on shore, the victim of a shipwreck. Both books deal with wildlife and are well illustrated.

THOMAS L. STOKES

Are Easy TV Answers Right, Too?

By A. S. MIKE MONRONEY
United States Senator From Oklahoma.

This is one of a series of guest columns contributed by persons in public life as a tribute to Thomas L. Stokes, whose column regularly appears in this space. Mr. Stokes is seriously ill.

WASHINGTON.

BEHOLD THE GLORIES OF AUTOMATION! Shorter work weeks, greater production, lowered costs—every man a manager! But it is amazing just how the television industry, the Madison Avenue advertising clan and the television pollsters have advanced so far so fast.

Now, by automation, they seem to know what program my wife will want to look at tonight or next Sunday night. If I don't know, how can Mr. Nielsen of Nielsen's TV report know? Maybe my wife wants to see "Maverick" instead of Steve Allen. I sure can't tell anybody, but Trendex and the American Research Bureau knows. Each network program is carefully and automatically rated as to its public acceptance by various little devices showing which programs the public is listening to at that particular period.

Monroney

And what Mr. Nielsen or Trendex know, they tell the Madison Avenue advertising czars, and then the Madison Avenue advertising geniuses tell the television networks, and then I get "Have Gun, Will Travel" on my set.

Mind Read by Machine.

Automation is simply wonderful, no more guesswork in TV programming—no struggle with art or culture, no worry about the discovery of new talent, no fussing around about new plays or ideas. Just press the button and bingo — Mr. Nielsen, Madison Avenue and the TV networks have read America's mind in its television complexes.

So, if you suspect that your picture tube is jammed because horse operas gallop across the screen five times a night to the staccato ping of a six-gun—or if the little seeing eye gives you a "whodunnit" every 15 minutes—or if the whistle seems to be stuck on a $64 billion giveaway—it's because America's mind has been read by automation.

It seems that some inventive genius, a fugitive perhaps from the ballistic missile science corps, has perfected an electronic gadget that, placed upon 100 or 200 sets in New York City, can give an accurate picture of what program the 10,000,000 New Yorkers are looking at each night.

Checked by Telephone.

All of these 100 or so are scientifically selected guinea pigs properly weighted and categorized as to their right percentage of the 10,000,000 in the New York television audience.

Oft times, not completely trusting automation for mind-reading, telephone calls — say 100 or 200 more—are used to check the accuracy of the automatic mind-reader.

Thus have public opinion polls taken on a new significance. Even on such well-set ideas as a preference for the presidency, public-opinion pollsters have proven some degree of fallibility.

But on something as "definitely predictable" from week to week as my wife's TV appetite, the polls are nearly as respected in advertising and TV circles as the Sermon on the Mount.

Of course, these gifts of automation and mind-reading can't be spread to Pocatello or Fort Worth or Tuscaloosa. Just apply the percentages of listeners in L. A. or Chicago to them.

Father or Junior?

But the automatic records in a few cities, coupled with telephone calls in a few others, do make the science exact enough to remove the normal and apparently objectionable idea that the television network or the program sponsor should have some sense of responsibility and judgment as to the quality of the program.

I don't like to quibble about this new science. But I wonder if we couldn't perfect the automation a bit further and find out, if the set is on in the "sample home," what the age of the television viewer really is.

I'd feel a bit better about this mastermind selector of my television fare if the gadget registered whether Junior is watching the set or if the program actually is being viewed by an adult. From the net result of the TV ratings, I suspect Junior as the mastermind of the electronic masterminds.

It might help also if the gadget showed whether or not the program had put the viewer to sleep.

Something for Congress.

Maybe while the House of Representatives is seriously investigating the matter of shenanigans in the Federal Communications Commission, it might be good for the Senate to tune in for a "whodunnit" on this new automatic mind-reader and predicting device.

The infallibiilty of the TV pollsters has become such a credo in the area of Madison avenue that Congress should have a look at it.

Think what could be done in reducing the number of Senate speeches if we could be told beforehand that no one was listening to us anyway, because they like "Gunsmoke" better.

And even if it is Junior casting the family vote, a Senator shouldn't try to disqualify him. After all, Junior may be a registered voter before I run next time.

By GEORGE McCUE

Paintings, drawings and sculptures by Zale Stratmeyer, in a one-man show at the Kirkwood Public Library, are among recent exhibition openings in this area that also include shows by the Society of Independent Artists and the American Art Alliance, and a display of religious art.

Mrs. Stratmeyer is president of the St. Louis County Art Association, and she has taken part in several recent group shows. In her own exhibition, she displays facility for a fresh, singing kind of color harmony in some of the oils, and a rather dispirited woodenness in some of the pastels.

The glowing color is perhaps at its best in "Sacred Heart," with beautifully painted passages in the robes of orange-red and pale green worn by the Christ. But the composition suffers from frequent repetition of the stylized heart shape — in the neckline of the green garment, in the broader folds of the red robe, in a shadow on one hand and even in the cut of the beard. It could be contended that this reiteration has the effect of amplifying and intensifying the message of the exposed, thorn-encircled heart, but, because it seems rather too obvious, it comes off more as a device.

The pastels are portraits and portrait studies in which the subjects wear somewhat strained, almost angry expressions; and in "My Husband," a handsomely painted oil, there appears a fleeting overtone of exasperation. Two oils, "Dancer in Leotards" and "Chris With Drums," are much more relaxed and felicitous.

Two of the encised marble slab sculptures that Mrs. Stratmeyer does particularly well, "Christ Falls" and "The Day Before," are on view. There are photographs of six garden sculptures, but four of these are out of focus. The artist generally displays strength in thematic color, composition and design, and a decided unevenness in bringing faces to life. The show runs through April 14.

The exhibition of religious works, in the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church fellowship hall, brings together a number of paintings, an enamel and a hand-loomed altar hanging that have been displayed in shows sponsored by the Metropolitan Church Federation at the Artists' Guild. This show is running concurrently with another show of religious art at the Monday Club of Webster Groves, through April 10.

The Society of Independent Artists exhibition is at the Petit Pigalle restaurant, 4207 Lindell boulevard, through March 29. In includes some pleasant still lifes among which an abstraction by Alice Pearcy Ulbright is outstanding, an energetic watercolor, "Lumberjacks," by Victor Joseph Kunz, the tastefully designed "Marsh Grasses," by Elizabeth Doyle in watercolor, and country lanes of calendar prettiness.

The American Art Alliance show is in the Coronado Hotel foyer, and it is, by and large, pretty ordinary. Alice G. Samuel's oil, "The Big Snow," places the spreading branches of a snow-covered tree dramatically across a background church structure, but the artist's signature, printed vertically and conspicuously on a part of the church wall, seems in dubious taste. Leona Chappell's "Along the Canal" is a watercolor that makes pleasing use of an angular bridge structure.

PRESIDENT TO GIVE MEDAL FOR BRAVERY TO BOY SCOUT

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—Harold Tupper Murray Jr., a 16-year-old Charleston (S.C.) Boy Scout, has been selected to receive a Young American medal for bravery.

Attorney General Rogers announced the selection today. The medal is for the year 1956 and will be presented to Murray by President Eisenhower at the White House. No date has been set.

In April, 1956, when Murray was 14 years old, he heard Mrs. O. A. Rakoske scream and found she had been bitten by a copperhead. He killed the snake with a shovel and applied first aid measures. He extracted as much venom as he could by sucking the incision.

QUADRUPLETS IN CANADA

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, March 21 (AP) — Quadruplets were born to a woman at Norway House, 270 miles north of Winnipeg, it was announced in the Manitoba legislature last night.

Roy Brown, veteran bush pilot who represents the northern district of Rupertsland, said he had learned two boys and two girls were born last Friday to Mrs. Calico Jones.

NATIONAL JEWISH HOSPITAL HONORS MORTON J. MAY

Morton J. May, chairman of the board of the May Department Stores Co., received a distinguished service certificate from the National Jewish Hospital, Denver, yesterday at a luncheon at Hotel Statler Hilton.

The award was in recognition of May's services on behalf of the hospital as a founder and chairman of the St. Louis fund-raising committee for the institution for 32 years. It was presented by Isadore Samuels, president of the hospital, a non-sectarian tuberculosis and chest diseases treatment and research center.

Samuels, in a review of the hospital's accomplishments, told an audience of about 70 civic and business leaders of a new diagnostic X-ray technique that reduces radiation hazards to patients.

Latest project at the hospital is a $1,250,000 research building now under construction, which Samuels said would be the largest and most modern facility in the United States for investigation of chest diseases.

BRITON DISCUSSES ATOMS FOR PEACE

Sir George Paget Thomson Says America Has Least to Gain.

The United States has less to gain from development of atomic energy as a source of industrial power than any other nation, Sir George Paget Thomson, a British atomic physicist and winner of the Nobel Prize in Physics, said here last night.

Thomson, who has played a leading part in the development of atomic energy for peaceful uses in England, pointed out in an interview that the high cost of coal and other fuels in England has forced the development of the cheaper and more efficient atomic energy. In the United States the supply of coal and other relatively cheap fuels is ample, he said.

Thomson is in St. Louis to deliver an informal talk Monday before a meeting of students and faculty of the Washington University department of physics. He is staying with his sister-in-law and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Drew, 227 Orchard avenue, Webster Groves.

He received a Nobel Prize in 1937 for research on electron refraction.

He and Arthur H. Compton, Washington University's Nobel Prize-winning physicist, attended classes at Cambridge University, England, where Thomson's father, J. J. Thomson, was professor of physics in the early 1900s.

Thomson and his father are the only father and son each to have received a Nobel Prize. J. J. Thomson received the prize in 1907 for discovery of the electron.

Since 1946, Thomson, who is a master of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, has been working on development of nuclear power from hydrogen atoms. This involves extraction of energy from heavy hydrogen by causing the release of intense heat from hydrogen gas, he explained.

He described as "interesting" a recent advance in the hydrogen project in which a temperature of 5,000,000 degrees centigrade was attained.

"To become economical," he explained, "a minimum temperature of more than 50,000,000 degrees will have to be attained. British scientists, working under the British Atomic Energy Authority, are using 230,000 amperes of electricity to activate the hydrogen atoms for release of heat."

Thomson said he is "terribly skeptical" of proposals for international inspection as part of a disarmament agreement. He indicated there would always be a way of evading such an inspection plan.

He added, however, a belief that earth satellites "not much larger than Sputnik II," could be equipped with television and relay visual information to countries participating in an inspection plan.

URGES SUPPORT FOR HOSPITAL CARE BILL

Msgr. McGowan Favors Boost in Aid for Those Getting Social Security.

Catholic hosptial administrators were urged yesterday to support a bill pending in Congress which would increase payments for hospitalization, nursing service and surgical care for those receiving social security.

In an address before alumni of the St. Louis University graduate program in hospital administration at the Coronado Hotel, Msgr. Donald A. McGowan of Washington, D.C., said it is not realistic to oppose the measure, known as the Forand bill, simply on the grounds that it is government aid and that government aid to medicine is undesirable.

Msgr. McGowan, who is director of the Bureau of Health and Hospitals for the National Catholic Welfare Conference, observed that the government already pays 50 per cent of the health care given in hospitals and owns 51 per cent of the hospital beds.

He said it is incumbent upon Catholic hospitals to lead the way in providing care for aged, indigent persons, as well as the mentally ill, mongoloids and those afflicted with incurable diseases.

About 135 persons, mostly graduates of the program, attended the three-day meeting, which closed yesterday. Held to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the graduate program, the conference was sponsored jointly by St. Louis University and the Catholic Hospital Association.

Akins Believes He'll Have to Kayo Faster Logart to Win Tonight

Cuban 5-7 Choice for Big Bout

By W. J. McGoogan
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

NEW YORK, March 21—Tonight is the night of decision for Virgil Akins, St. Louis contender for the world's welterweight boxing title.

He meets Isaac (The Whip) Logart of Cuba in a 12-round contest, at Madison Square Garden. It's the semifinal of a tournament to fill the vacancy at the top of the 147-pound division left when Carmen Basilio defeated Ray Robinson to move up into the middleweight class, next above the welters, in which the weight limit is 160 pounds.

The winner of the bout, to be telecast over the regular Friday night network (KSD-TV, Channel 5 in St. Louis) at 9 o'clock, is scheduled to meet Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., within 90 days to decide the championship.

Logart rules the betting favorite over Akins at 5 to 7.

Neither will have a weight advantage, each scaling 145¾ pounds at the weigh-in today.

Cuban the Better Boxer.

Logart is conceded to be the better boxer, is faster on his feet and with his hands, and Akins knows that he probably will have to stop his opponent to win. And, the Cuban has been knocked out only once in his career and that in one of his early matches in his home country.

There is much similarity in the careers of the two men. Each has had 64 professional fights. Akins has won 46, 26 by knockouts. He has lost 17, including two in which he was stopped, and boxed a draw. Logart has won 52, including 19 by knockouts. He has lost seven and boxed five draws.

Both started from the bottom of the ladder. Logart, a native of Camaguey, Cuba, the home of former welterweight champion, Kid Gavilan, pridefully talks of getting $1.50 for his first fight.

Akins can go him one better for he received only transportation for one bout in New Orleans. And Henry Armstrong, another welterweight king, lived in St. Louis as a boy.

Rubber Match for Them.

Akins and Logart have met twice before, Virgil winning the first at St. Nicholas Arena in August 1955 and Logart taking the return bout in Madison Square Garden in December of the same year.

The second fight has been a handicap to Akins because its loss renewed accusations that he loafs and fights only when he wants to. However, St. Louis fans, who have seen him perform for more than 10 years, know that he is an in-and-out scrapper. He has looked great in one bout and disappointed his friends in another.

Strangely, most of his poor fights have been at home. His sensational victories have come elsewhere, including this city, where he knocked out Ronnie Delaney in eight rounds at a time when Delaney seemed headed for the top of the heap. Also, Virgil kayoed Joe Miceli in one round at St. Nicholas Arena.

Scoring in tonight's bout will be by rounds with a supplementary point system. The winner of a round gets from one to four points, the loser nothing and an even round counts no points. There will be two judges and a referee.

Cuban 6 Years Younger.

Akins is 30 years old and Logart is only 24 but Virgil hasn't been hurt much in his years in the ring and, if anything, seems to be a more determined battler than ever before.

That opinion is based on his two knockout victories over Tony De Marco, a former champion, in Boston, as a result of which Akins has claimed the championship and is backed in this by the Massachusetts commission. The Massachusetts body quit the National Boxing Association when that body refused to go along with its ruling.

To gain universal recognition as the champion, however, Akins will have to beat Logart, then go on to defeat Martinez.

There is a fairly good chance that, should Akins win, the championship contest will be held in St. Louis. The International Boxing Club, which is the promoter of tonight's bout, controls The Arena and would be interested in holding the match there.

Each boxer is to receive $20,000 for tonight's work — one of the largest purses either has ever received—and the I.B.C. expects something of a crowd, despite television, for it has tied an American Legion benefit to the show.

The Crown Is a Working Dream

VIRGIL AKINS (left) of St. Louis and ISAAC LOGART of Cuba tonight will determine which of them gets closer to the welterweight boxing title, or crown, as they seem to prefer thinking of it. There is a man missing in this picture, but he will be around. He is Vince Martinez, who will meet the Akins-Logart winner in the title match of the elimination series.

Phils Can't Get to 1st Base With Collins; Mantle, Aaron Look Most Valuable Again

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21 (AP) — The first base problem of the Philadelphia Phillies remained desperate today. Joe Collins of the New York Yankees retired from baseball after being sold to the Phils for the $20,000 waiver price.

"If I can't be a Yankee, I'm through with baseball," the 35-year-old Collins said, about a half hour after he was told of the transaction yesterday.

Philadelphia sought a first sacker after Ed Bouchee, an outstanding 1957 rookie, became involved with the law and is now taking psychiatric treatment.

Harry Anderson was given a crack at the job by Mayo Smith, Phils' manager, but now is in the outfield. Yesterday when the Yankees trounced the Phillies in an exhibition game, 11-8, Frank Herrera, a Cuban with Triple A experience, played first.

Collins, of Union, N.J., has been in the Yankee organization since 1939. He played over 100 games each season until 1957, when in 79 contests he batted only .201, his poorest year. Bill Skowron is the regular Yankee first baseman, and Marv Throneberry is the No. 2 man after two good years with Denver.

Homeward Bound.

"I'm anxious to get back to my home and family as quickly as I can," Collins said after talking with Roy Hamey, Phillies general manager. "I won't change my mind."

The Most Valuable Player award winners of 1957, Mickey Mantle of New York and Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, both had two homers to lead their teams to victory in exhibition games.

Mantle's blasts and a double drove in six runs as the Yankees won their sixth straight. Granny Hamner drove in four runs for the Phils with a triple, double and single.

Aaron batted in four runs as the Braves belted the Cincinnati Redlegs 11-1 at Bradenton, Fla. Righthander Bob Buhl won his first spring game for the world champions.

Baltimore defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-1 in the first game of a twin bill at Scottsdale, Ariz., but the Cubs blanked the Orioles 1-0 in 10 innings in the second game. Gus Triandos hit a double and two singles for Baltimore in the opener. In the second game Baltimore got only two hits off four Cub hurlers. Chicago broke it up in the top of the tenth when Dale Long singled and Lee Walls doubled.

St. Louisan Homers.

The San Francisco Giants went 10 innings in defeating the Cleveland Indians 7-5 at Tucson, Ariz., on St. Louisan Bob Schmidt's homer. The rookie catcher hit the first pitch by Gary Bell. Singles by Foster Castleman and Eddie Bressoud plus a sacrifice added an insurance run.

Jack Urban gave up five runs at Fort Myers, Fla., and the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Kansas City Athletics, 7-4, behind the pitching of Ron Kline and Roy Face.

The Los Angeles Dodgers scored two runs in both the seventh and eighth innings and defeated the Detroit Tigers 6-4 in a night game at Miami.

Don Drysdale started for the Dodgers and didn't allow a Tiger to reach first in four innings. Four hits and two walks off Danny McDevitt gave Detroit four runs in the sixth. Gino Cimoli's double following singles by Dick Gray and Charlie Neal scored two runs and broke a 4-4 tie in the eighth.

New York Team Wins From Moberly Squad In Junior Tourney

HUTCHISON, Kan., March 21 (UP)—Coffeyville, Kan., advanced in the national junior college basketball tournament with a 92-82 third round victory over North Greenville, S.C. Leading 48-37 at halftime, the Kansans maintained a comfortable advantage throughout. Gibbs Scranton hit 29 points for Coffeyville to lead the scoring. Pete Carlisle was Greenville's best with 19.

Kilgore, Tex., took a tight second round game from Brewton-Parker, 93-88. It was deadlocked 39-39 at halftime and the lead changed several times in the final half. Don Stanley turned in a brilliant 36-point performance for Kilgore. Sid Cohen hit 20 for Brewton-Parker.

Broome Tech of New York, upset Moberly, Mo., 69-64 and Frank Phillips College of Borger, Tex., beat Ely, Minn., 77-66 in consolation games.

Moberly, which had been favored in the tournament, lost in the final five minutes of a tight game. Corky Alderson was high for Moberly with 31 points. Broome was led by Tony Abbadssa with 19.

Messa, Colo., defeated Flint, Mich., 79-76, in overtime in another consolation game.

Cards Resume Spring Games, Meet Pirates

At St. Petersburg, Fla.:

PITTSBURGH	000
CARDINALS	301

Batteries: Pittsburgh—Gross, William (5) and Folles; Cardinals—Jackson and H. Smith.

By J. Roy Stockton
Post Dispatch Sports Editor.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21 — Larry Jackson, counted on as a regular starter on the Cardinal staff in the 1958 season, pitched against the Pirates this afternoon as the Redbirds, after an open date, resumed the the exhibition schedule.

Don Gross was the starting hurler for Pittsburgh.

It was Jackson's first appearance for the varsity. He pitched eight innings in two B games and was not impressive, being touched for four earned runs and walking seven men. His E.R.A. for the B game activity is 4.50.

While Manager Fred Hutchinson spent the open date at Daytona Beach looking at Rochester, Houston and Omaha talent, the Cardinals worked out at Al Lang Field under the direction of the coaches. Most of the time was spent in batting practice.

During the workout Jack Herman, reporter for the Globe-Democrat, was hit on the brow of the right eye by a foul that broke through the back of the batting cage. Herman was removed to a hospital where 13 stitches were required to close the wound. Herman's spectacles were broken but examination disclosed no glass fragments had entered his eye. However, his eye was badly bruised and at the hospital it was said he would have to remain for at least five days.

Bowdry, Liston Headliners in April 3 Fights

A fight show featuring Jesse Bowdry and Sonny Liston in two 10-rounders has been scheduled for Kiel Auditorium Thursday, April 3, by Promoter Lou Wallach, who presented four previous shows at St. Louis House.

Bowdry has won 20 or 22 bouts since turning professional, and 18 of the victories have come by knockouts. His most recent was a second-round TKO over Eddie O'Hara of Syracuse, N.Y., Monday night. Bowdry, only 20 years old, is regarded as the finest light-heavyweight to come out of Golden Gloves ranks in many years.

Liston, a heavyweight recently returned to active boxing, has won 16 fights in 17 starts, with nine by knockouts. He has won twice in the last month.

Wallach plans a five-bout card for the first major boxing program here in nine months.

He hopes to line up top opposition for the double feature. Possible opponents for the 175-pound Bowdry include Bobby Lane of Miami, Angelo DeFendis or Jerry Luedee of New York, or Gordon Wallace, former British Empire champion.

Finding opposition for Liston, who owns two victories over Johnny Summerlin, may be more difficult. Among the top prospects are Julio Mederos of Havana, Bert Whitehurst, who recently gave Archie Moore a good fight, or Wayne Bethea, popular TV fighter.

Doors Barred, Basilio Works On New Move

CHICAGO, March 21 (UP)—There were indications today that Middleweight Champion Carmen Basilio wants still more weapons to keep his crown in Tuesday's battle against a four-time titleholder, Sugar Ray Robinson.

Basilio has been working in semi-secret, with only friends and newsmen admitted, since he arrived Monday, and yesterday he canceled his workout, it was announced.

But instead his manager, John De John and Trainer Joe Netro, hustled him to the gym when the newsmen's interest had switched to Robinson's quarters for a secret training session.

"We wanted to try something," Netro said, "and we didn't want a lot of people watching. It's something that we tried earlier and we just wanted him to work on it a little more. It went off all right."

Several writers who had not known that Basilio did not plan to work out showed up at his training quarters, but they were not admitted to the gym.

Robinson, on the other hand, worked before a packed house, boxing three rounds, one each with Lee Williams, Otis Woodard and Irish Bobby Lee. He floored Williams with one punch. In his training in New York before he came here Tuesday, he knocked out Williams in another training session.

Both fighters were expected to work out again today and tomorrow, but it was likely they would confine their activity Sunday to light gym sessions with no workout on Monday.

In the St. Louis area, two theaters will show the closed-circuit TV of the Basilio-Robinson fight, Lowe's State, in downtown St. Louis, and the Majestic Theater in East St. Louis. Doors will be opened at 9 p.m., the fight will be started at 10 p.m. Tickets at the Majestic are $3.60, at Loew's State $3.65.

Webb's Moving Idea Probably Won't Get Far

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21 (UP).

DEL WEBB, co-owner of the New York Yankees, thinks it might be wise for the Kansas City Athletics and Philadelphia Phillies to swap American and National League franchises.

"It's just my personal opinion that it might be a good thing," Webb said.

Webb said he got the idea because of the current loose geographical lineup of the two leagues. The American League extends from New York to Kansas City while the National League extends from Philadelphia to San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Webb's idea is that Philadelphia in the American League and Kansas City in the National would tighten the travel lines of both circuits. The American League would become, so the reasoning goes, a "tight" circuit from New York to Chicago, while Kansas City would be the natural jumping off point of National League teams traveling back and forth from Pittsburgh and the west coast.

Beal, Henley Accept M.U. Scholarships

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 21—Four St. Louis district players are among seven high school grid stars, two of them good enough to make the all-state first team, who have accepted athletic scholarships to the University of Missouri, Athletic Director Don Faurot has revealed.

The recipients include two members of the Post-Dispatch Missouri All-District team: Halfback Norm Beal, 167 pounds, of Normandy High, and Tackle Paul Henley, 195 pounds, of Kirkwood.

Ferguson, 175-pound Fredericktown quarterback; and Robert H. Haubein, 175-pound Kansas City Paseo quarterback.

Bukowsky and Beal were all-state selections, while Ferguson and Haubein were third-team selections and Henley won honorable mention on the all-state team. Ferguson's father is Oliver Ferguson, Fredericktown publisher and a member of the university board of curators.

Most of the players, who ranked in the upper third of their classes, have lettered in other sports. Ferguson also is a basketball, baseball and track performer; Haubein plays basketball; Henley lettered in track, Beal in baseball and Watkins in track and basketball.

Xavier and Dayton Make It an All-Ohio Final in NIT Tourney

Bonnies, St. John's Defeated

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP)—Impressive victories by top-seeded Dayton and unranked Xavier of Cincinnati, have set up an all-Ohio championship game in the National invitation basketball tournament.

But Dayton Coach Tom Blackburn is not happy about it.

The Flyers rode over St. John's of New York, 80-56, and Xavier knocked off third-seeded St. Bonaventure, 72-53, in last night's semifinals in Madison Square Garden.

The final will be played Saturday afternoon (3:30 p.m. St. Louis time) and will be preceded by a consolation game for third place between the Bonnies and St. John's.

Dayton advanced to the final four times in its six previous N.I.T. appearances and has yet to take home the championship. The Flyers were runners-up in 1951, 1952, 1955 and 1956.

"We would rather have played St. Bonaventure," said Blackburn. "We beat Xavier twice during the regular season and they'll be gunning for us. Also they're playing much better now than when we faced them." Dayton whipped the Musketeers, 74-59, on Jan. 19 and 64-58, Feb. 16.

Stein Is Xavier Star.

The crowd of 15,834 which turned out despite a snowstorm, witnessed a sparkling individual performance by Xavier's Hank Stein. The 6-2 junior from Louisville, Ky., scored 27 points. He tosesd 18 points in the first half, 10 of them in succession, as the Musketeers shot from behind to grab a 29-20 lead.

Xavier, which turned back Niagara and defending champion Bradley to reach the semis, had its lead reduced to three points early in the second half. But Stein got his team rolling again.

In their two previous N.I.T. outings, the Musketeers did not pass the quarter-finals. "Dayton is going to be tough," said Xavier Coach Jim McCafferty. "I don't know what type of defense we'll use Saturday. We tried a zone against them and they had all the answers. But we've got the momentum and that may pull us through."

Lane and Case Star.

For a while it appeared that Dayton had its hands full with St. John's. The Redmen led 39-38 in the fifth minute of the second half. But the Flyers forged in front behind the sharpshooting of Don Lane and Frank Case.

Jack McCarthy, Dayton's 6-6 star, was the game's high scorer with 25 points. Case had 23 and Lane 14. Alan Seiden, whose set shooting carried St. John's into the lead late in the first half, paced his team with 18 points.

Kansas State Favored To Win From Seattle.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 21 (UP)—A rematch of one of the season's finest games fittingly opens college basketball's biggest show tonight when Kentucky and Temple meet in the semifinal round of the NCAA championships before a standing-room-only crowd of 20,000.

The replay of the three-overtime thriller Kentucky won from Temple at Lexington, Ky., last December was regarded a tossup, while Kansas State's towering team was picked to whip Seattle in tonight's other semifinal.

Temple, with All-America Guy Rodgers at guard and Jay Norman working miracles under the boards, rode into the semifinal round on a 25-game winning streak that is the longest in the country this season.

Kentucky, only school which already has won three N.C.A.A. titles, does not boast a single All-America or even all-conference star among its Southeastern Conference champs, but many say that Guard Vern Hatton is as good as they come.

Kansas State's Tex Winter planned to throw a front line of 6-9 Jack Parr, 6-8 Bob Boozer and 6-8 sophomore Wally Frank against Seattle to counteract the tremendous rebounding and inside shooting of All-America Elgin Baylor.

That tremendous height helped Kansas State to a 22-3 season record, the Big Eight title, and Midwest regional victories over powerful Cincinnati and Oklahoma State.

Seattle, tournament dark horse, made it the hard way by beating Wyoming, San Francisco and California in the Far West regionals to extend its season record to 22-5.

Henneman's 700 Leads In Benefit Pin Meet

A score 700 will be the target for men and women entrants in the singles division of the benefit bowling tournament that resumes this weekend at Airport Bowl. Herbert Henneman shot the top score, with the help of 81 pins handicap.

Purpose of the tournament is to raise funds for lighted baseball fields. Co-sponsors of the event are the Overland Lions and the Athletic Boys Club. First prize in the singles is a new automobile, with numerous electrical appliances for other high scorers.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bixby lead in the mixed doubles division with 1212, followed by Mr. and Mrs. Mel Schaefer with 1121. There is also competition in novice and children's divisions. Bowlers with combined average of 190 or under are eligible for the meet which will end April 30.

Two From Midwest Conference Make Illinois All-District Team

By Harold Tuthill

The growing importance of the Mid-Western Conference across the river is emphasized today with the release of the Illinois district basketball stars. Two players from the Mid-Western are on it—Larry Essenpries of Highland and Dave Henson of Dupo.

Two more—Ernie Wilhoit of Collinsville and Bob White of Edwardsville—are Southwestern Conference representatives, while the fifth player, Art Easterly, is a standout from independent Lincoln of East St. Louis.

The annual selections were made by the Post-Dispatch Board of F. F. Gaines, Sam Shepard, Russ Shaver, Bob Cochran, Bob Schapp, John Archibald and the writer, assisted by two ex-officio members, Roy Newsom and Art Shipherd.

Highland's High Hopes.

Ed Hilpert, coach of the Highland team, one of the eight finalists in the state tournament field at Champaign, was optimistic over his team's chances, saying "I believe the Mid-Western Conference is just as tough as any in Southern Illinois."

Hilpert pointed out it would have been possible for the league to qualify three for super-sectional competition, provided Highland won the sectional at Olney (which it did) and further, if Dupo won out at Belleville and at Pinckneyville, and if Madison came through at Alton and Wood River.

Of Essenpreis, Hilpert said, "He's an extremely accurate shot, who has hit as high as 70 per cent in some games. He has an average of about 48 per cent for the season, scoring about 20 points per game."

Essenpries is a senior, 6-3, weighing 185 pounds. He is 17 years old.

Henson, a 6-2¼ senior at Dupo, has been averaging about 17 points per game, scoring 471 for the season. His field goal average is 47 per cent and his free throw average is .719. He has 363 rebounds in 28 games, an average of 13 per game.

Two of the prizes on the East Side are guards. Ernie Wilhoit, the "old pro" of Collinsville's good team, is rated by Kahok coach Vergil Fletcher as one of the best guards he's ever had in 24 years of coaching.

Wilhoit, a 6-3, 180-pound senior averaged about 15 points per game but was especially outstanding as a rebounder.

'Best Little Man in Illinois.'

Bobby White of Edwardsville is a 5-10 senior whom Coach Joe Lucco once described as the "best little man in Illinois this year." An excellent shot from outcourt, White scored 493 points in Edwardsville's 20-10 season, an average of about 16.3 for the little backliner.

Easterly, the only junior on the first five, is a 200-pounder who goes 6-4½. He is 17. Easterly, fullback on the Lincoln football team as well as dash man on the track team, has an exceptionally high average in shooting. During 26 games—he missed one because of illness—he had 366 field goal attempts, making 188 for a mark of .508. He totaled 527 points and had 367 rebounds.

Lincoln finished with a 22-5 record and all but one member of the squad will be back for a full season of competition next winter. The lone exception graduates next January.

Named to the second team were Bart Basola of Collinsville; Francis Coffee of St. Paul, Highland; William Garner, 6-7½ Lincoln center; Mike Hunter of Alton, and Chuck Hasenstab of Belleville Cathedral.

Highland Opens Against Peoria; Champion Herrin Plays Marshall

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 21 (AP) — Eight talented teams headed by Rock Falls, Herrin and Marshall of Chicago, lined up today for the 51st annual finals of the Illinois high school basketball tournament.

Kicking off the two-day playoffs in Huff Gym was the contest sending Rock Falls' flashy Rockets, No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll, against Schlarman of Danville, a long shot representating the smallest school among the finalists. Schlarman has 265 students.

The second afternoon tilt matched two more darkhorses, Peoria Spalding and Highland, followed in the evening by the game between Springfield and West Aurora, and then the closing headliner pairing Marshall and Herrin's defending champions.

The pre-tourney poll forecast that Rock Falls and Herrin would play for the crown Saturday night, but the road ahead was strewn with potential upsets.

Herrin was ranked second in the poll and Marshall fifth. Spalding was rated seventh, Springfield ninth, West Aurora eleventh, Highland fifteenth and Schlarman sixteenth.

Most of the attention at the opening round was drawn to the contest pitting Herrin's clutch-shooting Tigers against one of the best teams to represent Chicago in the title showdown.

Marshall carried the burden of not only trying to overcome Herrin's experience, but of keeping intact an undefeated record and attempting to place Chicago on the roll of champions for the first time.

The best finish by a Chicago entry was second place in 1954.

A sell-out crowd of 6913 will watch each of the four sessions.

Television and radio will carry the games to fans throughout the state.

Friday games will be televised by Channel 3 at Champaign, Channel 43 at Peoria and Channel 35 at LaSalle. Seven other stations will join the network for the Saturday afternoon and evening contests.

Thirty-two radio stations will broadcast all or portions of the eight games.

Bayer Leader In Golf Event

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21 (UP)—George Bayer had a new weapon to go with his long drives today as he started the second round of the $15,000 St. Petersburg open golf tournament two strokes ahead of the field.

The hulking professional from San Gabriel, Calif., ran down three putts of 20 to 25 feet yesterday en route to a three-under-par 68 for the first round lead. They made his 300-yard drives on the soggy Pasadena course pay off handsomely.

Only five others managed to break par of 71 as high winds, wet fairways, greens and traps took their toll.

Four were knotted at 71 — Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O.; Mike Fetchik, Yonkers, N.Y.; Sam Urzetta, Rochester, N.Y., and Don Whitt, Alameda, Calif.

National Open Champion Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, playing his first tourney in two months, scored 75. Doug Ford, Mahopac, N.Y., winner of last week's Pensacola open, posted 74 along with defending champion Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla. Billy Casper, Apple Valley, Calif., who won the recent Baton Rouge open, took 73.

Fox Wins, Clark Is Cannes Tennis Loser

CANNES, France, March 21 (AP)—Malcolm Fox of Baltimore, continued to march forward in the Cannes international tennis tournament, defeating Michel Pirro of Italy, in a fourth-round match. The score was 9-7, 6-4. Previously Fox had eliminated Sven Davidson of Sweden, one of the heavy favorites.

Straight Clark of Philadelphia was beaten by Roger Becker of Great Britain 6-4, 2-6, 6-1. Another British player, Billy Knight, upset top-seeded Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, 6-1, 7-5.

Major League Player Group Opposes Bill

TAMPA, Fla., March 21 (UP)—The major league player representatives lined up solidly behind the club owners today in opposition to representative Emanuel Celler's (Dem.), New York, pending bill to regulate sports.

Reversing a previous stand taken on Feb. 6, the representatives announced through attorney J. Norman Lewis that they no longer indorse the bill in its present form. Lewis read the announcement signed by American League Representative Eddie Yost and National League Representative Robin Roberts:

"On reconsideration, the players representatives at a special meeting at Tampa, Fla., today voted to withdraw indorsement of Congressman Celler's bill in its present form."

"That's absolutely all I am going to say on the matter," said Lewis.

The bill would render all commercial aspects of professional sports subject to federal anti-trust legislation but would exempt certain aspects such as the draft and reserve clause.

The bill is still before a house subcommittee headed by Celler.

The point of contention in the bill is a phrase that would give to congress the right to exempt from anti-trust legislation anything it considers "reasonably necessary" for the benefit of professional baseball, football, hockey and basketball. Club owners object to that phrase as being too much of a "catch all."

Irish Name Co-Captains.

Soells Oppose Northeast Five

The top-seeded Bob Soells will oppose the unseeded Northeast Missouri Collegians tonight in one of the 9 o'clock quarterfinals of the National Basketball Congress' state tournament at Sherman Center.

Fix Mix, seeded third, plays Harlem in the other 9 o'clock contest. The 7:30 games match Scullin against Cocos and McBride Express against Sanford-Brown. Winners of those two games will meet in a semifinal.

Semifinals are scheduled tomorrow night, starting at 7:30 and the final is set for Sunday at 3 p.m., following the third-place game at 1:30. The winner will qualify for the national tournament at Kentland, Ind.

Seeded teams knocked out included Giesler-Jorgen, No. 2, beaten by Scullin Mules; BBB, rated No. 4, defeated by North St. Louis Turners; McDonnell, No. 6, ousted by Cocos; Riondos, No. 5, downed by Northeast Missouri. Harlem is rated No. 7 and Sanford-Brown No. 8.

Trophies, donated by the McDonnell Aircraft Corporation, will be presented to the teams finishing first, second and third. The Most Valuable Player trophy has been donated the basketball Hawks.

Budweisers Hear From The Hermanns' Captain.

ONE of the most appreciated messages that the Budweisers have received since they bowled the highest score in history last week, 3858, was the following telegram:

Sincere congratulations on your record-shattering score. I had hoped if our record was ever broken it would be by your wonderful team.

(Signed, RAY HOLMES, Captain of the Hermanns.

Holmes, who is the owner of the bowling lanes bearing his name at Grand and St. Louis, was high man for the Hermanns when they bowled 3797 on Jan. 27, 1937. He opened with 256, followed with 236, and in the last game he rolled the only 300 of the series for a 792 total.

Other individual totals were: Jim (Buzz) Wilson 709, Fred Taff 766, Sam Garofalo 759 and Bob Wills 771. The Budweisers' totals again were: Don Carter 754, Ray Bluth 834, Pat Patterson 736, Tom Hennessey 759 and Dick Weber 775.

The 1325 that the Hermanns included was the highest game ever shot at the time, although now it stands second behind a 1342 that the Hook Grip Five of Lodi, N.J., rolled in 1950.

The Hermanns' record of 138 strikes was equalled by the Buds and Bluth equalled the individual record of 33 set by Allie Brandt, Lockport, N.Y., in 1939. To show how the importance of getting your strikes at the right time affects a score it should be pointed out that although the men had the same number of strikes, Brandt shot 886 and Bluth 834. Brandt had no open frames, while Bluth missed a No. 10 pin in the second game, while striking in the other 11 frames.

The more that the Buds' box score is studied, the more records will be turned up. One not previously mentioned was the team record for consecutive strikes which the Buds set with 24 in a row during the third game. The old mark was 22 by a team called "Holy Rosary Gray," in Passaic, N.J., in 1935.

Last Monday the members of the Budweiser team were pleasantly surprised to receive congratulatory notes written on St. Patrick's day cards from Carl Richard, one of their rivals on the Falstaff team.

Women Have Four 300s, But Only Six 3000s.

THERE have been four perfect games bowled by women in sanctioned play this season, each in a different part of the nation—Grand Rapids, Mich., Los Angeles, San Antonio and Philadelphia.

Strangely, however, there have been only six team totals of 3000 or better. All but one of them were in the Midwest. There are no St. Louisans among the individual high averages this season. Best in the country is a 194 mark by Evelyn Udovich, of Milwaukee, Wis. Neither Marion Ladewig, the six-time match game champion, or Merle Matthews, the Los Angeles woman who holds the title now, are among the top 10 in league averages.

Charlotte Kardas, a member of Mrs. Ladewig's Fanatorium team in Grand Rapids, has the season's high three of 741. On Feb. 19 Mrs. Kardas rolled 272, 253 and 216. She had 24 strikes, no splits and two misses.

Hundreds of American Junior Bowling Congress members will compete in the annual Mail-o-Graphic tournament tomorrow morning at Stein Bowl. Some 6000 teams are expected to enter the nation-wide event.

St. Louis U. High Beats Washington U. Riflemen Second Time

St. Louis University High School riflemen last night defeated Washington University's R.O.T.C. team for the second time in three matches this season. The score was 1878 to 1858.

The five top men on each team were: St. Louis U. High—Bradburn 381, LaBarge 378, Murphy 374, Gould 374 and Keene 371. Washington—Vogler 385, Bodycomb 374, Bowling 372, Haenni 370 and Wax 357.

O'Donnell Rolls 828 In All-Star Doubles

Chuck O'Donnell, pilot of the Pulaski team, rolled games of 280, 279 and 269 for an 828 total to gain the scoring honors in the St. Louis All-Star Doubles Bowling League. The 828 total is third high on the A.B.C. list this season. Ray Bluth is No. 1 with 834 and Bill Pace is second with 831. O'Donnell was bowling on alleys Nos. 1 and 2 last night at Arcade.

Hawks, Pistons Now Defense-Conscious

Hannum Plans Box For Shue

By Harold Flachsbart

Both the Hawks and Detroit Pistons, who rang the bell for 225 points in their National Basketball Association playoff opener here Wednesday night, were talking today in terms of defense for the second contest of the best-of-seven series tomorrow afternoon at Detroit.

Alex Hannum and his Hawk board of strategy, which would include all 10 of his players, gave foremost consideration to ways and means of stopping Gene Shue, darting Detroit backliner who scored 29 points as his team dropped a 114-111 decision to the Hawks.

Possibly unhappy as anyone could be after a winning effort was Slater Martin, the Hawks' veteran backcourt whiz, who not only was physically injured in the series opener but suffered injured pride as well.

"What a great job I did!" Martin said in self-criticism. "My man scored 29 points." Martin had been assigned the task of guarding Shue but because of the Pistons' excellent picks and blocking plays, the Hawks frequently had to switch men in the middle of Detroit play patterns. So it wasn't always Dugie's fault that Shue broke loose for 10 field goals.

Pettit, Martin Ailing.

Hannum reported that Bob Pettit, the Hawks' top scorer over the past four seasons, was feeling better after a bout with intestinal flu. "He's still pale and looks a little 'beat up' but Bob said he's coming around and will be okay Saturday," Hannum said.

Martin couldn't run very well in practice yesterday because of the charley horse suffered late in Wednesday's poorly-played game. He received treatment from Dr. Stan London, team physician, both before and after the workout.

A switching defense on league champion scorer George Yardley worked satisfactorily, Hannum said, but added, "we'll have to play Harry Gallatin closer as well as Shue." Wood River's Gallatin, a 14.9 average point-maker, hit 21.

Hannum said the Hawks made a few changes in their set plays—adjusting to the Pistons' defense—and also worked on a new option play. "We also discussed ways to improve our running game," the coach said. "Our pattern all year has been to run and when our running game is working we win."

"They Pick on Dukes."

Red Rocha, leader of the Pistons, bemoaned his team's deficiency on the boards. "We never should have let them score 114 points," Rocha said of the Hawks, pointing out that St. Louis players sometimes had two and three shots at the basket. The Hawks' rebound edge was 75-66.

Speaking of Walter Dukes, his seven-foot center who is a target of Hawk complaints because of rough play, Rocha said: "He's the most 'picked-on' player in the circuit. Look at the record. He had more fouls called on him (311) during the regular season than any other player. He was ejected from 17 games because of six personals. And he's really a nice guy."

Naturally the Pistons will be trying to stop Cliff Hagan from getting loose after the 38 points he racked up at Kiel. Hagan's season's average against Detroit was 21.7, although in one of 11 games he hit an even 40.

Third Game Here Sunday.

Detroit departed from home yesterday in the private plane of Fred Zollner, the Pistons' owner. The Hawks were to depart early this afternoon on an airliner chartered by Owner Ben Kerner. Tomorrow's game will be televised nationally and carried by KSD-TV, Channel 5, at 1 o'clock.

Both teams will fly back to St. Louis tomorrow for the third game of the series at Kiel Sunday afternoon at 3. Games also are slated at Detroit Tuesday and if necessary at Kiel next Thursday, at Detroit a week from tomorrow and at Kiel a week from Sunday.

Hawk Notes.

Although the Pistons have played only one regular game—a playoff victory over Cincinnati—at the University of Detroit field house, site of tomorrow's contest, they've practiced there all season, Rocha said. He's glad to play the Hawks there. The Hawks haven't even seen the court but planned to work out there lightly tonight.

Many of the Hawks players were baby-sitters last night as the wives had a night out for a stork shower for Mrs. Med Park.

Shue averaged 4.2 a game in his first pro season, 1954-55, with New York, improved to 9.2, 10.9 and all the way to 15.6 this winter. He makes the Pistons run the way Dugie Martin sparks the Hawks running game. Shue is playing with a big knot on one of his fingers of his left hand, the result of what doctors called a "split tendon."

Tigers Change Their Stripe.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Manager Jack Tighe of Detroit was explaining the difference between his pinch hitters last year and this spring. "Last year when I'd look around for a pinch hitter," he said, "they'd be hiding behind the water cooler. This year the pinch hitters parade in front of me all the time so that they can be seen."

Basket Coaches Favor Letting Rules Alone For the Next Season

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 21 (UP)—If the nation's college basketball coaches have their way, the playing rules will remain unchanged next season.

Members of the Basketball Coaches Association, meeting here in conjunction with the N.C.A.A. Championship, recommended no major changes to the national rules committee yesterday.

Several coaches expressed the opinion that because of the numerous rules changes in recent years, a "breathing period" was needed for officials, players and fans to catch up with the rules as they now exist.

The rules committee will hold its annual meeting Sunday and it is expected this group will abide by the coaches' wishes to stick with the current rules.

Cliff Wells of Tulane was elected president of the coaches association. Other officers named were Ev Shelton of Wyoming, first vice president; W. E. Henderson of Baylor, second vice president; Harold Anderson of Bowling Green, treasurer, and Wilbur Stalcup of Missouri, secretary.

The final of the March of Dimes bowling tournament will be held April 12 and 13, it has been announced by the tournament's general chairman, Bernard F. Dickmann. The qualifiers are being determined in a tabulation of the results of the tournament, and they will be notified and assigned a time to compete in the final.

Men who qualify for the final will bowl at the Arena; women are to compete at the Golden Eagle Lanes. Qualifiers will be required to pay the alley fee for their final games. First prize in both the men's and the women's divisions is a new automobile.

The amount raised for the March of Dimes will be announced when tabulations have been completed.

Nashville Five Ends Wayland's Victory String

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 21 (AP) — Nashville, Tenn., and Mount Pleasant, Ia., meet tonight for the championship of the women's National A.A.U. basketball tournament.

Nashville advanced to the final last night with a 46-42 upset of defending champion Wayland College of Plainview, Tex.

It was the first loss suffered by Wayland since Nov. 7, 1953. Wayland's Flying Queens had compiled a record of 131 straight victories and captured the National A.A.U. title four consecutive years.

Nera White paced the Nashville squad. She scored 10 of her team's final 16 points and tallied a total of 20.

Mount Pleasant reached the final with a 52-42 victory over Kansas City Midland.

Sandra Fiete, a substitute for Mount Pleasant's mainstay, 6-3 Barbara Sikes, scored 29 points.

Des Moines won the consolation championship yesterday afternoon, defeating Cleveland, 55-52.

Sloan Upsets Brady In Handball Tourney

CHICAGO, March 21 (AP)—Top-seeded Bob Brady, San Francisco detective, was upset by fourth-seeded John Sloan of Chicago, in yesterday's semifinals of the combined national handball championships.

Sloan, 22, headed for the Army in two weeks, rallied in both games to whip Brady, 21-17, 21-18. Sloan was down 3-12 in the first game and 1-10 in the second.

The other semifinal went to No. 2 seeded Jimmy Jacobs, 27, Los Angeles real estate salesman, who defeated Brooklyn fireman Vic Hershkowitz, seeded No. 3, 21-10, 21-12.

Sloan and Jacobs will meet for the championship tomorrow night in the new glass court at the Aurora, Ill., Y.M.C.A.

In the doubles, top-seeded Sloan and Phil Collins, both of Chicago, defeated Bud Christiansen and Jack Gordon of Chicago, 21-10, 21-7. Sloan and Collins will play Jacobs and Morrie Singer, both of Los Angeles, who eliminated Gus Lewis and Ken Schneider of Chicago, 21-3, 21-16, in the other semifinal.

Australian Girl Sets New World Record

SYDNEY, Australia, March 21 (UP)—Marlene Mathews, a 23-year-old sprinter from New South Wales, smashed the world record for the women's 100-yard dash by winning the Australian national title in 10.3 seconds.

Miss Mathews's performance came over the grass track at the Sydney sports grounds. The old record was 10.4 seconds, set by Marjorie Jackson in 1952 and equalled by Betty Cuthbert three weeks ago. Both girls are Australians and each ran her 10.4 race at Sydney.

Miss Cuthbert ran second to Miss Mathews yesterday, with Wendy Hayes third. Each was clocked in 10.4.

Miss Mathews once held the women's world record of 57.0 seconds for the 440-yard dash. During the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne, she finished third in both the 100- and 200-meter dashes. Miss Cuthbert won each race.

Badminton Exhibition.

Hugh Forgie and Stig Larson, who are featured in a badminton-on-ice skit in the Ice Capades at The Arena, will give an exhibition this afternoon in the Women's Building Gymnasium at Washington University. The show, starting at 4:15, is sponsored by the Women's Physical Education Department at Washington U.

URBAN LEAGUE HEAD ON CITY'S PROBLEMS

Needs and demands of jobs, housing and welfare service for the 100,000 Negroes added to St. Louis's population since 1950 are not forthcoming, and the city pays for the resulting problems created, M. Leo Bohanon, executive director of the Urban League of St. Louis, said last night.

Bohanon, who presented the organization's report at its annual meeting in Kiel Auditorium Opera House, said 40,000 of the additional newcomers since 1950 are from Southern rural and urban centers.

The problems of indigency, child welfare, delinquency and criminal behavior are increased when the needs for jobs, housing and welfare services are not met, along with the normal adjustment to life here, Bohanon asserted. The city pays for these problems in terms of money and loss of human resources which tend to stultify community progress.

Eli Ginzberg, professor of economics at Columbia University, said Negro parents should encourage their children to take full advantage of all educational opportunities and training available. He was a member of a panel which discussed "Negro Youth, Its Potential and Its Promise."

Parents must assume their responsibilities, Ginzberg said, and have to help in providing guidance to youths, especially those coming from the South.

Another panelist, Julius A. Thomas, director of industrial relations of the National Urban League, said the time was coming when the nation would have some maturity, and the matter of race, religion and nationality would have no bearing on the social and economic life of this country.

Irvin Sobel, member of the local Urban League board and professor of economics at Washington University, said the term minority as used today indicates that one group is being given less than its full citizenship rights. He said the conditions of unemployment among Negroes would get worse before they were better because of the failure of the community to practice industrial democracy.

The Rev. Allen Hackett, pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church, and former president of the Metropolitan Church Federation, received the league's 1957 achievement award at the meeting for "opening the doors of the church to all people." Elected new board members were: J. Claybourne Bush, Major B. Einstein, William Stix, Miss Frances Williams, Mrs. Lois Lindel, Ralph Wardlow, Bishop Glennon Flavin and Harry B. Wilson.

The jewelry stole nincluded two two-carat women's rings, valued at $3050 and $2500 and a woman's platinum, diamond-studded wristwatch worth $2500.

Iranian Pipeline Opened.

TEHRAN, March 21 (AP)—The Shah of Iran last night inaugurated a $30,800,000 pipeline linking the Abadan oil fields with Tehran. The 740-mile line will supply the capital with 1,200,000 tons of oil products annually.

KHRUSHCHEV SAYS WEST PROLONGS ARMS BUILDUP

MOSCOW, March 21 (AP)—Nikita Khruschev told a Kremlin military reception last night that the Soviet Union can see no desire on the past of the West to end the cold war arms race.

"That is why we need to strengthen the Soviet Union's defensive capacity," the Communist party chief said at a reception for graduates of Soviet air force engineering academies. Most top Soviet political and military leaders attended.

The speech was published today.

Khrushchev said he hoped the western powers would "display common sense by heeding the people's demands" for a halt in the international arms buildup. He assured his audience that the Soviet Union is powerful enough to defend itself against any attack.

Khrushchev repeated his contention that the need for military pilots is decreasing because piloted aircraft are "giving way to rocket aviation techniques."

BIG STORE SALES IN DOLLARS OFF ONE PCT. FOR WEEK

Department store sales in the St. Louis area last week declined 1 per cent in dollar volume as compared with those of the corresponding period a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today.

SHIP SEARCHED FOR BOMB ON WAY INTO NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP) — An anonymous telephone warning that a bomb was about to explode aboard the Panama Line ship S.S. Ancon forced the vessel to anchor today in Gravesend bay for inspection.

The warning was received at 5:47 a.m. by Dan Brigham, New York Journal-American reporter, who immediately notified police.

The caller said he was a waiter in Brooklyn restaurant and had heard four men at a table speak of the bomb on the ship. It was supposed to explode 15 minutes before the ship docked.

The caller also said he gathered from the overheard conversation that the President of Haiti was aboard. Capt. Charles L. Foley of the Ancon said by radiotelephone that this was not true.

The Ancon carried 109 passengers and a crew of 128.

U.S. PAROLE BOARD REFUSES TO FREE DAVID GREENGLASS

WASHINGTON, March 21 (UP)—The United States parole board refused today to free David Greenglass, a member of the Rosenberg atom spy ring.

Greenglass, who has served seven years of his 15-year sentence, became eligible for parole April 5, 1956. Three previous applications were rejected.

CUBA POSTPONES PRESIDENTIAL VOTE UNTIL FALL

HAVANA, March 21 (AP)—With the suspension of constitutional guarantees limiting campaigning, the Supreme Electoral Tribunal last night postponed Cuba's presidential election from June 1 to Nov. 3.

President Fulgencio Batista, who is backing former Premier Andres Rivero Aguero to succeed him next Feb. 24, has promised repeatedly to hold the elections. The small legal opposition parties favored a delay in balloting because of the suspension.

Constitutional guarantees were suspended last week as part of the fight against rebel Fidel Castro's guerrillas. The action prevents candidates from holding campaign meetings.

By the United Press.

The government ran its own radio news program off the air today for violation of censorship regulations.

The Ministry of Communications suspended the broadcasts of spokesman Luis Manuel Martinez for 15 days for "infractions of the law governing radio transmissions."

Minister Alberto Garcia Valdes said his action was "a demonstration before public opinion of the true spirit of impartiality."

Two rebels were killed and a policeman seriously wounded in suburban Miramar last night, police reported.

Police said one of their patrol cars tried to stop a suspicious automobile. One of the occupants of the private car threw out a hand grenade and the car sped away.

The patrol car gave chase, and the shooting started. It ended at a guard fence at an amusement park with the rebels dead and the policemen wounded. A third rebel was wounded but got away.

STUDY TO MAKE A STUDY—It is common practice in the Pentagon to duck difficult decisions by referring them to committees for further study. Assistant Defense Secretary Paul Foote has now gone one step further. He has appointed a committee to study whether to make a study.

"The absence of any striking effects which could be blamed on this increased radiation should therefore allay any exaggerated fears about greatly delayed effects of low intensity irradiations.

"In this point as in other points of Fowler's criticism, Dr. Fowler wants to eliminate from the discussion anything but precise scientific data. He is doubly mistaken. Common observations have a great deal of value and furthermore in the most rapidly growing branches of science (radiation biology is one of these) some of the most relevant scientific data are not yet solid."

PROGRESS REPORTED ON LUTHERAN UNITY

CHICAGO, March 21 (AP)—A 46-man Lutheran Unity Commission has resolved two major issues holding up merger of four Lutheran church bodies into a single 3,000,000-member church.

The commission, made up of leaders of the four groups, adopted resolutions yesterday concerning the ministry and seminary control. The resolutions still must be acted on by the individual church bodies.

One resolution approved a compromise plan for theological education giving the central church body a stronger voice in operating the 13 seminaries of the proposed new church. Broad powers and duties would be assigned to a board of theological education.

The second resolution said that ministers ordained by the new church "shall refrain from membership in secret societies or be subject to discipline." This would bar a minister from belonging to lodges.

Still to be resolved are the questions of geographical boundaries of the synods, working out the broad principles of organization and determining the powers and functions of the officers and executive body.

Groups involved in the merger plan are the United Lutheran Church in America, with 2,335,000 members; the Augustana Evengelical Lutheran Church, with 557,000; the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church, with 36,000, and the American Evangelical Lutheran Church, with 22,000.

The commission is holding a three-day series of meetings aimed at writing a constitution for a merged church.

LONDON HERALD SAYS LLOYD IS GOING TO RESIGN

LONDON, March 21 (UP)—The Daily Herald (Labor) said today British Foreign Secretary Selwin Lloyd wants to resign and Prime Minister Macmillan will accept his resignation "with relief."

The Herald said "drastic changes in the cabinet are now certain in the near future." The days of Mr. Selwin Lloyd are numbered." It added that a statement from Macmillan is expected "very soon."

The paper said Lloyd was conscious of "bitter criticism" from both sides of Parliament. It speculated his successor may be Home Secretary R. A. Butler or Defense Minister Duncan Sandys.

Quest for Queen By Iran's Shah

By George Weller

NICOSIA, Cyprus, March 21.

THIS IS THE WEEK when Iran's Shah, at the age of 38, starts looking for his third Queen in his 16-year-reign. The divorce finalized last weekend from his tulip-faced wife Soraya has sent the slim, athletic Shah Mohammed Riza Pahlevi into the strangest marriage market in the Middle East. Its rules are:

THE SHAH OF IRAN . . . HE CAN'T MARRY A KAJAR.

- The lady must be Moslem and, if possible, Persian.
- She must give him a crown prince.
- She must not be a Kajar.

This last condition, oddly enough, is the hardest to fulfill. Not marrying some Kajar or other is almost as hard for the Shah as not marrying a Mormon girl in Utah.

Teheran is full of lovely, nubile, educated and ambitious girls eager for the double crown of throne and motherhood. But they are nearly all Kajars. Kajars were Iran's ruling dynasty from 1747 until 1925 when the present Shah's father overthrew them. Remove Kajars from Iran's social register and it would be as thin as a menu cover.

The Shah must turn his eyes away from all these beauties because the constitution forbids him marrying them. The Shah's father, a Cossack officer who usurped the throne and modernized Iran by dictatorship, always feared that the huge Kajar family network would end by strangling his new-born dynasty.

The elder Shah foresaw that the wily Kajars would approach, not through revolution but through the bedroom. To demonstrate his powers, he himself married an extra Kajar and begat the Shah's two younger brothers, 34-year-old Gholam Reza and 32-year-old Abdor Reza Pahlevi. But at the same time he excluded them from the throne.

SORAYA'S LAST PATHETIC EFFORT to save marriage and throne was her proposal from Switzerland that these two half-brothers should be designated as heirs. This step would have relieved her of the psychic burden of sterility and ended the dynastic questions.

But the Shah's father's advisers, playing the stern role of Stanley Baldwin in Britain's Windsor episode, ruled that Soraya must go, so that the Shah can have a non-Kajar son.

Ironically enough, nobody around the Pahlevi dynasty seems to fear Kajar men. This is because most are playboys, unlike the earnest, go-getting Pahlevi progeny. Well-heeled and Western-educated, most princes of the fallen dynasty have specialized in dating American secretaries from the United States Embassy, liking their sprightly starched independence. A leading Kajar, who might have been in line for the throne if the Pahlevis toppled, even married an American girl and had two children before they were separated.

What makes Kajar girls extra hard to avoid is that many of Teheran's incandescent beauties are legally members of this dangerous family, enough though their names are different.

BESIDES THE KAJARS THEMSELVES, there are the Farouz family who are also former royalty. Equally necessary for the Shah to shun are the Farman-Farmyan family — their name means chief of chiefs — who were hereditary prime ministers and could pinch-hit as shahs.

This last family is especially necessary for the Shah to avoid because, according to their family traditions, the Shah's common-born father ended their lives by injecting air into their veins, Persia's equivalent of hemlock.

It was this necessity of running away from Kajar women that sent the Shan to Egypt to marry Farouk's elder sister Fawzia and then into Iran's northern desert to marry Soraya, half-German daughter of the famous desert tribe of Bakhtiari.

His projected visit to the United States in May arouses some hope that he may find his bride in society which though scarce in Moslems and beset by cadgers, is free of Kajars.

The Timid Child

VERY YOUNG CHILDREN shy away from strangers and cling to their mothers and before long their mothers try to get them to go to their aunts and uncles and grandparents. If the children see them often they will, in time, go to them without too much fuss, but if their visits are few and far between they remain strangers and the little one refuses to go to them.

There are some people who resent this in the children and make unpleasant remarks about it. "Funny. Mary's child comes right to me. The minute I get to the house her arms are out. She's such a bright child." "Pity that he can't make friends, isn't it?" "You ought to try to make him more outgoing, Marie. If he grows up so shut in he won't get anywhere in this world. You have to push these days."

SUCH REMARKS do get under a mother's skin, and if she is not firm in her faith in the growth of her child, she may try to force him into meeting people without shying away from them and crying. That would be too bad. The best way to teach children to meet friendliness with friendliness is to wait until they are sure, by experience with friendly people, that they will be safe with them as they are with their mother. That takes time, sometimes a couple of years, but it is worth waiting for.

This timidity in children usually passes early so that by the time they are ready for school, it is well under control. At least most of them, while cautious in meeting the teacher, will not back away and cry. But some do. Then we have some difficulty in reaching them and building up their faith in us.

Experiences with the people they meet in their infancy have much to do with the fear or the courage with which children meet strangers and new situations. If these have been pleasant, if no crisis arose in such associations, the children are likely to grow more and more secure in the presence of the unfamiliar, people or situations. If they have been unhappy experiences, naturally they are likely to feel afraid and retreat.

OCCASIONALLY there is a child who, as far as anybody know, has had no unpleasant experiences with people and yet retreats from them. Any meeting with strangers is painful. When they enter school this shyness is a great handicap. It amounts to fear and they shrink from any situation that might make them conspicuous. They hate to have to say their names aloud. They whisper any reponse they are forced to make. Only gentle affectionate and very patient treatment helps these children. I've known a teacher to have to wait a whole term to see this sort of child smile and speak above a whisper. But he did at last and went on happily. Do try to be gentle with all little children.

He's World's Fastest Spinner on Skates

Ronnie Robertson, Who Whirls So Fast He's a Blur to Audience, Making It Pay Off at Bank

RONNIE ROBERTSON, STAR OF THE ICE CAPADES NOW AT THE ARENA, AT THE CONCLUSION OF HIS SPIN. HE REVOLVES AT FOUR TURNS A SECOND AND CAN DO IT FOR 35 SECONDS.

ROBERTSON IN HIS DRESSING ROOM, SURROUNDED BY HIS SKATING COSTUMES. HIS ACT IS SHOWMANSHIP COMBINED WITH TECHNIQUE—BUT THE TECHNIQUE IS THAT OF A CHAMPION.

By John Keasler

Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

A SLIGHT BUT POWERFUL young skater named Ronnie Robertson, poised on the tip of one ice skate, spins around faster than any other person in the world.

In pursuing a course of inquiry aimed at learning how he came to reach this particular destiny, I ventured the would-be witticism that he did it with mirrors, a bit of drollery which went over like a stucco sailplane.

"Some people say that and really mean it," he explained. Once, for instance, in Los Angeles, a gent walked up to Ronnie, buttonholed him and stated:

"I have been arguing with my wife that you don't really spin that way—that it's a trick. What about it?"

"We do it with mirrors," wearily replied Ronnie.

"See?" the man said triumphantly to his mate, and strode away satisfied—one of nature's most paradoxical creatures, a Southern California skeptic.

Robertson does it not with mirrors but as the result of some of the most rigorous training, painstaking study and purest talent any champ has brought to any sport. He has even studied aerodynamics, thinking of himself as an inanimate flight surface—the very air (the brake) his foe.

He is a former Olympic star, who at the age of 20 has for several years been called by many the greatest free-style skater in the world, and who is the show-stopping star of the Ice Capades appearing at the Arena through Sunday.

And how did he get to be a star?

"Doctor's orders, indirectly," he said.

He was a sickly kid, prey to every microbe that came down the pike. "Exercise," the doctor said to his parents. "Ice skating, maybe."

At first Ronnie didn't like ice skating. When he changed his mind he did so thoroughly and raced into it with an unswerving dedication.

As a result he has become exceedingly healthy, relatively wealthy—and he was already pretty wise. The young man in a spin has refused to let show business fame or little matters like his $100,000 contract turn his head. Even as a teen-ager he started investing in real estate and blue-chip stocks. He is his own manager and agent.

He brings to his performance the free-wheeling, hell-for-leather grace and flamboyance that tells the most popcorn-preoccupied balcony spectator that here is one of the breed producing the aura of champion. He is an ice skater. Like Mantle is an outfielder.

Whirling, turning, leaping, he is swift and shadowlike, elusive as a politician's meaning; darting like a needlefish, and like all pros, making it look easy.

Much of the technical greatness, of course, is lost on the average spectator, although they sense it is there. Showmanship must be combined with the technique, even though Ronnie admits he was horrified when John H. Harris, Ice Capades owner and a showman from showmanburg, first commanded him to do a "shoot-the-duck."

"A shoot-the-duck is the first thing any kid learns on ice," Ronnie said. "You just squat down and stick one leg out in front of you and glide. Not like a double axle, which takes years to perfect. But Harris thought it was great.

"I figured I would leave it out, but that night Harris showed up and glared at me from the wings. So I had to do it. And you know what? I got a tremendous hand!" Ronnie shook his head. "It just goes to show you . . ."

However, in the spin that climaxes his performance, Ronnie has a bit which combines the best of showmanship and the best of technique.

Quite literally, he blurs before the eyes of the spectators.

He is revolving at four turns a second, standing like a gyroscope, balanced precisely on a quarter-inch of steel. By timing with motion-picture cameras, his speed is said to have been estimated to reach 120 miles an hour. He can do this for 35 seconds.

The tremendous surge of energy necessary comes from rigorous, undeviating training. Even more than the physical stamina required is the absolute need to avoid a mental letdown — it could cut into the performance time and perfection.

Consequently, he leads a training life—and this show is on the road more than 10 months a year—which makes the average in-training athlete look like Falstaff on New Year's eve.

Diet is high protein, mainly steak; low starch, no backsliding in the sweets department. "I watch the girls in the show eating desserts, which I love," he said mournfully, "and I drool. But, I've found, if you're not right at the peak it's no go."

"A technical question," I said. "After you are through spinning, why is it you don't fall on your face?"

"Because," he said, "the facility is built up over the years—first it was a few turns, then more, faster, more and faster."

The necessary equilibrium evolves, although no telling how the inner ear reacts. (One star skater, a great spinner, lost the hearing in one ear as a result, Robertson said: The spinning aggravated an ear infection.)

In detail, Robertson has studied flight theory, streamlining procedure, down to the point of learning precisely what each of his arms, legs, hands weigh individually. Pushing off with one foot, he is in as perfect a vertical line as possible, actually "drawing himself in" as much as he can.

And, zoom—he's a pinwheel.

"How long do you plan to keep this up?"

"Until 1961," said Robertson. "Then I plan to go into business."

He hasn't decided definitely what kind of business—but feels he has plenty of time, meantime alternating between blurring other people's vision and keeping a close eye on the investment situation.

For a fleeting instant we imagined some reporter many years from now interviewing a tycoon-type Ronnie Robertson and asking the standard question: "Sir, how did you get your start."

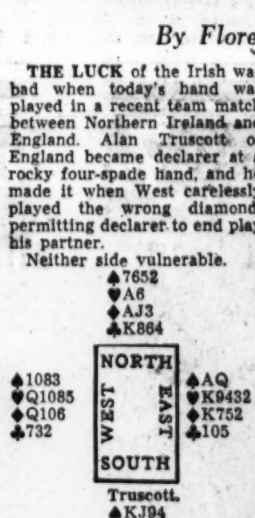
"Well," the magnate says, "First I stood up on one skate like this, and then . . ."

The Bridge Deck

By Florence Osborn

THE LUCK of the Irish was bad when today's hand was played in a recent team match between Northern Ireland and England. Alan Truscott of England became declarer at a rocky four-spade hand, and he made it when West carelessly played the wrong diamond, permitting declarer to end play his partner.

Neither side vulnerable.



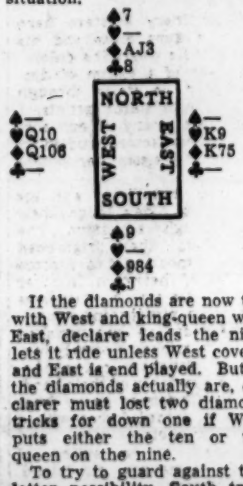
The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1♥	Pass	Pass	Dble.
Pass	2♠	Pass	3♠
Pass	4♠	Pass	Pass
Pass

West opened the five of hearts and declarer, placing most of the missing high cards with East on the bidding, saw a change for game on an end-play if West held the ten of diamonds. There were four losers—a spade, a heart and two diamonds—but if declarer could draw trumps and eliminate hearts and clubs as exits for his opponent, he could next lead a diamond, covering West's ten with the jack and losing to the queen. East would then have to lead away from the king of diamonds, giving declarer two diamond tricks, or play a heart, permitting South to discard a losing diamond and ruff in dummy.

West could kill the proposed end play by getting in to lead a premature diamond, so declarer ducked the opening lead to prevent West from winning a later second round of hearts with the queen. As the diamonds are actually placed, however, the end play fails against proper defense and West correctly continued a heart to dummy's ace at trick two; a diamond lead will cost him a trick.

Declarer led a spade from dummy, taking East's queen with the king, entered dummy with a club and led another spade, losing to the ace. He won the club return in his hand, drew West's spade ten with the jack and led a third round of clubs, leaving this situation:



If the diamonds are now ten with West and king-queen with East, declarer leads the nine, lets it ride unless West covers, and East is end played. But as the diamonds actually are, declarer must lost two diamond tricks for down one if West puts either the ten or the queen on the nine.

To try to guard against this latter possibility, South tried to fool West by leading the eight, and it worked. West, placing the nine with his partner, carelessly played the six and the eight drove out East's king. Now South won the rest of the tricks on the resulting end play, losing a heart, a spade and only one diamond trick.

Civil Rights Issue in New York

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, March 21.

I AM GLAD that Gov. Averell Harriman and the Democratic leaders in the New York State Legislature have called on the Republicans to join in passing the bipartisan Metcalf-Baker Fair Housing Practices bill.

This is the only major civil rights proposal before the Legislature this year, and I am sure all members of minority groups and liberal citizens generally are looking to our representatives to extend New York's fine tradition of leading the nation in the field of civil rights.

The bill would ban discrimination in the sale of private homes in developments of 10 or more, and in apartment house rentals. This means that a person's character and credit rating—not his religion, race, or national origin—would be the legal standard under which he could obtain shelter for his family.

The Sharkey-Brown-Issacs law, already passed by New York City, makes these standards applicable within the city limits. It is important that this protection be extended to the entire state.

We cannot expect the South to take the necessary steps to comply with the Supreme Court order on desegregation of schools if we do not take the one step incumbent on us and get rid of hampering restrictions under which one section of our population is unable to live in decent conditions at reasonable prices.

Love Idyl in the Midst of War

IT HAS BEEN CHARGED, and probably will continue to be charged, that in their huge production of "A FAREWELL TO ARMS," now appearing at the ST. LOUIS THEATER, producer David Selznick, director Charles Vidor, and scriptwriter Ben Hecht missed the point of the Ernest Hemingway novel, that of two people gallantly in love tossed like helpless chips in the futile and savage maelstrom of war. In other words, that the stupidity of war overwhelms the individual in his finest aspirations, and there is no escape from it.

There is something in this criticism, true. Vidor and Hecht have concentrated so strongly and vividly on the love affair between an American ambulance driver in the Italian army and a British nurse, that the war, instead of overwhelming them with its horror and terror and forcing their love to be a hurried, desperate, completely hopeless affair, is usually far in the background of their earthy and passionate idyl, remote and of no particular force until the young lieutenant's desertion in disgust forces them to flee to Switzerland. The war is rather a propellent to the affair. The lieutenant's wounding in an Alpine campaign throws him into a hospital and the nurse's arms. The retreat at Caporetto brings him back to her again in an unshaven and exhausted condition.

But, having made the point, the picture ought to be considered on its own merits. And that is as a bold, forceful and extremely powerful and tearingly poignant exposition of what becomes a bitterly sweet and tragic love in which all the fates seem remorselessly against the struggling lovers.

VIDOR AND HECHT have forged this in broad and pungent strokes. Although the terribly ironic havoc of war isn't made as corrodingly evident as it might be, the war sequences are filmed with sweep and grandeur. The views of long lines of Italian soldiers toiling up the roads of the snow-white mountains like ants are impressive and beautiful in CinemaScope and De Luxe color. The bombardment by the unseen German-Austro enemy, the traumatic shock of explosive, is terrifyingly real. The panicky retreat after the disaster at Caporetto, the callous cruelty in forcing the medical people to run off and leave the helpless wounded to the mercies of the German bombardment, the hysteria, fright and miseries of the refugees and disorganized soldiery and some of the grim humor, the irrational savagery of lining up and shooting some of the retreating officers after drum-head courts-martials, the overwhelming fatigue and disillusion, are all caught in graphic muscular picturization.

Mr. Vidor could not be accused of subtlety in the love affair, it is true. He makes it perfectly evident, almost by pictorial signposts, what is going on between Rock Hudson as the American lieutenant and Jennifer Jones as the British nurse. But although the sensuality is stressed, it is also evident that these people are sweetly and deeply in love. The air of inevitable doom hangs darkly over them even in their most joyful moments in the bright frosty air of Switzerland awaiting the birth of their baby. The long child-birth scene in which Catherine dies after giving birth to a dead baby is one of the most agonizingly harrowing scenes I have ever witnessed on the screen. If you want realism, that is it. It is a question whether some spectators can stomach this shattering assault on the emotions. But there is a tremendous impact of the blows of blind tragedy on some brave and helpless lovers.

The acting of Miss Jones and Mr. Hudson carries conviction. The neurotic quality of Miss Jones's characterization is a portent of lurking doom. The fresh simplicity and cheerful strength of Mr. Hudson's early work provides an air of trust and faith which is to be so badly shattered. Vittorio DeSico gives an excellent account of Major Rinaldi, the ebullient surgeon finally wearied and destroyed by war (Major Rinaldi met his fate in a venereal disease in the book; here it is by a firing squad.)

Imaginative, Beautiful — and Murky

You can't say that Orson Welles didn't try with his picture version of Shakespeare's "OTHELLO," now at the APOLLO. Matter of fact, he tried too hard. He made it in ancient castles and squares of Venice, and beach towns of North Africa to simulate the Cyprus setting, and photographed it beautifully, sometimes stunningly in black and white. The opening scene, before the titles, of the funeral of Othello and his Desdemona in silhouette, while Iago is dragged high in his cage onto the battlements for the vultures to pluck, has an awesome grandeur. He has translated Shakespeare into terms of a visual effect, and the shadowy beauty, the odd closeups and bizarre angles are often striking.

But with his shadowy photography, Mr. Welles has also given us a murky drama. He has ripped huge chunks of verse and prose dialogue in this 92-minute version, and both in the often muffled, unintelligible or thrown-away delivery of lines and bad editing, has lost clarity. Half the time you wouldn't, unless previously familiar with the play, know what was going on. The shots are choppily juxtaposed so as often to be confusing. Mr. Welles, who, of course produced and directed, couldn't keep his camera still. It is always sweeping battlements and skies for effect, leaving the drama behind it. You have to grant him an effective smothering scene with Desdemona and another one in the farewell "loved not wisely but too well" soliloquy, and vaulting imagination. The film is ten times better than his "Macbeth" fiasco. Too bad someone didn't bring him back to earth occasionally, to "the play's the thing."

As the noble Moor consumed by jealousy, Mr. Welles has some good moments of dark passion and tearing doubt, but the staccato style of the picture hardly allows a sustained performance and he tends to rattle off his minor lines. Michael MacLiamoire makes an excellent, fully developed Iago, and Suzanne Coutier a beautiful and sensitive Desdemona. The film, completed almost three years ago, is belatedly showing here.

International Marital Spat

"THE LADY TAKES A FLYER," at the FOX is the old improbable marriage-spat comedy hypoed and enlarged to take in the globe from Tokyo back to California and over to London. Means: make the couple partners in an air-ferrying service that delivers planes all over the world. Make them Lana Turner, still trim and beautiful enough to look like a girl, and Jeff Chandler, with glamorously white hair contrasting with strong suntanned features.

Make all the obstacles to their marital success as artificially fabricated as you can. Such things as Lana getting mad because her husband on Christmas is delayed from coming home by busted carburetors or some other tiresome thing, and jealous because he has another woman pilot in his outfit just as beauteous as Lana.

That's an improvement over the husband coming home late from the office Christmas party with lipstick from the office femme fatale on his collar.

But rely, too, on standard gags such as the mere father being helpless in handling a baby. And top it off with a dramatic ending where the couple is brought together because Lana, having stolen a P-51 in California, crashes her plane in a British fog and is presumed to be dead. That is quite a long way to go to in resolving a trifling domestic spat, but they do it. Shows how the world is growing. The three-act living room domestic innocent misunderstanding comedy is expanded to international size.

The Day Christ Died

Jesus Mocked By the Guards

The sadistic guards beat Jesus and mock Him as He waits in custody for the formal sentencing. When the Sanhedrin again views Jesus, His face is gashed and swollen and the pain of His injuries is so severe that He can no longer stand erect. The twelfth installment appears below:

By Jim Bishop

5 a.m., April 7.

IN THE COURTYARD a few timid priests came close to Jesus and asked Him an old and familiar question: "From where do You derive Your power?"

Jesus did not answer. He stood tall, looking over their heads as though not seeing them. His hands were bound behind His back and His feet were spread slightly apart. Some of the priests studied Him closely now, and in all sincerity they could not see what there was in Him that attracted so many of the people.

But they were afraid that at any moment something magical would happen, like flames leaping out of the flagstones, or unheralded claps of thunder. When nothing happened, they wore expressions of disgust and said "Vah!" and walked away.

The guards were angry because Jesus had not answered any of the questions asked by the priests. It showed lack of respect. So they asked a few questions on their own, and when no answers were forthcoming they slapped Him and repeated the questions. They took turns standing before Him, and the stinging slaps spun His head to the left and again to the right.

Then someone in the group had a more amusing idea. He got a cloth and blindfolded Jesus. The guards danced around Him, cuffing His face and simpering: "Act the prophet, please. Who is it that struck You?" They called Him cruel names. And obscene names. He tired before they did. His knees began to buckle, so they held Him up until He was strong enough to stand alone. Then they beat Him again.

They knew that they were doing nothing reprehensible because this prisoner had already been condemned to death by the Great Sanhedrin, and from experience they knew that a condemned prisoner was legitimate prey for the sadistic pleasures of the guards. So long as He was conscious at the time of stoning or strangling or crucifixion (how He would die had not yet been determined), no one would be reprimanded.

Their game continued until word came out that the high priest expected to take the prisoner to the temple shortly after dawn. So the guards got some water and used the blindfold to wipe the face of Jesus. If He was going to the temple, they did not want Him to excite the pity of the morning worshipers

"THE MOCKING OF CHRIST," A WOODCUT BY ALBRECHT DUERER.

The first pale flush of pink was over the courtyard when Jesus was able to stand by Himself. The stomach blows bothered Him, because He shuffled around the fire, bent over and hobbling, and He could not seem to stand up straight.

A Levite with temple duties stood on the highest pinnacle of the temple. He faced east and watched the morning sky come alight, its first pale greens and reds changing to yellows and bands of unbelievable pink. The colors fused and spread over the dome of the sky until, at last, the dedicated sentinel saw the sun's first touch of light on a mountain.

He cupped his hands and called down: "The morning sun shineth already!" Far below, the ranking priest called back the ritual question: "Is the sky lit up as far as Hebron?" This was a city 17 miles away. The Levite shaded his eyes and studied the hills to the south, and looking beyond Bethlehem he saw the reflected brightness of the walls of Hebron.

Again he cupped his hands around his mouth and called down: "Yes!" At that moment, the daylight hours began for Jerusalem. The time was 5:44 a.m. The priest below turned and clapped his hands. In a court, several priests brought long silver trumpets to their lips and blew three mighty blasts in concert.

Jerusalem began to awaken. Inside the temple, the 50 priests who were assigned to temple duty on this day moved about silently, their bare feet slapping softly against the marble. With many others, they had assembled before dawn in the Hall of Hewn Polished Stone; these were the fortunate, chosen by lot. All duties were assigned by lot, starting with the one most desired: the daily solemn offering of incense.

The man who drew that assignment could never again draw for it. There were middle-aged priests in the group who had never been lucky enough to draw it. Some of the 50 priests then disengaged themselves from the others and went to a special room where the sacrificial lamb for this morning had been kept for four days. He had been examined carefully for blemishes before he had been found worthy of the sacrifice. Now he was examined again.

Outside, the guards opened all the gates of the temple and the people poured in like water bursting through a dam, spreading to all the courts of the temple and cascading up and down the stairs. The men assembled in one court; the women in another. This was the time for morning prayer.

They stood, and each man began by murmuring his sins to Yahweh. Then two sections of Scripture were read, there was a sermon followed by the recitation of the Ten Commandments, and they closed with the singing of psalms.

The sacrificial lamb was given water from a golden bowl. At a signal, priests came into the altar room with the sacred utensils. The lamb was led up to the altar, and there his right forefoot was tied to his right hindfoot. Then the left side was tied. He bleated with fright when his head was forced through an iron ring in the floor. He faced west.

At that moment, two priests solemnly vested entered the holy place and one placed incense in the burners and lit it. The other trimmed the candlestick of seven branches. At the altar, a priest with a shining knife performed the ritual of killing the lamb while another priest caught the blood in a golden bowl and sprinkled it on the altar stone.

In the Hall of Hewn Polished Stone another servant of God, followed by two assistants, took a hammer and struck a solid blow on a huge gong. As the sound reverberated, the priests and the pilgrims met and "fell down before the Lord," and blue clouds of sweet-smelling smoke rose from the holy place and hung in the morning air.

This day began with an old sacrifice. It would end with a new one.

At the home of Caiphas, members of the Sanhedrin met again. The high priest was determined to make Jesus's conviction as legal as possible before he submitted the case to the Roman Procurator. This time the court would confirm its verdict in the first light of day and in the holy temple itself.

Any judge who had the slightest qualms about the possibility of Jesus being the Messiah had only to walk over to the corner of the courtyard where He stood and look at Him. He was not Godlike. He was manlike, and currently, a poor specimen of man. His face was gashed and raw and swollen so that purple welts marked His cheekbones, and both eyes were puffed. His hands shook in the fetters and He was bent over like an old man.

No one in the group—except the one or two members who were secret Disciples of Jesus—felt any pity for Him. Pity was an emotion used with economy in that era. One felt pity for a hurt child, and sometimes for a good woman at the point of death. But in a land accustomed to endless plaugues — from locusts to leprosy—one death more or less was not important.

Answers to Medical Questions

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I am troubled by brittle nails. I have tried eating much cheese and drinking at least a quart of milk daily—but no use. Do you have any other suggestions? Sincerely, M.B.

Answer: In a recent study published in the "Archives of Dermatology," Dr. S. Rosenberg and his associates followed the case histories of 50 patients with brittle nails. Within three months, on taking gelatin, 43 of them showed improvement in their nail structure. If it's all right with your doctor, why not try a small package of gelatin daily and see how it works out with you.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I am interested in what doctors now think of the use of drugs like Orinase in treating diabetes. Is it true that they take the place of insulin in all cases? Sincerely, Mrs. C.B.

Answer: I have not had much experience with using drugs to take the place of insulin. However, there have been some good reports. For example, I have just read one condensed from the Canadian Medical Journal and written by Dr. J. B. McHendry and associates. Here are some of the points they make:

Of the 100 cases studied in their group, 60 per cent were considered as successfully controlled; 40 per cent failed to respond adequately.

In the 40-80 age group there is a greater chance of control of diabetes with Orinase.

Orinase should not be used in treating diabetes that has begun before age 20.

If you are of heavy or average build you are more likely to be helped by it than if you are thin.

Don't use Orinase in diabetes which can be controlled by diet.

In general, if you are taking less than 20 units of insulin a day, it is safe to stop insulin altogether and start taking Orinase or similar drugs.

Last, but not least, never try "experimenting on yourself." When you fool around with your blood sugar level without your doctor's supervision, you may be putting your health and life on the line.

'Robin Hood'---A Gay English Western

By William Ewald

NEW YORK, March 21 (UP) OF ALL THE WESTERNS on TV, the one I like best is an English Western called "Robin Hood."

True, "Robin Hood" is not cut from the exact pattern of other TV oaters. In place of sun-boiled prairie and desert, it's set among cool trees. In place of six-shooters and bullets, buffalo, ranches, cavalrymen and guitars, it offers bows and arrows, deer, farms, knights and lutes. In conventional Westerns whisky is the drink; in "Robin Hood" the sauce is ale, mead or wine.

But there are deep similarities between "Robin Hood" and its shoot-em-up cousins in the colonies. Like most Western heroes, Robin stands outside society. He is fearless, kind, level-headed and a dead shot. As in many Westerns, the law—in this case, the Sheriff of Nottingham—is crooked.

What distinguishes CBS-TV's "Robin Hood" from the ordinary run of saddle soap operas is its aura of good humor and tongue-in-cheekness. Ordinarily, TV westerns have an air of solemnity about them. Even their "fun" moments—the drunk thrown out of the saloon, the timid hotel clerk running for cover during a gunfight, the scrawny kid who apes the hero's movements—are rather labored examples of humor.

RICHARD GREENE . . . A PLEASANTLY ADEQUATE ROBIN HOOD.

The ordinary Western hero keeps his guns loose and his lips tight. He wears the dolorous visage of a victim of dyspepsia and he stalks through his role with fierce grunts. I suspect that many of our current Western actors studied in the Johnny Weissmuller School of Drama.

Ah, but not Robin and his merry men. They laugh their way through adversity. The other night, they frightened a phony spook and did some spooking of their own. In other episodes this season, they have engaged in pig feeding experiments to aid an impoverished nobleman, tricked a comely innkeeper's daughter out of becoming a member of their band, saved a Christmas goose from slaughter, joined forces with a bogus medicine man, and frightened off a suitor of Robin's sometime girl-friend, Maid Marian.

As you can see, all of these situations are essentially absurd and it seems to me quite possible that the people responsible for turning out "Robin Hood" may be needling adventure shows generally with this series.

What makes "Robin Hood" credible in spite of its many broad situations is the quality of the acting in this English-made series. Richard Greene, who plays Robin, is only pleasantly adequate, but Alexander Gauge (Friar Tuck) and Archie Duncan (Little John) are players of much skill.

In addition, there are all sorts of actors who zip in and out of "Robin Hood" in large and small parts who are a delight to watch in action. In England, important actors don't feel it is a disgrace to work in small roles and as a result, a show like "Robin Hood" takes on a wonderful gloss in its playing that no other TV series is able to match.

"Robin Hood," I suspect, is watched mostly by the kiddies. But if you're a Western fan with a hankering for the offbeat, or maybe just an admirer of skillful acting, "Robin Hood" may prove a surprisingly palatable dish.

Answer to Question 1.

PROBABLY FALSE. Careful tests of 38 persons in five different areas showed that in some matters they were rigid while in others they were quite flexible. The director of the study felt that ease or difficulty in changing depended, not only on the particular matter involved, but on the way the person happened to feel at the time he was given the chance to change. At any rate, it's important to understand your emotional make-up.

Answer to Question 2.

No, not always. But this is a loaded question. Some of those in trouble you can and should help. Others whom you could not help, could be helped by someone else. Still others, apparently, nobody can help until they can recognize their need for help and accept it. Success in human relations depends largely upon knowing when you can help, and when you should stay out of a situation.

Cowl-Draped Necklines

Cowl-draped necklines are appearing on many late day and evening dresses. Newest idea is to have the drapery moderately low at the front as well as extremely low at the back. This trend suggests the addition of elegant jewelry such as clusters of beads or a heavy, band type of necklace.

Mid-April Wedding For Miss Wallace

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

PLANS have been completed for the wedding Saturday, April 12, of Miss Audrey Faust Wallace to John Fitzgerald Otto, an important social event of early spring. The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Brookings Wallace Jr., will have as matron of honor Mrs. Richard D'Oyly Hughes Jr. (Jane Cochran), who will come to St. Louis from Hawaii where her husband, a lieutenant in the Marine Corps, is stationed. The eight bridesmaids will be Miss Almira Baldwin, Miss Nancy Aitken, Miss Elizabeth Busch, Miss Ann MacCarthy and Miss Katharine Thomas, all of St. Louis; Miss Drew Cherry, Providence, R.I.; Miss Cornelia Lombard, Needham, Mass., and Miss Joan Osborne of Winnetka, Ill.

MRS. HUGHES . . . TO BE MATRON OF HONOR.

Paul Victor von Gontard is to be best man. Ushers will include Lt. Mahlon B. Wallace III, brother of the bride-to-be; Adolphus Busch Orthwein, William J. Phelan Jr., Theodore R. P. Martin, August A. Busch III, William Flynn, John L. Stocker, John G. Rowan, and H. King Carter and John M. McMenamy, Mr. Otto's brothers-in-law. Lt. Martha Carr's OPINION

Today's column is devoted to teen-agers who are invited to submit their problems to Martha Carr.

Dear Martha:

I AM A SOPHOMORE in high school and I'm very much in love with a senior. My girl friend and I chased him pretty near all year and now he won't even speak to us and we don't know what to do. Is there any way we can get him to like us again just as friends? He's a really wonderful person, Martha, but I know he just despises us. He ignores us. I've tried going out with other fellows, Martha, but it won't work. All I can think of is this boy. After he graduates, I won't see him at all. Tell me, Martha, if there's anything I can do.

JUST PLAIN MISERABLE.

Since it just sent him running the other way when you chased him, change your tactics. I don't know whether this will work, either, but if he begins to see you and your friend as nice, courteous girls who can like a boy without running after him, perhaps he will start speaking again. Girls don't have to be mid-Victorian to be polite. Boys want them to be friendly and pleasant and gay, but they don't want to be tracked down by fawning females. If he won't speak, pay no attention to him for the time being, and concentrate on building good reputations as girls who deserve genuine and solid popularity among their teachers as well as the students.

Dear Martha:

I HAVE A PROBLEM. My parents and all their friends call me Michael. I want them to call me Mike because I think it sounds better. Some of the kids are starting to tease me about it. I have asked my parents to call me Mike but they refused. They won't even talk it over with me. What can I do? MIKE or MICHAEL.

Sometimes, Mike, there just isn't anything you can do with parents. They can be as stubborn as anyone else. But, remember, they chose the name, Michael, not the nickname, Mike, for you and that's what they want to call you. So don't try to argue them out of it. What if the kids do laugh a little? Surely they aren't all called by nicknames. Just laugh it off yourself and as long as your own friends call you Mike, don't worry about the more formal folks at home.

Dear Martha:

I HAVE A FRIEND who always wants to bother famous people for an autograph. Whenever any celebrity comes to town, she finds out where he's staying and hangs around the hotel lobby until she can catch him. I'm so embarrassed but she wants me to go with her. What can I do? JANE.

You can always say No, Jane, and in this case it's a good idea. Granted, you don't want to offend her, but neither should she offend your idea of good taste. Celebrities usually are glad to give their autographs to fans, but teen-age girls shouldn't be hanging around for hours in hotel lobbies hoping the famous person will appear.

Write today for Martha Carr's free leaflets of teen games, picnic games and scavenger hunt. Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Clarissa Start

A Two-Dog Family

"WHAT YOU'RE TRYING TO TELL ME," said my neighbor, "is that you're back to two dogs again?"

"Yes," I whimpered miserably, but the sound was drowned out by the miserable whimper of the puppy stranded midway on the basement steps.

CLARISSA START

We didn't plan it this way. The way we planned it was to give away all three of Moonie's unplanned puppies. Had we planned to keep one, we wouldn't have planned to keep a male. How many times have I said, "I'll never have another male dog"? Come to think of it, how many times have I said, "I'll never—" and then gone ahead and let myself be talked into—well, never mind.

We had an applicant to adopt the one female and an applicant to adopt one of the two male puppies. We did some conscientious casework studies of these homes, asking such searching questions as, "You understand now, if you take this puppy you can't bring it back?"

One of the male dogs was big, quiet, docile. The other was little, energetic, the type described as "feisty."

"Isn't he cute? Isn't he cute, mother?" I heard as the smaller pup climbed out of the box tirelessly.

"He's a slipper chewer," was my pessimistic judgment. "I recognize the type."

On the Sunday the adopting families were to call, a near miracle happened. My neighbor's mother stopped by and mentioned that she would like a puppy. I told her we weren't sure. There'd been idle talk about keeping the third puppy. I'd let her know.

The girl puppy's family arrived, a baby in arms, a dog basket and three wriggling giggling boys in the back of the station wagon. (And they say there are no modern heroines.) The male puppy's family arrived, a mother and two big boys. We generously gave them a choice of boy dogs, pointing out that one seemed to have a "great deal more pep" than the other. Secretly I thought if the one remaining dog were the quiet one instead of the slipper chewer, we just might—

They fell in love with the quiet one. Left with him sleeping in their arms. The little one was yapping and yiping and climbing out of the box as we shut the door.

Having read that classic, "Fun With Dick and Jane," I had an inkling as to what our new dog's name might be. To my surprise the new master didn't have a name selected. He had to think it over. Some time later he came bursting into the room.

"I've just thought of a name, a real, good name. A real good, good name."

"Yes?" I braced myself.

"Spot. Just like Dick and Jane's dog."

Yes, neighbors, it is true. We have a second dog. Named Spot. At this stage in his training, he couldn't have a more appropriate name.

Seeing Florida Fast and Furiously

By Leonard Hall

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March 21.

WE HAVE TRAVELED so far, fast and furiously these past few days that when we look back we have the impression of peering into a many-colored kaleidoscope. During these days we have traveled the length of Florida again, from Jacksonville in the northeast corner to Key West. More than this, we have crossed the state again from east coast to west coast and back.

Although the total distance recorded on our speedometer for the week totaled only about 1200 miles, we had shown our Audubon film eight times and enjoyed two days of leisure during which we had only to drive from Miami to Key West. Like the postman who goes walking for his vacation, however, we filled these two days fuller than any of the others.

We seem to arrive in Daytona Beach each season on the trail of 7500 or so motorcyclists who hold their annual regatta here. Although this is one of Florida's most crowded resorts and has a beach equaled nowhere else in the world, I've an idea a motorcycle convention costs the city more in lost tourist business than it brings in and that this is one which the Chamber of Commerce may have regretted promoting.

Now racing on the beaches has been banned, however, and the gathering will hereafter be held elsewhere. It will still leave a community geared to handle a tremendous volume of tourist business, as well as an ever-growing number of permanent residents — many of whom are retired and have come to Florida to live.

Over in the central part of the state is Lake Wales that is perhaps best known for the famous Bok Singing Tower and Mountain Lake Sanctuary, which have some 750,000 visitors a year. Our friend Ken Morrison is director of the sanctuary and we spent an interesting hour with him and his wife Helen, going over the beautifully landscaped grounds with well-developed nature trails and listening to a concert on the great bells played by Anton Breese, the Belgian carilloneur who has been here since the tower was built some 30 years ago. Near Lake Wales we also talked at the Highland Park Florida Club, an interesting resort made up almost entirely of families of the Quaker faith.

Driving from Lake Wales to Tampa and Clearwater, our next ports of call, we stopped for a visit at Cypress Gardens. Like many of the artificial attractions of Florida, this one is beautifully developed and maintained and is operated at a very high level. Its income, moreover, is undoubtedly adequate to keep buildings, grounds and plantings of countless flowers in a state of perfection despite the tremendous number of people who come here every day of the season. The day was brilliantly sunny and the show put on by the Aquamaids on their water skis lived up to all the publicity. Equally beautiful are the gardens of azaleas, camillias and countless other exotic flowers. The place is a photographers' paradise, where each vista has its carefully posed models in colonial gowns, and experts are ready to tell the amateur just where to set up his camera and what exposure to use.

The Tampa, Clearwater, St. Petersburg area is certainly the most highly developed resort section on the west coast and somewhat too crowded for our liking. At Tampa, at the request of our sponsors, we did a TV interview on the program of sports broadcaster Sol Fleishman—and found that the sponsor was the great firm of St. Louis brewers whose ball club trains in this area.

Next day when we went to Clearwater, our first talk was to a group of 850 school children; and afterward we were greeted by our old friends, Howard and Mary Marple, who were vacationing here and whom we had not seen for several years. Then at the evening lecture we found many more Missourians including Dr. D. K. Rose and his wife, Cora Lee, both of them friends of long standing; and the Williffords from Springfield who have been active there for many years in conservation.

Our next stopping point was an entirely new one for us, despite repeated trips that have covered the length and breadth of Florida. This was the off-shore islands of Sanibel and Captiva which are reached by ferry from Ft. Meyers. Because they are so small and are not too easy of access, these islands retain far more of their original flavor than do most resort areas of this state which seems to us to be going through an explosive expansion in both transient and permanent populations. Accommodations on these islands are quite limited, there are few diversions except shelling, fishing, swimming and bird-watching, transportation to and from the mainland ends each afternoon at 5 o'clock. Yet the shell beaches are the most famous in America, the fishing is excellent in season and the bird-life is varied and unusual.

Our hostess at Sanibel was Mrs. E. Ross Mayer who, with her family, built a winter home there in 1919 and so has become—for all practical purposes—a native. The whole island is a bird sanctuary, with a small Federal Wildlife Refuge administered by the Fish and Wildlife Service. But on the beach in front of Mrs. Mayer's home and in the mangrove thickets and lagoon behind it, we saw many species of birds. These included the Wards Great Blue Heron, Little Blue and Louisiana Herons, pelicans, cormorants, gulls and sandpipers of several varieties. A few miles away—out in the Wildlife Refuge—we added the big wood storks, white ibis, osprey, gallinules, American and snowy egrets and many others. Tom Wood, the refuge supervisor, was away doing patrol work in his flying boat, but we visited his wife in their lighthouse home. Our stop at Sanibel-Captiva was far too short and it becomes another of the places to which we will one day return.

"Omnibus" on KSD-TV Sunday afternoon will originate in the Metropolitan Opera House. Leonard Bernstein, recently appointed musical director of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, will give viewers a 90-minute view of opera. Several Metropolitan Opera singers will take part in the program.

Ashley Cowan, who will appear in "Dick Whittington and His Cat" on KSD-TV Sunday, has appeared in 16 feature films and TV roles since his acting debut in 1941, yet never once has he worn street clothes for a role. He has always been garbed in period costumes or uniforms.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

THE FIRST TIME I went into a forest of mighty redwoods in California, I observed with special interest that the trunks were without branches for many feet above the ground. Most of the leaves of a redwood are high in the air.

The only leaves which do good to a tree are those which are reached by sunlight. In any forest—whether made up of oaks, pines or trees of other kinds—there is a struggle for sunshine. The taller a tree grows in a forest, the more likely it is to live.

Q. Is it correct to speak of an evergreen tree as having leaves?

A. Yes, the so-called "needles" on pines and some other evergreens are classed as leaves. Despite their wide difference from the leaves of many common trees, they do the same kind of work.

Q. Do the leaves of plants do all the work of making food?

A. They do most of it, but important work may be performed by other green parts. Cacti and a few other kinds of plants have green stems and branches which do most of the work of making their food.

Q. How many leaves are needed to supply the food material which goes into an apple or peach?

THE STEMS AND BRANCHES OF CACTI PRODUCE FOOD.

A. That is a hard question to answer, since much of the food goes into storage in a tree. In a rough way, we may estimate that two or three dozen leaves work to make food for a peach or apple.

The answer is different for bananas. A tall plant grows up, produces leaves and fruit, then dies down. There may be a dozen huge leaves, or there may be only eight. In any case, a single bunch is produced.

I have observed banana plants which produced less than a dozen bananas in a year. In general, however, a cultivated plant produces at least 50 bananas, and the number in a bunch may reach 150 or more. The food made by one leaf usually is enough to nourish from four to 20 bananas.
